EVERYBODY, except those with something important to do, attended the opening night of New York's million dollar night club, with the looking glass floor. The million dollar part was old, the looking glass dancing floor was new and was about the only new thing that could be done. Women have done everything, except exhibit their charming personalities upside down. The looking glass floor will do that.

ONE million years hence everything thus far written, said, or done by human beings will be cast aside, forgotten, unimportant. Newton's genius for mathematics will rank with a bushman's ability to count five. Shakespeare and Beethoven will rank with the Chinese tom-tom. Children probably will be born knowing more than any living man knows now. What we call history will seem as dull as the records of wolves fighting, or pigs scrambling for swill.

BUT this will not be forgotten. It will be important, while earth lasts. Italian scientists have discovered another of the missing elements, number 61, in the scale of 92 substances that make up all visible creation.

Our ignorance is shown thus: of 1,600,000,000 human beings living, more than 1,500,000,000 don't know that there are such chemical units as elements. Not one human being in a million could name the elements thus far discovered and few know, looking up at the dirigible Los Angeles, that an element recently discovered, helium, keeps the ship floating.

THE prediction that children of the year 1,001,926 will know more at birth than scientists know now, is not rash. Knowledge sticks to us, and is inherited slowly, over thousands of centuries. Lower animals prove it. The mud wasp never taught, never knowing father or mother, knows at birth how to perform a delicate surgical operation on a caterpillar, keeping it alive, but motionless for months, for the next wasp generation to feed upon it. The insects were inheriting knowledge during a million years and more, before men came. Why should not children be born, understanding differential calculus and able to discuss the fourth dimension, intelligently. Already, some children at two years of age excel in certain mental powers of the average men of 50.

GREAT BRITAIN always acting quickly, where trade is concerned makes all arrangements for recognition of Canton as a separate state, independent of Pekin. They have been shooting each other and everybody else including foreigners with British among them. That makes no difference to Britain, where business is concerned.

HUNT FOR MISSING CONVICT RENEWED

PRISON BREAK PROBED AS GUARDS WATCH 12 RECAPTURED 'BAD MEN'

Violation of Gate Rule by Guard is Blamed by Warden

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 9.—Guard George Bennett was responsible for yesterday's break at the Ohio state penitentiary. He was not intentionally responsible but violated a rule of long standing in the institution by having both of the iron gates between the guard room and prison yard open at the same time while admitting visitors, giving the inmates who got away, the opportunity they were evidently waiting for.

Such was the gist of a formal statement made at noon today by Warden P. E. Thomas at the prison.

WARDEN THOMAS DIRECTING QUIZ

Guards Who Were Stabbed or Beaten, Report for Duty Today, Prepared for Investigation to be Made.

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 9.—Governor Vic Donahey may make a personal investigation of yesterday's penitentiary break in which 13 prisoners shot and clubbed their way to liberty, he announced today.

The governor declared he has not yet received any request for an investigation.

Warden Promises Inquiry.

Warden P. E. Thomas, will make a formal report to the governor probably sometime today.

With 12 of the 13 prisoners safely back behind the walls of the institution, a state-wide hunt is on for the missing convict.

Crowded conditions of the prison, together with a violation of the rules, which forbid the opening of both inside gates simultaneously, was blamed today by Warden Thomas for the successful rush of the group of "hard-boiled" prisoners, who wounded two guards and a prison office employe in their break for freedom.

"There will be a thorough investigation by us. There will be other investigations. We will find where the responsibility, if any, is to be placed," said Thomas.

Oliver Glaspy Missing.

Oliver Glaspy, from Athens county, serving a three to 25-year term for criminal assault, was the only missing prisoner today, and authorities throughout the state were searching for him.

Nursing clubbed heads and many suffering with buckshot wounds inflicted when they made their wild dash for liberty, the dozen men, recaptured after two hours of harrassed freedom, were in their cells. Not one was in the hospital. Prison officials declared they were not taking the slightest chance of a recurrence of Monday's riot.

All of the guards who were stabbed or clubbed in the melee in the prison, reported for duty early this

JURY WILL SEE WAX EFFIGY OF SLAIN SINGER

Hall-Mills Case Prosecutor Plans Surprise Move.

STRANGE EXHIBIT

Defendants Will Face Severe Test at Somerville, N. J.

COURT HOUSE, SOMERVILLE, N. J., Nov. 9.—A wax effigy of the late Mrs. Eleanor Mills will be dragged into the court room in the Hall-Mills murder trial this afternoon or tomorrow—before the eyes of the complacent defendants, Mrs. Frances Stevens Hall, and her two brothers, Henry and Willie Stevens, it was learned today as the defense lawyers were centering a savage cross-examination on two fingerprint experts.

The announcement that the wax effigy of Mrs. Mills would be introduced as a court room exhibit was made by Chief of Detectives Patrick Hayes, of Jersey City, one of Simpson's chief investigators.

It is to be the ever-spectacular Prosecutor Alexander Simpson's newest "surprise move."

The effigy purports to show how the choir singer's throat was cut.

In a glass case, the throat of the dead woman will be exhibited to the jury in a wax form.

Fingerprint Experts on Stand.

It will be one of the strangest exhibits ever shown at a murder trial.

It is expected to afford a severe test to the nerves of the defendants, particularly Mrs. Hall, whose view was blocked by her lawyers the other day when they brought in the effects of her slain husband and his paramour.

The defense centered all its guns this morning on two fingerprint experts.

ERNEST STUCIN USES RAZOR IN SUICIDE PLAN AT HIS HOME

SIX-INCH CUT

Demented, it is believed, Ernest Stucin, 35, West Point coal miner, slashed his throat with a razor early today and then walked a quarter of a mile in the heavy rain to the home of William Fife, a neighbor, where he fell exhausted on the door step. He is in a serious condition in the city hospital.

Stucin, his wife and three children went to the home of friends in West Point yesterday to spend the night. Early this morning the husband and father left the house, without attracting attention, walked to his home, about a mile distant, and attempted to end his life.

Wrapping a handkerchief about the wound, about six inches in length, Stucin stumbled to the Fife home, where, weakened from the loss of blood, he fainted after knocking upon the door. He was taken into the house and later rushed to West Point where Dr. William Searles, of Lisbon, attended him. Later in the morning he was brought to the hospital in the Eells ambulance, called from Lisbon.

Forded Beaver Creek.

Friends of the Stucin family said that the man, because of his mental condition, had not been working at the Seager Coal company's mines, his place of employment, for about four days.

Alarmed by his queer actions, Mrs. Stucin persuaded her husband to visit with friends in West Point, where it was thought he could be watched.

Finding the doors of his own home locked when he returned this morning, Stucin entered the place by raising a window. Blood stains on the floor showed that he had cut his throat before leaving the house, then walked across the fields to the Fife house. He had forded Beaver Creek on his way to the Fife home.

At the City hospital he was attended by Dr. Albert Michaels.

Mexican federal troops are in pursuit of the bandits.

Chicago and Other Illinois Cities Shiver as Drifting Snow Strikes Kansas, Iowa and Michigan.

CHICAGO, Nov. 9.—Parts of the middle west were blanketed in snow today as a howling storm, the first of the season, swept in from the Canadian prairies.

Kansas, Iowa and Michigan already have been struck by rapidly drifting snow. Railroad cuts have been reported filled in western Kansas with railroads rushing snow plows to the affected area.

The storm followed balmy Indian summer weather, in which the thermometer hovered well over the 50-degree mark.

A minimum temperature of 25 degrees above zero was predicted for tomorrow in Illinois and adjacent states.

By Wednesday, however, the storm is expected to moderate with unsettled weather predicted.

LOUIS MILLER IS TRAPPED AS FLAMES SWEEP HILLSIDE HOME

Charred Body Found in Ruins by Firemen.

DOG ALSO DIES

Cause of Pleasant Heights Blaze is Undetermined.

Louis Elmer Miller, aged about 56, coal miner, was burned to death when a three room house, owned by James Carns, Pleasant Heights, was destroyed by fire of undetermined origin at 10:30 o'clock last night.

His charred body, with his arms burned away to the elbows and his legs burned to the knees, was found in the ruins by firemen.

Story of Canned Heat.

Miller has been employed by J. L. Smith, Broadway, who leased the mine on the James Carns property, Pleasant Heights hill, just above California Hollow, about two months ago. Previously, he had worked for Carns.

According to Carns, Miller has not been working for a week. He visited the Carns home, nearby, last evening, Carns said, and, about 9 o'clock, started back for his own house. He was accompanied by the two Carns boys, Carl 14 and Alvin 12.

The Carns lads told their father that Miller ignited two cans of canned heat when he reached the house. The flames from the cans, they said, mounted high and, fearing that the house would catch fire they extinguished the blaze with water. They then threw out the cans, and after warning Miller, returned to their homes.

The building was in a mass of flames when Okey Miller, who resides on the hillside, discovered the fire. He awakened the elder Carns, but they were forced back from the blazing structure by the intense heat.

Firemen Recover Body.

Firemen from Central station received the call at 10:45 o'clock, being informed that the blaze was at the corner of Gardendale and Woodbine avenues. Upon their arrival in Gardendale, it was discovered that the

SIX TELLING BLOWS ARE DELIVERED BY STATE IN BAFFLING HALL-MILLS MURDER TRIAL IN NEW JERSEY

BY JAMES L. KILGALLEN.

SOMERVILLE, N. J., Nov. 9.—Six telling blows have been delivered by the state to date in the baffling Hall-Mills murder trial.

It will be a week or ten days before the state will have finished presentation of its case against the wealthy Mrs. Frances Stevens Hall and her two brothers, Willie and Henry Stevens, and not until that time will it be safe to predict whether or not the state's case is strong enough to warrant a conviction.

The six strongest cards played by the state to date are:

1.—The story of William ("Greasy Vest") Garvin, former manager of the Burns detective agency in New York. Garvin swore that Ralph Gorsline, vestryman in the slain Rev. Edward Wheeler Hall's church, came to him "conscience stricken" three weeks after the slaying of the minister and his pretty young singer, Mrs. Eleanor Mills, and told what he observed in De Russey's lane on the night of September 14, 1922. Grosline saw Henry Stevens, he said, in the lane and Stevens plugged a couple of shots at his feet, saying: "Get to hell out of there—this is none of your affair."

Gorsline, a married man, happened to be in the lane that night with a girl. Later he was taken to a lodge room, he said, and warned to "keep his mouth shut."

2.—Robert Erling, a millright, who on the fatal night four years ago was in the "lover's lane" with a girl corroborated the story that has been told by Mrs. Jane Gibson, the state's star witness, to the effect that she was riding in the vicinity that night on her mule "Jenny." Erling saw her as she passed his parked car. Mrs. Gibson is to be on the stand soon to reiterate her story that she saw Mrs. Hall and Willie Stevens at the scene of the crime.

3.—The story of Mr. and Mrs. John S. Dickson, who broke down Willie Stevens' alibi. The Dicksons said that Willie, greatly agitated, called at their house at 8:30 on the evening of the murder, asking his way to the Parker house. Their home in North Plainfield is some ten miles from Willie's home in New Brunswick. Willie claims he was in bed early on the night of the crime.

4.—Fingerprint experts identified the fingerprint on a card found lying near Dr. Hall's body as the fingerprint of Willie Stevens' left index finger.

5.—Mrs. Mary Demarast testified she had seen Henry Stevens in New Brunswick on the morning after the murder. Stevens, who lived in Lavelette, N. J., denied he was in New Brunswick.

6.—The state scored again when Mrs. Damarest told of having seen Gorsline and Mrs. Minna Clark, both members of the church, spying on Dr. Hall and his paramour in the lane on at least two occasions. This point was brought out to implicate Mrs. Hall—to show that the pair were informing Mrs. Hall of her husband's trysts with the young choir singer.

Is evidence of this character going to be strong enough to convict? That is the big question being asked on all sides.

Thirty-odd witnesses for the state have been heard. About 100 had been subpoenaed. The defense plans to put 50 witnesses, including the three defendants, on the stand. It is conservatively estimated that the trial will last at least two weeks more.

LOUIS MILLER IS TRAPPED AS FLAMES SWEEP HILLSIDE HOME

Charred Body Found in Ruins by Firemen.

DOG ALSO DIES

Cause of Pleasant Heights Blaze is Undetermined.

Louis Elmer Miller, aged about 56, coal miner, was burned to death when a three room house, owned by James Carns, Pleasant Heights, was destroyed by fire of undetermined origin at 10:30 o'clock last night.

His charred body, with his arms burned away to the elbows and his legs burned to the knees, was found in the ruins by firemen.

Story of Canned Heat.

Miller has been employed by J. L. Smith, Broadway, who leased the mine on the James Carns property, Pleasant Heights hill, just above California Hollow, about two months ago. Previously, he had worked for Carns.

According to Carns, Miller has not been working for a week. He visited the Carns home, nearby, last evening, Carns said, and, about 9 o'clock, started back for his own house. He was accompanied by the two Carns boys, Carl 14 and Alvin 12.

The Carns lads told their father that Miller ignited two cans of canned heat when he reached the house. The flames from the cans, they said, mounted high and, fearing that the house would catch fire they extinguished the blaze with water. They then threw out the cans, and after warning Miller, returned to their homes.

The building was in a mass of flames when Okey Miller, who resides on the hillside, discovered the fire. He awakened the elder Carns, but they were forced back from the blazing structure by the intense heat.

Firemen Recover Body.

Firemen from Central station received the call at 10:45 o'clock, being informed that the blaze was at the corner of Gardendale and Woodbine avenues. Upon their arrival in Gardendale, it was discovered that the

SIX TELLING BLOWS ARE DELIVERED BY STATE IN BAFFLING HALL-MILLS MURDER TRIAL IN NEW JERSEY

BY JAMES L. KILGALLEN.

SOMERVILLE, N. J., Nov. 9.—Six telling blows have been delivered by the state to date in the baffling Hall-Mills murder trial.

It will be a week or ten days before the state will have finished presentation of its case against the wealthy Mrs. Frances Stevens Hall and her two brothers, Willie and Henry Stevens, and not until that time will it be safe to predict whether or not the state's case is strong enough to warrant a conviction.

The six strongest cards played by the state to date are:

1.—The story of William ("Greasy Vest") Garvin, former manager of the Burns detective agency in New York. Garvin swore that Ralph Gorsline, vestryman in the slain Rev. Edward Wheeler Hall's church, came to him "conscience stricken" three weeks after the slaying of the minister and his pretty young singer, Mrs. Eleanor Mills, and told what he observed in De Russey's lane on the night of September 14, 1922. Grosline saw Henry Stevens, he said, in the lane and Stevens plugged a couple of shots at his feet, saying: "Get to hell out of there—this is none of your affair."

Gorsline, a married man, happened to be in the lane that night with a girl. Later he was taken to a lodge room, he said, and warned to "keep his mouth shut."

2.—Robert Erling, a millright, who on the fatal night four years ago was in the "lover's lane" with a girl corroborated the story that has been told by Mrs. Jane Gibson, the state's star witness, to the effect that she was riding in the vicinity that night on her mule "Jenny." Erling saw her as she passed his parked car. Mrs. Gibson is to be on the stand soon to reiterate her story that she saw Mrs. Hall and Willie Stevens at the scene of the crime.

3.—The story of Mr. and Mrs. John S. Dickson, who broke down Willie Stevens' alibi. The Dicksons said that Willie, greatly agitated, called at their house at 8:30 on the evening of the murder, asking his way to the Parker house. Their home in North Plainfield is some ten miles from Willie's home in New Brunswick. Willie claims he was in bed early on the night of the crime.

4.—Fingerprint experts identified the fingerprint on a card found lying near Dr. Hall's body as the fingerprint of Willie Stevens' left index finger.

5.—Mrs. Mary Demarast testified she had seen Henry Stevens in New Brunswick on the morning after the murder. Stevens, who lived in Lavelette, N. J., denied he was in New Brunswick.

6.—The state scored again when Mrs. Damarest told of having seen Gorsline and Mrs. Minna Clark, both members of the church, spying on Dr. Hall and his paramour in the lane on at least two occasions. This point was brought out to implicate Mrs. Hall—to show that the pair were informing Mrs. Hall of her husband's trysts with the young choir singer.

Is evidence of this character going to be strong enough to convict? That is the big question being asked on all sides.

Thirty-odd witnesses for the state have been heard. About 100 had been subpoenaed. The defense plans to put 50 witnesses, including the three defendants, on the stand. It is conservatively estimated that the trial will last at least two weeks more.

FOR Sour Stomach PHILLIPS' Milk of Magnesia

Hereafter instead of soda take a little "Phillips Milk of Magnesia" in water any time for indigestion or sour, acid, gassy stomach, and relief will come instantly.

Better Than Soda

For fifty years genuine "Phillips Mik of Magnesia" has been prescribed by physicians because it overcomes three times as much acid in the stomach as a saturated solution of bicarbonate of soda, leaving the stomach sweet and free from all gasses. Besides, it neutralizes acid fermentations in the bowels and gently urges this souring waste from the system without purging. It is far more pleasant to take than soda.

Try a 25c Bottle

Insist upon "Phillips." Twenty-five cent and fifty cent bottles, any drug-store. "Milk of Magnesia" has been the U. S. Registered Trade Mark of The Charles H. Phillips Chemical Company and its predecessor Charles H. Phillips since 1875.

A Tax Dividend

The White House spokesman says that President Coolidge expects to ask congress for an immediate tax reduction of 10 to 12 per cent in current federal income taxes.

This is not a reduction in tax rate, applying to next year or any other year. It is a sort of special dividend, a rebate, a bonus—call it what you will. It means that those who paid income and corporation taxes this year will get some of their money back, if the president asks it and congress permits.

This is the same procedure often applied by banks or business organizations when they have an especially good year. They do not raise the dividend or wage rate, lest that be taken as a precedent, and bind them in less favorable years. They let the rate stand, but issue a special dividend to stockholders, pay a bonus to workers, or both.

In whatever form it comes, tax reduction is welcome.

Doctors of Many Kinds

"Treat your banker as if he were the doctor of your business affairs," say the business engineers. "He knows incomes and bank accounts as doctors know bodies. Let him advise you to keep your business well."

Let the insurance man be your doctor," say the insurance people. "He understands the social and economic ills of the people, and should have the same measure of trust as the family physician."

All this is interesting and appealing. But—do people treat their family doctors the way the banker and insurance man want to be treated? Do they call him in once or twice a year to look them and their families over, and ask his advice about keeping well, and then do they follow that advice?

Hardly one in a thousand does that. They wait, and wait, and stave off the evil hour until they are acutely ill, and then it's too late for the doctor to do his best work. He may get the patient on his feet again, but seldom is that patient as well off as if he had been able to avoid the illness in the first place.

If it is a good plan to get into the habit of using the banker and insurance man—and plumber, perhaps—"af if they were doctors," for obtaining and acting upon salutary information and advice, first of all it would be a good plan to treat the doctor that way.

Presidential Firing Power

There is no question that the recent decision of the United State supreme court, upholding the president's power of discharging federal employes, put great power in his hands, which might be abused. The peril, however, has probably been exaggerated.

The power of removal at will is confined to any president's own appointees. That greatly restricts its application and prevents any wholesale turning of public servants out of office for personal or party reasons. A predecessor's appointees cannot be swept out ruthlessly, as they once were. The rank and file of federal employes are protected, as they have been, by civil service rules. Such rules may be extended and tightened at the will of congress.

The decision does give a president power over federal commissions and boards created by congress and, in theory at least, working independently. The interstate commerce commission is a good example. There are numerous bodies of this type whose usefulness is greatly lessened if their members hold their jobs only by grace of the president who appointed them. They will tend to lose their individuality and independence and merely reflect the views of the executive.

Congress, however, presumably has power to remedy this situation if it wants to, and congress will probably want to whenever the need becomes plain.

Our government is one of checks and balances. It is an eternal struggle for power between the executive and legislative branches. Whenever one of them gains undue power, the other always finds, sooner or later, some way to check it and restore a proper balance.

No Youthful Menace

Hubert Work, Secretary of the Interior, addressing a group of students in the University of Kansas, had more words of commendation and praise for the youth of today than of blame and fault-finding.

"I do not believe," he asserted, "that the young people of today are light-headed and a growing menace to our institutions. The many idle young seen in public places are not indicative that there are not greater numbers home-trained and thoroughly employed. The alert intelligence of American mothers has never been so high as now and their influence may be depended upon to sustain in the last analysis. There is less obedience exacted of children through fear of parents, and more from motives born of their companionship."

This is not universally true in America, but it is true to a larger extent than many pessimists imagine. Greater social freedom does not mean greater license where there has been sound home training and where there are wisely directed school interests.

It seems always to be up to the adults of the community to keep the young people in the right paths. Those who do their part in this matter are not out wailing about menacing youth.

My Favorite Stories
By IRVIN S. COBB

THE VOICE OF A HUSBAND

An eastern college professor, on his first visit to Yellowstone Park, attempted to study at close range the grizzly bears that came down the garbage heaps of the Fountain Hotel for their provender. An irritable she-bear, with a cub in tow, resented his scientific curiosity. She hauled off and slapped him about fifteen feet and was preparing to claw him when Mrs. Professor came running up, armed with an umbrella, and by opening and closing it repeatedly, so frightened the lady-bear that she departed without doing any serious injury to the startled investigator.

On the following day two of the cowboys who, in the season, served as park guides, were discussing the affair. Said the first one:

"I claim that was a powerful braye woman, takin' her own life in her hands to save that fool husband of her."

"I don't see nothing' so brave about it," said his friend. "Anybody would do that."

"Like hell they would! Spose'n some bear had your wife down and was fixin' to claw her to death—what would you do?

"Me? I'd give three loud ringin' cheers."

NEW YORK DAYBYDAY
By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—The Lucy Stone league has failed to wither under ridicule. Its members are women who retain their maiden name after marriage. Some are extremely important in arts and letters but there are many others who make the league an excuse to exploit independence.

In several instances Lucy Stoners have faced embarrassing moments by registering at hotels with their husbands under maiden names and in one instance an over zealous house detective requested an eminently respectible pair to depart.

Of course, this can be avoided by using the tactics of Rita Weiman, the writer, and her husband. When they arrive at a hotel the registry shows: "Rita Weiman and Marcus Marks. (Mr. and Mrs.)" There is doubtless some excuse for the Lucy Stoners in a professional way.

Women who have built up a reputation and a following under their maiden name might suffer by suddenly switching to married names. Few for instance would know Fannie Hurst, the novelist, as Mrs. Jaques S. Danielson, and incidentally "the dew is still on the rose" for they continue to maintain separate establishments and martial happiness.

It is pointed out, however, that talented women may change to their husband's names without professional suicide. Minnie Maddern won even greater fame as Mr. Fiske and Kathleen Norris rose to great heights under the patronymic of her talented husband Chas G. Norris.

It is observed that those who cleve so closely to the letter of the Lucy Stone idea are those least known—press agents or occasional contributors to trade magazines. Many actresses are billed under their professional name but prefer to be known privately by the marriage name.

The Lucy Stone league may be a proper procedure for wives to maintain their professional identity but it seems there should be some league to protect husbands of famous women. Even so famous a husband as Alexander Moore was frequently addressed as "Mr. Russell."

A Woolworth Tower elevator operator tells me an average of 20 visitors a day attempt to see the city from that lofty point without paying the 50 cents fee. They ask to be let out a few floors below the top and seek to walk up. It can't be done!

And one is surprised by the number of well dressed men who journey to the theater hatless, quietly edge up to the door and while the ticket taker is engaged give the impression of having just popped out for a breath of fresh air or cigarette before the curtain rises.

Like innumerable New Yorkers—perhaps its senility—I discover I mumble to myself at times. The other day I was indulging this weakness along a hotel hallway when I saw a man in an open doorway. I fooled him by hunting for an imaginary dog to which I had been apparently speaking. Trigger stuff!

It is related that Richard Mansfield used to talk to himself. One day he was mumbling along Herald Square and a pedestrian inquired:

"To whom are you speaking?"

"To a damn smart man," retorted Mansfield.

A new form of night club gyppery is reported in the mad moist canyons. A certain club is no longer depending on the whim of the patron for the size of the hat tip. A fixed charge of 25 cents is made for taking care of the hats and wraps.

HASKIN'S LETTER
By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

The Pure Food Law.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 9.—In the twenty years that the Food and Drugs Act, commonly known as the Federal pure food law, has been enforced, the Department of Agriculture inspectors have investigated 143,579 cases of suspected adulteration or misbranding of food and drug products. The investigations have resulted in court actions in 22,653 cases, and in 14,300 of these proceedings the final decrees have been handed down and notices of judgment issued.

Department officials say, however, that while these figures show decided activity on the part of those charged with the duty of enforcing the law they tell but a part of the story of what has been accomplished in the effort to remedy conditions which the law was enacted to correct.

Perhaps the real achievement has been the gradual conversion of manufacturers to the point of view that the law is not to be regarded as an offensive regulatory measure that hampers and restricts them in their business, but is a benefit and advantage to them. Hence when the usual bill to repeal or amend the law is introduced at the coming session of Congress it will not receive much support unless it is intended to strengthen the law. No movement to break down the law can ever again attain serious proportions, it is declared.

Assistant Secretary of Agriculture Dunlap says he can see the time, and it is not far distant, when the food-and-drug inspector will no longer be primarily a policeman, but will be rather an instructor and specialist in the manufacture of pure and unadulterated foods and drugs. In that capacity the inspector will cooperate with manufacturers who desire to conform with the requirements of the law, and will place at their disposal the accumulated information based upon years of experience which the Bureau of Chemistry in its enforcement work has been able to acquire.

Not an Idle Dream.

"This is no idle dream," Mr. Dunlap told the American Grocery Manufacturer's Association, "for already in many of our industries the inspector is looked upon as a friend and assistant rather than as an enemy or a spy. I am convinced that, by and large, American food and drug manufacturers are honorable individuals, whose purpose it is to give to the consumer his money's worth of pure and wholesome products conforming in every respect to their expressed standards of purity or strength.

"Because of the existence of a specific law covering their products, and also because of the vital character of the products in which they are dealing, from the standpoint of the public welfare, those who purvey foods and drugs are under a peculiarly heavy obligation to exert unusual precautions to produce wholesome, pure, and properly branded articles.

Mr. Dunlap pointed out that in addition to the large number of cases that have been examined by his department, thousands of samples obtained for investigational and research work have been examined in the Departmental laboratories, and the suggestions and advice which the analysts and experts have given to manufacturers have been of questionable benefit to industry. A Tax Dividend

The White House spokesman says that President Coolidge expects to ask congress for an immediate tax reduction of 10 to 12 per cent in current federal income taxes.

This is not a reduction in tax rate, applying to next year or any other year. It is a sort of special dividend, a rebate, a bonus—call it what you will. It means that those who paid income and corporation taxes this year will get some of their money back, if the president asks it and congress permits.

This is the same procedure often applied by banks or business organizations when they have an especially good year. They do not raise the dividend or wage rate, lest that be taken as a precedent, and bind them in less favorable years. They let the rate stand, but issue a special dividend to stockholders, pay a bonus to workers, or both.

In whatever form it comes, tax reduction is welcome.

Doctors of Many Kinds

"Treat your banker as if he were the doctor of your business affairs," say the business engineers. "He knows incomes and bank accounts as doctors know bodies. Let him advise you to keep your business well."

Let the insurance man be your doctor," say the insurance people. "He understands the social and economic ills of the people, and should have the same measure of trust as the family physician."

All this is interesting and appealing. But—do people treat their family doctors the way the banker and insurance man want to be treated? Do they call him in once or twice a year to look them and their families over, and ask his advice about keeping well, and then do they follow that advice?

Hardly one in a thousand does that. They wait, and wait, and stave off the evil hour until they are acutely ill, and then it's too late for the doctor to do his best work. He may get the patient on his feet again, but seldom is that patient as well off as if he had been able to avoid the illness in the first place.

If it is a good plan to get into the habit of using the banker and insurance man—and plumber, perhaps—"af if they were doctors," for obtaining and acting upon salutary information and advice, first of all it would be a good plan to treat the doctor that way.

Presidential Firing Power

There is no question that the recent decision of the United State supreme court, upholding the president's power of discharging federal employes, put great power in his hands, which might be abused. The peril, however, has probably been exaggerated.

The power of removal at will is confined to any president's own appointees. That greatly restricts its application and prevents any wholesale turning of public servants out of office for personal or party reasons. A predecessor's appointees cannot be swept out ruthlessly, as they once were. The rank and file of federal employes are protected, as they have been, by civil service rules. Such rules may be extended and tightened at the will of congress.

The decision does give a president power over federal commissions and boards created by congress and, in theory at least, working independently. The interstate commerce commission is a good example. There are numerous bodies of this type whose usefulness is greatly lessened if their members hold their jobs only by grace of the president who appointed them. They will tend to lose their individuality and independence and merely reflect the views of the executive.

Congress, however, presumably has power to remedy this situation if it wants to, and congress will probably want to whenever the need becomes plain.

Our government is one of checks and balances. It is an eternal struggle for power between the executive and legislative branches. Whenever one of them gains undue power, the other always finds, sooner or later, some way to check it and restore a proper balance.

No Youthful Menace

Hubert Work, Secretary of the Interior, addressing a group of students in the University of Kansas, had more words of commendation and praise for the youth of today than of blame and fault-finding.

"I do not believe," he asserted, "that the young people of today are light-headed and a growing menace to our institutions. The many idle young seen in public places are not indicative that there are not greater numbers home-trained and thoroughly employed. The alert intelligence of American mothers has never been so high as now and their influence may be depended upon to sustain in the last analysis. There is less obedience exacted of children through fear of parents, and more from motives born of their companionship."

This is not universally true in America, but it is true to a larger extent than many pessimists imagine. Greater social freedom does not mean greater license where there has been sound home training and where there are wisely dircted school interests.

It seems always to be up to the adults of the community to keep the young people in the right paths. Those who do their part in this matter are not out wailing about menacing youth.

THE VOICE OF A HUSBAND

An eastern college professor, on his first visit to Yellowstone Park, attempted to study at close range the grizzly bears that came down the garbage heaps of the Fountain Hotel for their provender. An irritable she-bear, with a cub in tow, resented his scientific curiosity. She hauled off and slapped him about fifteen feet and was preparing to claw him when Mrs. Professor came running up, armed with an umbrella, and by opening and closing it repeatedly, so frightened the lady-bear that she departed without doing any serious injury to the startled investigator.

On the following day two of the cowboys who, in the season, served as park guides, were discussing the affair. Said the first one:

"I claim that was a powerful braye woman, takin' her own life in her hands to save that fool husband of her."

"I don't see nothing' so brave about it," said his friend. "Anybody would do that."

"Like hell they would! Spose'n some bear had your wife down and was tryin' to claw her to death—what would you do?

"Me? I'd give three loud ringin' cheers."

NEW YORK DAYBYDAY
By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—The Lucy Stone league has failed to wither under ridicule. Its members are women who retain their maiden name after marriage. Some are extremely important in arts and letters but there are many others who make the league an excuse to exploit independence.

In several instances Lucy Stoners have faced embarrassing moments by registering at hotels with their husbands under maiden names and in one instance an over zealous house detective requested an eminently respectible pair to depart.

Of course, this can be avoided by using the tactics of Rita Weiman, the writer, and her husband. When they arrive at a hotel the registry shows: "Rita Weiman and Marcus Marks. (Mr. and Mrs.)" There is doubtless some excuse for the Lucy Stoners in a professional way.

Women who have built up a reputation and a following under their maiden name might suffer by suddenly switching to married names. Few for instance would know Fannie Hurst, the novelist, as Mrs. Jaques S. Danielson, and incidentally "the dew is still on the rose" for they continue to maintain separate establishments and martial happiness.

It is pointed out, however, that talented women may change to their husband's names without professional sufcide. Minnie Maddern won even greater fame as Mr. Fiske and Kathleen Norris rose to great heights under the patronymic of her talented husband Chas G. Norris.

It is observed that those who cleve so closely to the letter of the Lucy Stone idea are those least known—press agents or occasional contributors to trade magazines. Many actresses are billed under their professional name but prefer to be known privately by the marriage name.

The Lucy Stone league may be a proper procedure for wives to maintain their professional identity but it seems there should be some league to protect husbands of famous women. Even so famous a husband as Alexander Moore was frequently addressed as "Mr. Russell."

A Woolworth Tower elevator operator tells me an average of 20 visitors a day attempt to see the city from that lofty point without paying the 50 cents fee. They ask to be let out a few floors below the top and seek to walk up. It can't be done!

And one is surprised by the number of well dressed men who journey to the theater hatless, quietly edge up to the door and while the ticket taker is engaged give the impression of having just popped out for a breath of fresh air or cigarette before the curtain rises.

Like innumerable New Yorkers—perhaps its senility—I discover I mumble to myself at times. The other day I was indulging this weakness along a hotel hallway when I saw a man in an open doorway. I fooled him by hunting for an imaginary dog to which I had been apparently speaking. Trigger stuff!

It is related that Richard Mansfield used to talk to himself. One day he was mumbling along Herald Square and a pedestrian inquired:

"To whom are you speaking?"

"To a damn smart man," retorted Mansfield.

A new form of night club gyppery is reported in the mad moist canyons. A certain club is no longer depending on the whim of the patron for the size of the hat tip. A fixed charge of 25 cents is made for taking care of the hats and wraps.

HASKIN'S LETTER
By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

The Pure Food Law.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 9.—In the twenty years that the Food and Drugs Act, commonly known as the Federal pure food law, has been enforced, the Department of Agriculture inspectors have investigated 143,578 cases of suspected adulteration or misbranding of food and drug products. The investigations have resulted in court actions in 22,653 cases, and in 14,300 of these proceedings the final decrees have been handed down and notices of judgment issued.

Department officials say, however, that while these figures show decided activity on the part of those charged with the duty of enforcing the law they tell but a part of the story of what has been accomplished in the effort to remedy conditions which the law was enacted to correct.

Perhaps the real achievement has been the gradual conversion of manufacturers to the point of view that the law is not to be regarded as an offensive regulatory measure that hampers and restricts them in their business, but is a benefit and advantage to them. Hence when the usual bill to repeal or amend the law is introduced at the coming session of Congress it will not receive much support unless it is intended to strengthen the law. No movement to break down the law can ever again attain serious proportions, it is declared.

Assistant Secretary of Agriculture Dunlap says he can see the time, and it is not far distant, when the food-and-drug inspector will no longer be primarily a policeman, but will be rather an instructor and specialist in the manufacture of pure and unadulterated foods and drugs. In that capacity the inspector will cooperate with manufacturers who desire to conform with the requirements of the law, and will place at their disposal the accumulated information based upon years of experience which the Bureau of Chemistry in its enforcement work has been able to acquire.

Not an Idle Dream.

"This is no idle dream," Mr. Dunlap told the American Grocery Manufacturer's Association, "for already in many of our industries the inspector is looked upon as a friend and assistant rather than as an enemy or a spy. I am convinced that, by and large, American food and drug manufacturers are honorable individuals, whose purpose it is to give to the consumer his money's worth of pure and wholesome products conforming in every respect to their expressed standards of purity or strength.

"Because of the existence of a specific law covering their products, and also because of the vital character of the products in which they are dealing, from the standpoint of the public welfare, those who purvey foods and drugs are under a peculiarly heavy obligation to exert unusual precautions to produce wholesome, pure, and properly branded articles.

Mr. Dunlap pointed out that in addition to the large number of cases that have been examined by his department, thousands of samples obtained for investigational and research work have been examined in the Departmental laboratories, and the suggestions and advice which the analysts and experts have given to manufacturers have been of questionable benefit to industry. NEW YORK HIT HERE NOV. 16

Ceramic Books Lew Fields' Musical Comedy Success.

The New York musical comedy success, "The Girl Friend," sponsored by the distinguished comedian and producer of musical plays, Lew Fields, will be the offering at the Ceramic theatre Tuesday evening, Nov. 16.

"The Girl Friend" is said to be a rollicking show with breezy dialogue, lilting melodies, of which "The Girl Friend" and "The Blue Room" are well known to music lovers; terpsichorean art of a high order and a performance given lively action by the dash and vigor of a well trained chorus composed of pretty, youthful girls with attractive figures and boys who sing and dance with spirit and charm. It ranks among the cleverest musical plays presented in New York during the past season, which was proved by the success of the piece from its first performance in the metropolis early in the year. It played to capacity business throughout the summer and is still drawing throngs to the Vanderbilt theatre. Its comedy is delightful, while its lover episodes, its novel dances, and its catchy and tuneful musical score win immediate approval of its auditors. It is spontaneous and filled with the freshness of youth; and a company of youthful comedians and singers selected and rehearsed by Mr. Fields enter into the spirit with an enthusiasm that is infectious. The book is by Herbert Fields, the lyrics from the pen of Lorenz Hart, and the music composed by Richard Rodgers.

The story is of a cycle race in which a farm boy seeks a place to ride his way to fame. He knows if he can win, the girl, who stuck through thick and thin, will smile and take his name. A trick is played to keep him out, but she learns what it is all about and thwarts the plotters scheme. He wins and realizes love's dream.

Other musical gems contained in the score are "Why Do I?" "The Girl Who Done All the Dirt," "Town Hall Tonight," "Good Fellow Mine," "He's a Winner," "I'd Like to Take You Home" and "What Is It?"

The principal members of the company are Allan Gold, Frances Dewey, George B. Phelps, Gladys James, George Bogues, Anita Wright, Teddy Deurr, Elizabeth Raymond, Frances King, John McNamara, Helen Reilly, Charles Cooley, Jimmy Cort and Barry Bernard.

"MISMATES" IS SCREEN HIT

Doris Kenyon and Warner Baxter at American.

A film drama that will tug at the heartstrings and leave an indelible impression on the minds of those who see it is "Mismates," the First National photoplay which opened yesterday at the American theatre.

Co-featured with Doris Kenyon in "Mismates" is Warner Baxter, who as a young and struggling lawyer comes to her aid in her time of trouble.

Philo McCollough, whom we have often seen in "heavy" parts, has never before had such a great part as in this picture. He is the "heavy" and plays the husband of Miss Kenyon. He makes you positively hate the ground he walks on as he goes through the picture, and as that is his job he is to be highly commended. McCollough lends much to the success of this picture. Mae Allison with all her loveliness is another contributing factor to the enjoyment of the picture, as is Charlie Murray, that funny man of First National.

Standing out among the grown-ups is a little girl who plays a boy's part. She is little Nancy Kelly, and right here we want to say that it is worth one's while to see "Mismates" if only to see the acting of the child wonder. She is marvelous. John Kolb, Cyril Ring, Maude Turner Gordon and several others deserve praise for excellent characterizations.

Briefly, the story of "Mismates" is that of a manicurist who marries the son of a wealthy family. The husband's mother will not recognize the manicurist. On their fourth wedding anniversary the husband deserts his wife and child. The wife is thrown into prison shortly after, although innocent, and her husband is instrumental in keeping her there. She receives word that her little son is dying, escapes from jail—and to learn the rest now would spoil the story.

SAYS FAITH IN TEPEE ADS BROUGHT NEW JOY TO MEALS

Indiana Woman Tells How Famous Indian Herb Tonic Helped Her Boys.

"I have three boys, seven, five and three years of age, and it would do almost everybody good to see how these youngsters enjoy their meals," says Mrs. Arthur Collins, 1613 North Fifteenth street, Lafayette, Indiana.

"I had all kinds of trouble with them before I began to give them Tepee Herb Tonic. "Every night one or the other of them would keep me awake several hours. They would simply cry out in their sleep, "Oh, mother, I'm so sick!' Often they had nightmare.

"It was hard for my youngest lad to keep anything on his stomach. He would be seized with violent spells of vomiting. He was very pale and had dark circles under his eyes. And he was fretful all of the time.

"I gave all my boys Tepee Herb Tonic and three heartier children you never saw.

"They eat heartily, sleep soundly and never complain any more."

Redwood's Tepee Herb Tonic is made exclusively from roots, barks and herbs. There is nothing harmful or habit forming and it is as good for children as it is for "grown-ups."

"It aids digestion, promotes refreshing sleep and soothes the nerves. Thousands of parents in all parts of the country recommend it. If you have a delicate child, try Tepee Herb Tonic.

It has helped others and you may confidently expect it to do the same for your children. There is nothing better for constipation and children do not object to it because it is not unpleasant to take.

DEMS LINE UP FOR FIGHT TO SEAT WILSON IN U. S. SENATE

Expect Support From Insurgents Against W. S. Vare.

MILITANT DRIVE

Two Forces Can Control Seventieth Congress.

BY GEORGE R. HOLMES.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—A militant campaign to seat William B. Wilson, Democrat, as "the legally elected" senator from Pennsylvania in the seventieth congress has been agreed upon by a group of national Democratic leaders, it was learned here today.

The Democrats expect, and will get the support of a majority of the Republican-insurgents in all probability. The Democrats and insurgents can control the seventieth congress whenever they get together.

A week ago the Democrats were talking only of denying a seat to William S. Vare, or of expelling him after being seated, because of his expenditures in the Republican primary. If successful this would create a vacancy which would ostensibly be filled by the appointment of another Republican. But now, after reviewing the election, they plan to go after bigger game—the seating of Wilson.

Illegality in Election Charged.

The change in Democratic tactics is due in large measure to the controversy provoked over the constitutional aspects of the question. The constitution provides a senator may be denied his seat by a majority vote, but to expel him requires a two-thirds vote. Authorities on the constitution differ widely as to the proper procedure to be invoked against Vare.

The Democrats, aided by the counsel of some of the Republican insurgents, have decided to walk right around this controversy and make a fight on the legality of Vare's election on November 2, which would bring the question before the senate as an ordinary contest and thus within the scope of the majority vote.

The city of Philadelphia, which Vare controls politically, will be the focal point of the opposition attack. In the congested wards of the city it will be alleged there were thousands of votes illegally cast for Vare and similarly, thousands of votes uncounted on Wilson.

Wilson carried the state of Pennsylvania, outside of Philadelphia. He came to the Philadelphia county line with a majority of approximately 50,000 votes over his Republican opponent, only to meet there a tidal wave majority for Vare of approximately 250,000.

Senator Norris of Nebraska, who campaigned the state for Wilson, said definitely today a legal contest will be filed.

One Democratic Defection.

"There must have been some fraud in Philadelphia," said Norris. "There were 44 districts, for example, in which Wilson did not get a single vote—yet the election law provides there shall be two or three Democrats on each election board in every precinct. Either the law was not complied with, or Wilson's votes were not counted."

Because of the tremendous majority of Vare, the Democrats themselves do not believe they can prove that 200,000 votes were illegally cast. But their strategy is to get the question before the senate on such a basis. They believe they have the votes to deny Vare his seat on such grounds, and they believe also they can hold those same votes for the seating of Wilson. Without Vare's vote in the seventieth senate, there will be 47 Republicans, 47 Democrats and 1 Farmer-Laborite.

It was indicated today, however, there will be at least one defection in the Democratic ranks. Senator Cole Blease, of South Carolina, said he intended to vote for the seating of Vare because of his adherence to the general principle of "states' rights," particularly the right of a state to say who shall represent it in the senate.

This country has not yet recognized Russia, and heaven knows when we shall recognize China's new arrangements. Some of our boy financiers who know only by hearsay that the world is round and that nations go to war, made a big all foolish Chinese loan, which promptly died, as regards principal and interest. Our government will weep about that for years. Wise Britain says "Never mind yesterday's lost dollar. Where is tomorrow's new dollar to be had."

This earth has always had its excitements, disasters and woes. Thousands of centuries before men came here to make trouble, animals of all kinds met death in a strange jumble. Tar pits on the Rancho La Brea, now part of Los Angeles, have caught and preserved for all time such different animals as the imperial elephant, sabre tooth tiger, giant ground sloths, long extinct camels and endless others. No other spot on earth has yielded so many different animals to the scientists' research. And that's appropriate. No spot on earth equals Los Angeles in its varieties of people.

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—Industrial stocks displayed a confident tone at the beginning of trading today. There was not sufficient buying power in any section of the market, to carry forward Monday's closing rally more than a point or less and a new wave of profit taking swept over the market before the end of the first hour, with the usual result.

Further indications of the probability of a retroactive income tax cut on 1925 incomes; the reconsruction of the stock exchange's brokers' loan figures for October, showing an $81,000,000 error in favor of the constructive ride; insistent rumors of a $200,000,000 bond issue by the Standard Oil company to provide funds for the retirement of that amount of 7 per cent preferred stock, and continuance of the high rate of railroad freight business and over-production of crude oil, were the principal factors affecting stock values.

"WORLD'S LAST PRAYER MEET" REVIVAL TOPIC

Baptist Church Crowded as Rev. Dr. Mel Morris Speaks.

DIVORCE IS HIT

Says War Will go on Until Prince of Peace Comes.

That there will ever be war and rumors of war on earth until the Prince of Peace comes was reiterated by Rev. Mel Morris in his sermon on "The World's Last Prayer Meeting," a sequel to his Friday night discourse on "The Second Coming of Christ" at the First Baptist church revival last evening. His viewpoint, bulwarked by numerous Scriptural references, were heard by a large crowd of people that filled the auditorium and a part of the Sunday school room adjoining.

Preceding his discussion he repeated the details of Christ's second appearance, between which in the heavens would be consummated the union with Him of the church. "And this will be a permanent marriage," he said, "along the Scriptural injunction 'whom God hath joined together let no man put asunder.' There will be no possibility of divorce to this alliance. It will be for all time as matrimony ever was intended."

Deep conviction settled upon the hearers following the sermon's conclusion. Many church devotees went forward for reconsecration and several, allied with none, took the initial steps toward conversion in which they were assisted by the board of deacons, Sunday school teachers, heads of young people's societies and deeply spiritual persons of the congregation whom the pastor, Rev. A. H. O'Brien, had called to the platform.

Directed by Marion Ball, visiting musical director, another inspiring song service preceded the preaching period. Accompanied by Miss Ruby Aley, Mr. Ball sang another recent composition of his, "Wounded for Me."

The invocation was made and the benediction given by the Rev. George M. Landis, pastor of the First Baptist church, of New Castle, Pa., where Rev. Mr. Morris will begin an evangelistic campaign on the first Sunday of January. "With the Pennsylvania city but a few miles away from here," he said, "I am sure you will visit the church there with a large delegation on one of the nights of the campaign."

Rev. Mr. Morris expressed gratification at the growing and sustained interest in the second coming of Christ by East Liverpool church folks of all congregations. "This is a healful sign," he declared, "and proves that there are those who want to know all possible concerning the event so as to adjust their services for the Master."

"Two Highways," it was announced would be the subject of Rev. Mr. Morris' tonight. "One will be the King's Highway," he said, "and the other the Devil's."

Accept Christ, His Plea.

The terrible condition obtaining on the earth populated only by the wicked living following the resurrection of the just and the carrying upward for transformation in the air of the living righteous was vividly described by the evangelist when Satan, the beast and the anti-Christ, will have complete supremacy. "This interim of horror may be yours in the next few years should Christ come soon as all signs indicate," he averred, "and you continue to reject Christ."

Quoting the prophecies of the prophets Joel, John the Baptist and Jesus Christ anent the coming of the Holy Ghost which have been fulfilled, he argued that it was equally conceivable that the Son of Man's prophecy concerning His return would also come to pass.

"I have no time to talk of the horrors of hell at this time," he said in attending to the lost dead. "But before the campaign closes I shall take occasion, prefacing my remarks on Luke 16, to say something of that place which a great gulf separates from the place of the redeemed and which can never be crossed by one placed therein."

The last prayer meeting of the world he pointed out was predicted by John in his Revelations which would be attended by the worldy, sinful, lost souls, who in their terror during the final moments before their transfer into perdition would cry out to the mountains and rocks to fall on them that they might be hidden in safety.

"Having devoted all their lives to worldly things it will be but natural for them, knowing not God, to seek aid from mountains and rocks," he asserted. "What a horrible place the earth will then be with no God to worship, no Holy Spirit to woo and advise those living thereon and Satan more powerful than ever before following his being 'loosened for a season.'

Rev. Mr. Morris deprecated the tendency of many to think of God only as possessed of the ability to love. "He is also a God of wrath," he said. For it is written: Who shall stand against His wrath?"

blaze was on the Pleasant Heights hill.

The firemen hurried up the Pleasant Heights hill, but the house was in ruins when they arrived.

According to neighbors, Miller was lying on his back on the kitchen floor with his arms in the air. Near him was the torso of a shepherd dog, belonging to James Carns.

Firemen and others formed a bucket brigade from a nearby well and quenched the blaze in order to recover the body. The body was removed to the Sturgis funeral home, West Fifth street.

Fire Chief Inspects Ruins.

Fire Chief Bryan inspecter the ruins this morning but was unable to determine the cause of the fire. After hearing the story of the Carns boys, he expressed the opinion that the building was accidentally fired by Miller.

Miller has been separated from his wife, Mrs. Melinda Miller, for several years. He has several grown up children, one of whom, a daughter who resides in Akron, visited him last Sunday.

Coroner J. M. Van Fossan, East Palestine this morning advised Undertaker E. G. Sturgis that he would conduct no inquest over the body as Prosecutor Robert Brookes had consented to sign a certificate attributing death to burns.

Funeral services will be conducted in the Sturgis funeral home at 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon in charge of Field Major Joseph Hughes of the Salvation Army. Burial will be made in Spring Grove cemetery.

morning, prepared for the investigation to be made.

The men who succeeded in breaking out of the prison yesterday, were all members of what is known as the "First K" group, unruly prisoners who bore bad reputations, some of whom had made attempts to escape before.

No Blame on Guards.

Warden Thomas did not make an official statement early this morning, but declared he could not attach any blame on the guards on duty at the time or any other attaches of the prison.

"We believe the men had two or three guns besides the knives and clubs flourished by some of them," he said.

"It is a bare possibility some one in the crowd of visitors smuggled in guns and in the rush passed the weapons to the prisoners. That all must be investigated."

The break came shortly after the 2 o'clock tour had been formed. Thirty-five visitors had paid their admission and were grouped in the big vestibule. As the first of the outsiders walked through the gate, the 13 prisoners sprang to the gate.

Visitors were hurled aside. Guard Captain Bennett fell, clubbed. Guard Callahan was attacked and fell before the onslaught. The rushing prisoners reached the street miraculously, according to the prison officials, escaping in a veritable rain of bullets.

Lifer Shot Through Head.

Harold Nieringartner, of Lima, a lifer, was shot through the head at the door.

Thomas Gerak, serving life for murder, was recaptured just outside the prison.

Dashing across the street, nine of the men surrounded an automobile driven by Miss Eva Burnside, threw her bodily from the car, climbed aboard and sped away.

In this group were Charles Mithoefer, Columbus, serving life for murder, James Johnson, Cuyahoga county, ten years for burglary; John Neiman, Hamilton county, 15 years for shooting; Arthur Clayton, Cuyahoga county, 15 years, shooting to wound; Robert Hunt, Cuyahoga county, life for murder; Frank Proctor, Hamilton county, ten years, burglary; Burton Carter; Darke county, 25 years for robbery; Frank Mills, Lucas county, ten years for robbery; George "Jiggs" Losteiner, Cuyahoga county, life for murder.

Johnson was captured near London. He had been slightly wounded by buckshot.

Plan No Pardon Moves.

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 9.—No attempt will be made at this time to get a pardon or parole for C. W. "Tacks" Lattimer, one-time big league baseball star; William Chatfield, Cincinnati, former state senator, and one-time condidate for lieutenant-governor, or any of the other prisoners in the Ohio state penitentiary who aided prison officials in trying to prevent the break of 13 inmates Monday, Governor Donahey and Warden Thomas said this afternoon.

"Lattimer worked heroically. He stood by my daughter, firing round after round from a gun at the fleeing men. He probably saved the life of Guard Cochrane and Trusty Landacre, who was working at the telephone switchboard. He deserves commendation, but we are not yet ready to consider anything like that. Lattimer has been seeking a pardon or parole for some time," the warden said.

Lattimer was convicted of murder at Xenia. He was sentenced to life imprisonment.

Jail Delivery Frustrated.

NEW LEXINGTON, O., Nov. 9.—Another wholesale jail delivery said by Sheriff Harley McNabb to have been again headed by Earl Brooks, held on charges of attacking two Columbus school girls, was frustrated Monday when the bars of a half dozen cells were discovered to have been sawed almost in two and five saws were found in Brooks' cell, McNabb announced today. Brooks led an attempt three months ago which resulted in three prisoners escaping. Five others refused to leave because of a storm raging outside.

At that time he was said to have been aided by a 14-year-old sweetheart.

McNabb withheld information of the delivery while waiting for the attempt to be made.

STRAND OFFERS 'GINGHAM GIRL'

Cookies Basis of Mack's Musical Comedy Hit.

There is a brand of cookies in "The Gingham Girl" which, when baked by the heroine in the country is a fizzle, but when put on the market in New York, makes a hit with everyone. And that's what "The Gingham Girl," which the Red Mack Players are offering the first three days this week at the Strand theatre, is all about.

The story had more charm than any other show in New York last season. It is an entertainment of good taste, sprightliness and merit. With a touch of pathos, "The Gingham Girl" is a delightful musical comedy. In the score which Albert Von Tilzer has composed for it, there is haunting beauty to carry home with you. The song, "Just As Long As I Have You" is a gem that will keep you whistling and humming.

The plot has to do with Johnny Cousins of Crossville Corners, New Hampshire, who comes to New York in "trick clothes" to take the city unaware and rattle it till its eye teeth stick out. He is in love with Mary Thompson, the cute little gingham girl of Crossville Corners, who bakes the toothsome cookies. Later they become "Blue Bird Cookies"—a famous brand that Mary succeeds in putting on the market through the aid of the son of the president of the biscuit trust.

DON LANNING PLEASES CROWD

"Very Good Eddie" Opens Week's Stay at Ceramic.

Don Lanning, one-time potter, for the Knowles, Taylor and Knowles company, has proven himself a remarkable comedian last night, when his musical company opened a week's engagement at the Ceramic theatre.

Lanning's presentation of the Broadway success, "Very Good Eddie," was well accepted by a packed house. Among the able supporting cast are Emily Ross, Edna Jacques, Mildred Robinson, Nell Walker, Rafe Boulliott, Lew Hampton, Milton Beick, Jack Barbee, Bartley Cahill, and a chorus of the south's prettiest girls, who sing and dance in great style.

Lanning showed some new tricks in the comedy line in essaying the role of Eddie Kettle, the weakling husband.

Tomorrow brings an entirely different bill with Lanning in the riotous dual role of Bob Corcoran and Pattie O'Rourke in the Clare Stratton and

URGE TRAFFIC LAW ARRESTS

West Side Civic League Hits Action of Motorists.

Complaint that the city ordinance prohibiting automobiles from passing street cars while loading or discarging passengers is not being enforced at the Dresden avenue terminal of the Pleasant Heights traction line, was voiced by members of the West Side Civic association at a meeting in the Anderson Methodist Episcopal church last night.

Since the traction company instituted one-man street car service on the Pleasant Heights line, cars are unloaded on the west side of the street instead of the east side, it is claimed. Motorists, it is charged, find it too narrow to pass the street car on the east side of the street and travel on the west side while passengers are leaving the car. The secretary of the association was instructed to ask Service-Safety Director J. W. Moore to enforce the ordinance prohibiting this practice.

Residents of May street complained about the condition of the thoroughfare which has been washed out by surface water. The street, it is claimed, is lower than the gutters and surface water instead of running along the sides next to the curb follows the center of the street. It was urged that the city repave or repair Chestnut street which, it was charged, had been badly damaged when a water main broke.

A special meeting of the association will be held December 13, when the Jesse Lones orchestra and the Toonerville quartet will be featured.

Frank Harding presided at last night's session.

Ernest Grendenning success, "Top Hole." It will be presented twice each evening, tomorrow and Thursday, with a matinee on Thursday at 2:30 o'clock and the evening shows at 7 and 9 o'clock.

DEMS LINE UP FOR FIGHT TO SEAT WILSON IN U. S. SENATE

Expect Support From Insurgents Against W. S. Vare.

MILITANT DRIVE

Two Forces Can Control Seventieth Congress.

BY GEORGE R. HOLMES.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—A militant campaign to seat William B. Wilson, Democrat, as "the legally elected" senator from Pennsylvania in the seventieth congress has been agreed upon by a group of national Democratic leaders, it was learned here today.

The Democrats expect, and will get the support of a majority of the Republican-insurgents in all probability. The Democrats and insurgents can control the seventieth congress whenever they get together.

A week ago the Democrats were talking only of denying a seat to William S. Vare, or of expelling him after being seated, because of his expenditures in the Republican primary. If successful this would create a vacancy which would ostensibly be filled by the appointment of another Republican. But now, after reviewing the election, they plan to go after bigger game—the seating of Wilson.

Illegality in Election Charged.

The change in Democratic tactics is due in large measure to the controversy provoked over the constitutional aspects of the question. The constitution provides a senator may be denied his seat by a majority vote, but to expel him requires a two-thirds vote. Authorities on the constitution differ widely as to the proper procedure to be invoked against Vare.

The Democrats, aided by the counsel of some of the Republican insurgents, have decided to walk right around this controversy and make a fight on the legality of Vare's election on November 2, which would bring the question before the senate as an ordinary contest and thus within the scope of the majority vote.

The city of Philadelphia, which Vare controls politically, will be the focal point of the opposition attack. In the congested wards of the city it will be alleged there were thousands of votes illegally cast for Vare and similarly, thousands of votes uncounted on Wilson.

Wilson carried the state of Pennsylvania, outside of Philadelphia. He came to the Philadelphia county line with a majority of approximately 50,000 votes over his Republican opponent, only to meet there a tidal wave majority for Vare of approximately 250,000.

Senator Norris of Nebraska, who campaigned the state for Wilson, said definitely today a legal contest will be filed.

One Democratic Defection.

"There must have been some fraud in Philadelphia," said Norris. "There were 44 districts, for example, in which Wilson did not get a single vote—yet the election law provides there shall be two or three Democrats on each election board in every precinct. Either the law was not complied with, or Wilson's votes were not counted."

Because of the tremendous majority of Vare, the Democrats themselves do not believe they can prove that 200,000 votes were illegally cast. But their strategy is to get the question before the senate on such a basis. They believe they have the votes to deny Vare his seat on such grounds, and they believe also they can hold those same votes for the seating of Wilson. Without Vare's vote in the seventieth senate, there will be 47 Republicans, 47 Democrats and 1 Farmer-Laborite.

It was indicated today, however, there will be at least one defection in the Democratic ranks. Senator Cole Blease, of South Carolina, said he intended to vote for the seating of Vare because of his adherence to the general principle of "states' rights," particularly the right of a state to say who shall represent it in the senate.

"WORLD'S LAST PRAYER MEET" REVIVAL TOPIC

Baptist Church Crowded as Rev. Dr. Mel Morris Speaks.

DIVORCE IS HIT

Says War Will go on Until Prince of Peace Comes.

That there will ever be war and rumors of war on earth until the Prince of Peace comes was reiterated by Rev. Mel Morris in his sermon on "The World's Last Prayer Meeting," a sequel to his Friday night discourse on "The Second Coming of Christ" at the First Baptist church revival last evening. His viewpoint, bulwarked by numerous Scriptural references, were heard by a large crowd of people that filled the auditorium and a part of the Sunday school room adjoining.

Preceding his discussion he repeated the details of Christ's second appearance, between which in the heavens would be consummated the union with Him of the church. "And this will be a permanent marriage," he said, "along the Scriptural injunction 'whom God hath joined together let no man put asunder.' There will be no possibility of divorce to this alliance. It will be for all time as matrimony ever was intended."

Deep conviction settled upon the hearers following the sermon's conclusion. Many church devotees went forward for reconsecration and several, allied with none, took the initial steps toward conversion in which they were assisted by the board of deacons, Sunday school teachers, heads of young people's societies and deeply spiritual persons of the congregation whom the pastor, Rev. A. H. O'Brien, had called to the platform.

Directed by Marion Ball, visiting musical director, another inspiring song service preceded the preaching period. Accompanied by Miss Ruby Aley, Mr. Ball sang another recent composition of his, "Wounded for Me."

The invocation was made and the benediction given by the Rev. George M. Landis, pastor of the First Baptist church, of New Castle, Pa., where Rev. Mr. Morris will begin an evangelistic campaign on the first Sunday of January. "With the Pennsylvania city but a few miles away from here," he said, "I am sure you will visit the church there with a large delegation on one of the nights of the campaign."

Rev. Mr. Morris expressed gratification at the growing and sustained interest in the second coming of Christ by East Liverpool church folks of all congregations. "This is a healful sign," he declared, "and proves that there are those who want to know all possible concerning the event so as to adjust their services for the Master."

"Two Highways," it was announced would be the subject of Rev. Mr. Morris' tonight. "One will be the King's Highway," he said, "and the other the Devil's."

Accept Christ, His Plea.

The terrible condition obtaining on the earth populated only by the wicked living following the resurrection of the just and the carrying upward for transformation in the air of the living righteous was vividly described by the evangelist when Satan, the beast and the anti-Christ, will have complete supremacy. "This interim of horror may be yours in the next few years should Christ come soon as all signs indicate," he averred, "and you continue to reject Christ."

Quoting the prophecies of the prophets Joel, John the Baptist and Jesus Christ anent the coming of the Holy Ghost which have been fulfilled, he argued that it was equally conceivable that the Son of Man's prophecy concerning His return would also come to pass.

"I have no time to talk of the horrors of hell at this time," he said in attending to the lost dead. "But before the campaign closes I shall take occasion, prefacing my remarks on Luke 16, to say something of that place which a great gulf separates from the place of the redeemed and which can never be crossed by one placed therein."

The last prayer meeting of the world he pointed out was predicted by John in his Revelations which would be attended by the worldy, sinful, lost souls, who in their terror during the final moments before their transfer into perdition would cry out to the mountains and rocks to fall on them that they might be hidden in safety.

"Having devoted all their lives to worldly things it will be but natural for them, knowing not God, to seek aid from mountains and rocks," he asserted. "What a horrible place the earth will then be with no God to worship, no Holy Spirit to woo and advise those living thereon and Satan more powerful than ever before following his being loosened for a season."

Rev. Mr. Morris deprecated the tendency of many to think of God only as possessed of the ability to love. "He is also a God of wrath," he said. For it is written: Who shall stand against His wrath?"

Miner Burned to Death

blaze was on the Pleasant Heights hill.

The firemen hurried up the Pleasant Heights hill, but the house was in ruins when they arrived.

According to neighbors, Miller was lying on his back on the kitchen floor with his arms in the air. Near him was the torso of a shepherd dog, belonging to James Carns.

Firemen and others formed a bucket brigade from a nearby well and quenched the blaze in order to recover the body. The body was removed to the Sturgis funeral home, West Fifth street.

Fire Chief Inspects Ruins.

Fire Chief Bryan inspecter the ruins this morning but was unable to determine the cause of the fire. After hearing the story of the Carns boys, he expressed the opinion that the building was accidentally fired by Miller.

Miller has been separated from his wife, Mrs. Melinda Miller, for several years. He has several grown up children, one of whom, a daughter who resides in Akron, visited him last Sunday.

Coroner J. M. Van Fossan, East Palestine this morning advised Undertaker E. G. Sturgis that he would conduct no inquest over the body as Prosecutor Robert Brookes had consented to sign a certificate attributing death to burns.

Funeral services will be conducted in the Sturgis funeral home at 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon in charge of Field Major Joseph Hughes of the Salvation Army. Burial will be made in Spring Grove cemetery.

Hunt Escaped Convict

morning, prepared for the investigation to be made.

The men who succeeded in breaking out of the prison yesterday, were all members of what is known as the "First K" group, unruly prisoners who bore bad reputations, some of whom had made attempts to escape before.

No Blame on Guards.

Warden Thomas did not make an official statement early this morning, but declared he could not attach any blame on the guards on duty at the time or any other attaches of the prison.

"We believe the men had two or three guns besides the knives and clubs flourished by some of them," he said.

"It is a bare possibility some one in the crowd of visitors smuggled in guns and in the rush passed the weapons to the prisoners. That all must be investigated."

The break came shortly after the 2 o'clock tour had been formed. Thirty-five visitors had paid their admission and were grouped in the big vestibule. As the first of the outsiders walked through the gate, the 13 prisoners sprang to the gate.

Visitors were hurled aside. Guard Captain Bennett fell, clubbed. Guard Callahan was attacked and fell before the onslaught. The rushing prisoners reached the street miraculously, according to the prison officials, escaping in a veritable rain of bullets.

Lifer Shot Through Head.

Harold Nieringartner, of Lima, a lifer, was shot through the head at the door.

Thomas Gerak, serving life for murder, was recaptured just outside the prison.

Dashing across the street, nine of the men surrounded an automobile driven by Miss Eva Burnside, threw her bodily from the car, climbed aboard and sped away.

In this group were Charles Mithoefer, Columbus, serving life for murder, James Johnson, Cuyahoga county, ten years for burglary; John Neiman, Hamilton county, 15 years for shooting; Arthur Clayton, Cuyahoga county, 15 years, shooting to wound; Robert Hunt, Cuyahoga county, life for murder; Frank Proctor, Hamilton county, ten years, burglary; Burton Carter; Darke county, 25 years for robbery; Frank Mills, Lucas county, ten years for robbery; George "Jiggs" Losteiner, Cuyahoga county, life for murder.

Johnson was captured near London. He had been slightly wounded by buckshot.

Plan No Pardon Moves.

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 9.—No attempt will be made at this time to get a pardon or parole for C. W. "Tacks" Lattimer, one-time big league baseball star; William Chatfield, Cincinnati, former state senator, and one-time condidate for lieutenant-governor, or any of the other prisoners in the Ohio state penitentiary who aided prison officials in trying to prevent the break of 13 inmates Monday, Governor Donahey and Warden Thomas said this afternoon.

"Lattimer worked heroically. He stood by my daughter, firing round after round from a gun at the fleeing men. He probably saved the life of Guard Cochrane and Trusty Landacre, who was working at the telephone switchboard. He deserves commendation, but we are not yet ready to consider anything like that. Lattimer has been seeking a pardon or parole for some time," the warden said.

Lattimer was convicted of murder at Xenia. He was sentenced to life imprisonment.

Jail Delivery Frustrated.

NEW LEXINGTON, O., Nov. 9.—Another wholesale jail delivery said by Sheriff Harley McNabb to have been again headed by Earl Brooks, held on charges of attacking two Columbus school girls, was frustrated Monday when the bars of a half dozen cells were discovered to have been sawed almost in two and five saws were found in Brooks' cell, McNabb announced today. Brooks led an attempt three months ago which resulted in three prisoners escaping. Five others refused to leave because of a storm raging outside.

At that time he was said to have been aided by a 14-year-old sweetheart.

McNabb withheld information of the delivery while waiting for the attempt to be made.

Theatrical Performance, Auto Ride and Dinner Will be Features of Program on Armistice Day.

Approximately 75 children from the McCollough-Jefferson County Children's Home at Yellow Creek will be guests of members of East Liverpool Lodge No. 258, B. P. O. Elks, on Armistice Day in keeping with a custom which has been followed for seven years.

The children, accompanied by Superintendent Edward Rutherford, the matron, Mrs. Rutherford, and Mrs. Lucy Cline, Miss Evaline Finney, Mrs. Carrie Mowary and Miss Ida Ekey, governesses, will come to East Liverpool in a special car, provided by The Steubenville, East Liverpool & Beaver Valley Traction company. They will leave the home at 1 o'clock Thursday afternoon.

Immediately upon their arrival in the Diamond the youngsters will be taken to the Ceramic theatre where they will see Don Lanning and his musical comedy stars in "Top Hole" at a matinee performance. After the show they will go to the Elks' temple West Fifth street, loaded into automobiles of lodge members and taken for a ride around the city. Returning to the lodge home at six o'clock they will be guests at dinner in the grill room. The dinner will be prepared under the direction of Caterer John Canne and served by Ladies of the Elks.

After the dinner the children will be taken to the ball room where they will present a playlet and a program. Sayre's orchestra will play. The tots will be taken back to the home in the special car at 9:30 o'clock. A dance for members of the lodge and their friends will be held at the temple during the evening.

Committee in charge of the affair is made up of Mayor Ralph Benedum, chairman; Harry Altman, John Jones, James McDermott and Edward Clinton.

STRAND OFFERS 'GINGHAM GIRL'

Cookies Basis of Mack's Musical Comedy Hit.

There is a brand of cookies in "The Gingham Girl" which, when baked by the heroine in the country is a fizzle, but when put on the market in New York, makes a hit with everyone. And that's what "The Gingham Girl," which the Red Mack Players are offering the first three days this week at the Strand theatre, is all about.

The story had more charm than any other show in New York last season. It is an entertainment of good taste, sprightliness and merit. With a touch of pathos, "The Gingham Girl" is a delightful musical comedy. In the score which Albert Von Tilzer has composed for it, there is haunting beauty to carry home with you. The song, "Just As Long As I Have You" is a gem that will keep you whistling and humming.

The plot has to do with Johnny Cousins of Crossville Corners, New Hampshire, who comes to New York in "trick clothes" to take the city unaware and rattle it till its eye teeth stick out. He is in love with Mary Thompson, the cute little gingham girl of Crossville Corners, who bakes the toothsome cookies. Later they become "Blue Bird Cookies"—a famous brand that Mary succeeds in putting on the market through the aid of the son of the president of the biscuit trust.

DEATH ROLL

Mrs. Emma J. Smith.

Mrs. Emma J. Smith, 66 years old, died today in her home, Washington street, Newell, after a long illness.

She is survived by six sons and four daughters: Saith, Charles, Okey, Joseph, Harry, Ira, all of Newell; Mrs. Lemey, East Palestine; Myrtle, Akron; Mrs. Ada Hines and Mrs. Johnson, both of Newell.

DON LANNING PLEASES CROWD

"Very Good Eddie" Opens Week's Stay at Ceramic.

Don Lanning, one-time potter, for the Knowles, Taylor and Knowles company, has proven himself a remarkable comedian last night, when his musical company opened a week's engagement at the Ceramic theatre.

Lanning's presentation of the Broadway success, "Very Good Eddie," was well accepted by a packed house. Among the able supporting cast are Emily Ross, Edna Jacques, Mildred Robinson, Nell Walker, Rafe Boulliott, Lew Hampton, Milton Beick, Jack Barbee, Bartley Cahill, and a chorus of the south's prettiest girls, who sing and dance in great style.

Lanning showed some new tricks in the comedy line in essaying the role of Eddie Kettle, the weakling husband.

Tomorrow brings an entirely different bill with Lanning in the riotous dual role of Bob Corcoran and Pattie O'Rourke in the Clare Stratton and Ernest Grendenning success, "Top Hole." It will be presented twice each evening, tomorrow and Thursday, with a matinee on Thursday at 2:30 o'clock and the evening shows at 7 and 9 o'clock.

URGE TRAFFIC LAW ARRESTS

West Side Civic League Hits Action of Motorists.

Complaint that the city ordinance prohibiting automobiles from passing street cars while loading or discarging passengers is not being enforced at the Dresden avenue terminal of the Pleasant Heights traction line, was voiced by members of the West Side Civic association at a meeting in the Anderson Methodist Episcopal church last night.

Since the traction company instituted one-man street car service on the Pleasant Heights line, cars are unloaded on the west side of the street instead of the east side, it is claimed. Motorists, it is charged, find it too narrow to pass the street car on the east side of the street and travel on the west side while passengers are leaving the car. The secretary of the association was instructed to ask Service-Safety Director J. W. Moore to enforce the ordinance prohibiting this practice.

Residents of May street complained about the condition of the thoroughfare which has been washed out by surface water. The street, it is claimed, is lower than the gutters and surface water instead of running along the sides next to the curb follows the center of the street. It was urged that the city repave or repair Chestnut street which, it was charged, had been badly damaged when a water main broke.

A special meeting of the association will be held December 13, when the Jesse Lones orchestra and the Toonerville quartet will be featured.

Frank Harding presided at last night's session.

WELLSVILLE'S SERVICE-SAFETY DIRECTOR IS ON JOB

PEACE FOLLOWS ASHLEY-FOGO PARLEY HERE

Mayor and Cabinet Member Drop Their Grievances.

ONE-WEEK BREAK

Preparations Under Way for 10-Year Light Pact.

George P. Ashley, Wellsville's service-safety director, is back on the job.

Peace has been restored in the mayor's cabinet and preparations are under way for the completion of the city's 10-year contract with the Ohio Power company, an important piece of legislation that faced a possible tie-up as a result of Ashley's recent dismissal by Mayor W. L. Fogo.

Prior to Ashley's departure yesterday for Columbus, where he will attend the annual meeting of the state board of health, it became known that Mayor Fogo and Ashley, at a conference between themselves, had dropped their grievances and patched up the break, the adjustment permitting Ashley to exercise his authority in the matter of the light contract legislation.

The break lasted just a week, Ashley having been dismissed by Fogo as the former was directing operations of the sewer repair crew in the West End.

Ashley authorized the payment of approximately $121 to former Patrolman Harry F. Hurd, upon the advice of City Solicitor S. C. Lucoock, his action bringing about his dismissal.

The city previously had been advised to pay Hurd his back salary in a ruling by the state civil service commission.

Ashley, who is president of the local health board, expects to be in Columbus at the state health conference all this week.

The private parley between the mayor and the director followed a meeting of a special council committee, along with city officials, arranged for the purpose of trying to bring about a reconciliation. Nothing was accomplished at this particular meeting.

MRS. KELLY, 89, DIES AFTER TEN WEEKS' ILLNESS

Succumbs Monday Evening at Home in Buckeye Avenue.

HERE 64 YEARS

Funeral Services to be Held Thursday Afternoon.

Following an illness of approximately 10 weeks, Mrs. Martha J. Kelly, one of the oldest and best known residents of the city, died last evening at 5:25 o'clock in her home, 1902 Buckeye avenue.

Had she lived until November 25, Thanksgiving day, Mrs. Kelly would have been 89 years of age.

She was born on that date in 1837 at Sugar Grove Ridge, in Jefferson county, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. George Householder. She was the last of a family of eleven children.

Mrs. Kelly lived here for 64 years, having come to Wellsville when she married Robert Kelly, of this city, who died 29 years ago. During her long residence here she has formed a wide acquaintanceship.

For 75 years she has been a member of the Methodist Episcopal church.

Three children survive: Mrs. W. R. Donaldson, of this city; and Edward and Blanche, at home.

Funeral services will be held Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock in the home, in charge of Rev. W. S. Rowe, pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal church.

Burial will be made in Spring Hill cemetery.

Pennsylvania Lets Contract for Electrification of Branch Line

Three Firms Get Orders for New Equipment for Use on Eastern Division.

The Pennsylvania railroad today announced that electrical equipment for a total of 128 passenger cars has been ordered in preparation for electric operation of the Southern division main line between Philadelphia and Wilmington, Del., and the Octoraro branch between Philadelphia and West Chester, Pa. Extensive progress is being made on the work of electrifying these lines and the new equipment for them is expected to be delivered by November, 1927.

The orders for this equipment have been placed as follows: Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing company, apparatus for 93 cars; General Electric company, apparatus for 30 cars; Brown-Boveri Electric Corporation apparatus for five cars.

The Pennsylvania railroad has also contracted for the electric equipment to be used in the construction of eight new locomotives to be operated in the New York tunnel service between Pennsylvania station, New York city, and Manhattan Transfer. Four units of this equipment have been ordered from the Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing company and four from the General Electric company. Delivery is expected to be completed by September, 1927.

The cars for the Philadelphia-Wilmington and Philadelphia-West Chester service will all be of the "multiple unit" type, each car carrying its own motors. In that way the power available will be automatically increased or decreased in proportion to the number of cars in the train.

The electrification work between Philadelphia and West Chester constitutes one of the most important projects of its kind undertaken in recent years. It involves approximately 52 miles of line and one hundred and fifty miles of track. Its consummation will give the Pennsylvania railroad a total of 90 miles of line and 264 miles of track electrified for suburban service, directly in and out of Philadelphia. In addition, the Camden-Atlantic City electric line provides Philadelphia with an extensive suburban service via the Delaware river ferries.

The electrification projects to Wilmington and West Chester are an integral part of the Pennsylvania railroad's plan for its new main Philadelphia passenger station on the west bank of the Schuylkill river, and the extension of electric suburban service into a centrally located underground terminal near the site of the present Broad street station.

Games and music were diversions. Luncheon was served by the hostess.

WELLSVILLE'S SERVICE-SAFETY DIRECTOR IS ON JOB

PEACE FOLLOWS ASHLEY-FOGO PARLEY HERE

Mayor and Cabinet Member Drop Their Grievances.

ONE-WEEK BREAK

Preparations Under Way for 10-Year Light Pact.

George P. Ashley, Wellsville's service-safety director, is back on the job.

Peace has been restored in the mayor's cabinet and preparations are under way for the completion of the city's 10-year contract with the Ohio Power company, an important piece of legislation that faced a possible tie-up as a result of Ashley's recent dismissal by Mayor W. L. Fogo.

Prior to Ashley's departure yesterday for Columbus, where he will attend the annual meeting of the state board of health, it became known that Mayor Fogo and Ashley, at a conference between themselves, had dropped their grievances and patched up the break, the adjustment permitting Ashley to exercise his authority in the matter of the light contract legislation.

The break lasted just a week, Ashley having been dismissed by Fogo as the former was directing operations of the sewer repair crew in the West End.

Ashley authorized the payment of approximately $121 to former Patrolman Harry F. Hurd, upon the advice of City Solicitor S. C. Lucecock, his action bringing about his dismissal.

The city previously had been advised to pay Hurd his back salary in a ruling by the state civil service commission.

Ashley, who is president of the local health board, expects to be in Columbus at the state health conference all this week.

The private parley between the mayor and the director followed a meeting of a special council committee, along with city officials, arranged for the purpose of trying to bring about a reconciliation. Nothing was accomplished at this particular meeting.

MRS. KELLY, 89, DIES AFTER TEN WEEKS' ILLNESS

Succumbs Monday Evening at Home in Buckeye Avenue.

HERE 64 YEARS

Funeral Services to be Held Thursday Afternoon.

Following an illness of approximately 10 weeks, Mrs. Martha J. Kelly, one of the oldest and best known residents of the city, died last evening at 5:25 o'clock in her home, 1902 Buckeye avenue.

Had she lived until November 25, Thanksgiving day, Mrs. Kelly would have been 89 years of age.

She was born on that date in 1837 at Sugar Grove Ridge, in Jefferson county, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. George Householder. She was the last of a family of eleven children.

Mrs. Kelly lived here for 64 years, having come to Wellsville when she married Robert Kelly, of this city, who died 29 years ago. During her long residence here she has formed a wide acquaintanceship.

For 75 years she has been a member of the Methodist Episcopal church

Three children survive: Mrs. W. R. Donaldson, of this city; and Edward and Blanche, at home.

Funeral services will be held Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock in the home, in charge of Rev. W. S. Rowe, pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal church.

Burial will be made in Spring Hill cemetery.

Plan Rummage Sale.

Plans are being perfected for the rummage sale which will be conducted on Thursday by the Women's Missionary society of the First Presbyterian church in the Brannan property, 617 Main street.

Pennsylvania Lets Contract for Electrification of Branch Line

Three Firms Get Orders for New Equipment for Use on Eastern Division.

The Pennsylvania railroad today announced that electrical equipment for a total of 128 passenger cars has been ordered in preparation for electric operation of the Southern division main line between Philadelphia and Wilmington, Del., and the Octoraro branch between Philadelphia and West Chester, Pa. Extensive progress is being made on the work of electrifying these lines and the new equipment for them is expected to be delivered by November, 1927.

The orders for this equipment have been placed as follows: Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing company, apparatus for 93 cars; General Electric company, apparatus for 30 cars; Brown-Boveri Electric Corporation apparatus for five cars.

The Pennsylvania railroad has also contracted for the electric equipment to be used in the construction of eight new locomotives to be operated in the New York tunnel service between Pennsylvania station, New York city, and Manhattan Transfer. Four units of this equipment have been ordered from the Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing company and four from the General Electric company. Delivery is expected to be completed by September, 1927.

The cars for the Philadelphia-Wilmington and Philadelphia-West Chester service will all be of the "multiple unit" type, each car carrying its own motors. In that way the power available will be automatically increased or decreased in proportion to the number of cars in the train.

The electrification work between Philadelphia and West Chester constitutes one of the most important projects of its kind undertaken in recent years. It involves approximately 52 miles of line and one hundred and fifty miles of track. Its consummation will give the Pennsylvania railroad a total of 90 miles of line and 264 miles of track electrified for suburban service, directly in and out of Philadelphia. In addition, the Camden-Atlantic City electric line provides Philadelphia with an extensive suburban service via the Delaware river ferries.

The electrification projects to Wilmington and West Chester are an integral part of the Pennsylvania railroad's plan for its new main Philadelphia passenger station on the west bank of the Schuylkill river, and the extension of electric suburban service into a centrally located underground terminal near the site of the present Broad street station.

Mrs. Edgar Davidson Tendered Farewell By Parthenon Class

The honor guest was presented with several gifts by the class.

Games and music were diversions. Luncheon was served by the hostess.

The next regular meeting of the class will be held on Thursday, Nov. 18, at the home of Mrs. Harry Wilson, in Beech street.

Missionary Meeting.

Missionary society of the Second Presbyterian church will convene tonight in the church parlors. The meeting will begin at 7:30 o'clock.

Entertains Women's Society.

"How to Plan Your Meals"

Don't you sometimes wonder what you have to show for the time and thought that you spend on the family meals. Three meals a day, seven days a week—on and on, year after year! No business man cares to plod away unless his work gains significance, and why should you, you may have thought, resentfully Yet yours more than any other occupation has compensation to offer.

Look at your children's rosy cheeks and happy dispositions; your husband's good health, the general feeling of content and happiness that pervades your home. All these are the result of your thought and planning and surely they are worth all the energy they cost.

The body needs food for three purposes: (1) To build new bone and tissue, (2) to supply energy, (3) to regulate the process of digestion, elimination, respiration, etc. The foods that are best equipped to do this work are shown in the following table.

Recipes the Ladies Asked to Have Published in The Review-Tribune.

Frozen Fruit Salad

1½ tablespoon flour
¼ teaspoon dry mustard
1 teaspoon salt

Add ½ cup condensed milk, ½ cup water and 3 tablespoons powdered sugar and 1 egg yolk slightly beaten. Cook over hot water 15 minutes, stirring until thickened, strain and add 2 tablespoons butter and ¼ teaspoon celery seed. Cool, then fold in the stiffly beaten egg white, ½ cup cream beaten stiff and 1½ cups fruit cut in small pieces using bananas, oranges, white grapes and Marachino cherries.

Put in freezing pan of Electric Refrigerator or in baking powder cans—cover top with wax paper then put on cover and pack in ice and salt for 2 hours.

Serve cut in squares or slices on lettuce leaves.

Vegetable Ring

2 tablespoons gelatine
1 cup cold water.
2½ cups hot water
¼ cup vinegar
¼ cup lemon juice
½ cup sugar
1 teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon grated onion
1½ cups grated carrot
1½ cups finely shredded cabbage
2 solid ripe tomatoes
1 green pepper

Soften gelatine in cold water, dissolve by adding hot water. Add vinegar, lemon juice, sugar, salt and onion. Wet a quart ring mold with cold water and put into it about 1 cup of the gelatine mixture and allow it to harden, then cut strips of the green pepper about ¼ inch wide and put into the mold so as to section the spaces in about 7 equal spaces. In between these sections place a thick half slice of tomato. Pour over this 1 more cup of the gelatine mixture. Mix half of the remaining gelatine mixture with the cabbage and put that in the mold. Mix the rest of the gelatine with the carrot and add that. Let stand a couple of hours. Unmold on a chop plate with a border of lettuce and serve with mayonnaise served from a glass bowl placed in the center of the ring.

Apricot Mousse

1 tablespoon gelatine
¼ cup cold water
1 cup of apricot syrup
1 pint of whipping cream
1 can of apricots run through strainer.

Hydrate gelatine in cold water, heat syrup and pour over gelatine. When mixture commences to jell add to cream which has been whipped until stiff, then add apricot pulp. Place in freezing pan of electrical refrigerator and let freeze for 2 hours. Serve in sherbet glasses.

Cheese Loaf

Remove crust from a loaf of sandwich bread. Slice bread lengthwise. Butter slices on both sides except top and bottom slices. Make fillings as follows:

Red Filling—Four slices ham finely chopped. Three slices crisp bacon fine. One chopped pimento.

Yellow Filling—Yolks three hard cooked eggs seasoned with salt, pepper and ½ teaspoon vinegar.

White Filling — One-half package cream cheese softened with one-half grated cucumber.

Green Fillings — Four small sweet pickles and six sprigs of water cress or parsley chopped fine.

Spread slices of buttered bread with fillings in the order given. Soften three packages of cream cheese with sweet cream and spread on the outside of loaf, as you would in a cake, garnish wih pecans, marachino cherries or colored gum drops cut in small bits. Wrap in damp cloth and keep in cold place several hours before slicing.

Contracting Firms Busy in Several Parts of County.

Nothwithstanding the inclement weather, the Holmes Construction company is going forward with the surfacing of the East Rochester-North Georgetown road in West township. Surfacing of this road was started at the Knox-West township line and is being built northward to North Georgetown, where a connection will be made with the Damascus-Valley road. Less than 3,500 feet of concrete remain to be poured, and unless there is weather interference this stretch of road should be completed within seven or eight days of actual work.

The southern end of this road is curing in excellent shape. Earth has been thrown over the top of the road, so that the concrete will not cure too rapidly.

On the East Liverpool-Youngstown road, or intercounty highway No. 502, located north of the Cox highway in Fairfield township, traffic was permitted over this gap for the first time Thursday of last week, it is announced by County Surveyor Lloyd C. Kirk.

The day the road was opened to traffic, the state highway department sent a crew over the road with the profilometer, which is a depression recording instrument, for the purpose of ascertaining the smoothness of the surface. Under the specifications road contracts are now awarded in Ohio, where depressions of over one-quarter of an inch are recorded, $1 per square yard is deducted from the contract price.

It is announced that a number of contractors who have built roads in this county this year have suffered such reductions, and that similar reductions will be made whenever records disclose that new roads are not smooth.

The Lewis & Copeland Contracting company have ceased operations on the Columbiana-New Waterford road, and no more work will be done on this job until next spring. The company, however, has removed its equipment from this contract to the East Liverpool-Youngstown job, or that part of this new highway extending from Middleton north to the Cox highway. It is proposed to complete this grading job this year, so that the surfacing work can be started early next spring.

The Williamson, Howard & Smith Co., of Youngstown, which has the contract for the grading on the East Liverpool-Youngstown road from Rogers in Middleton township to Williamsport, southward are making favorable progress, but there has been some delay on this job with reference to the construction of the drainage structures. This is on account of the condition of the road over which materials have to be hauled to these bridges and culverts. This situation has caused the delay in getting materials to these particular jobs.

Lewis & Copeland are making slow progress on the grading contract recently awarded them on a section of the East Liverpool-Youngstown road from Williamsport south to the St. Clair township line school. In all probability this concern will cease operations on the two large bridges they are to build over the middle and north forks of Beaver Creek on this part of the road, because of the fact that they are unable at this season to get materials, such as concrete, sand and gravel to these jobs.

Herman C. Armstrong of Lisbon is making progress on the new concrete bridge that is being built at Cannons Mill. The same contractor is also working on a new bridge on the East Rochester-North Georgetown road in West township. This bridge is to replace the old one-way structure that has been in use for so many years.

Orders have been issued by County Surveyor Kirk to James W. Groom to complete the grading of the Summitville-Salineville road this season, and before winter sets in. It is proposed to surface this road next season.

COMMISSIONERS OPEN COAL BIDS

Bids for furnishing of coal for the court house and the county garage have been opened by the county commissioners, and a wide range of quotations resulted. The lowest proposal was $4 per ton. A bid of $4.10 per ton delivered for No. 6 screen coal was recorded, and a tentative bid of $4.50 submitted by Joseph Fawcett included any advances the market might record. The bidder also declared that should a decline be noted, that this would be in favor of the purchaser. The highest proposal was that submitted by John Chestnut at $4.75 per ton for run of mine stock.

Neglect of duty and infidelity are charged in the petition.

Myler who is 40 years of age was married to the plaintiff Oct. 31st, 1921 at Chester, W. Va. The couple adopted a child at Knoxville, Tenn., which is now in the custody of Mrs. Myler, and the court is asked to award the future custody of this child to her.

SPEEDING WORK ON ROAD JOBS

Contracting Firms Busy in Several Parts of County.

Nothwithstanding the inclement weather, the Holmes Construction company is going forward with the surfacing of the East Rochester-North Georgetown road in West township. Surfacing of this road was started at the Knox-West township line and is being built northward to North Georgetown, where a connection will be made with the Damascus-Valley road. Less than 3,500 feet of concrete remain to be poured, and unless there is weather interference this stretch of road should be completed within seven or eight days of actual work.

The southern end of this road is curing in excellent shape. Earth has been thrown over the top of the road, so that the concrete will not cure too rapidly.

On the East Liverpool-Youngstown road, or intercounty highway No. 502, located north of the Cox highway in Fairfield township, traffic was permitted over this gap for the first time Thursday of last week, it is announced by County Surveyor Lloyd C. Kirk.

The day the road was opened to traffic, the state highway department sent a crew over the road with the profilometer, which is a depression recording instrument, for the purpose of ascertaining the smoothness of the surface. Under the specifications road contracts are now awarded in Ohio, where depressions of over one-quarter of an inch are recorded, $1 per square yard is deducted from the contract price.

It is announced that a number of contractors who have built roads in this county this year have suffered such reductions, and that similar reductions will be made whenever records disclose that new roads are not smooth.

The Lewis & Copeland Contracting company have ceased operations on the Columbiana-New Waterford road, and no more work will be done on this job until next spring. The company, however, has removed its equipment from this contract to the East Liverpool-Youngstown job, or that part of this new highway extending from Middleton north to the Cox highway. It is proposed to complete this grading job this year, so that the surfacing work can be started early next spring.

This is on account of the condition of the road over which materials have to be hauled to these bridges and culverts. This situation has caused the delay in getting materials to these particular jobs.

Herman C. Armstrong of Lisbon is making progress on the new concrete bridge that is being built at Cannons Mill. The makers of this wonderful liniment have received many thousands of letters like this telling of the amazing relief that Sloan's gives to every kind of muscular pain.

Sloan's gives real and lasting help because it doesn't just deaden the pain. It gets at the cause. Right to the place that hurts it brings a healing stream of fresh, new blood. POWER PLANT WORKER KILLED

W. M. Whitford, 40, Crushed Under Beams at Toronto.

William M. Whitford, 40, of 122 1-2 South Seventh street, Steubenville, is dead as a result of injuries sustained when heavy steel beams he and several other workmen were unloading at the P. & O. power plant at Toronto fell upon him.

Whitford, a structural steel worker employed by the Stevens Wood Company doing construction work at the plant, was standing in a freight car while beams were being unloaded. The girders were being lifted out of the car on a crane and when a block slipped the beams fell and crushed him against the side of the car. He died instantly.

The body was removed to the Paisley Undertaking rooms at Toronto.

"MUSCLES ALL TIED UP IN HARD KNOTS"

Limbers up quickly after hard ride

"After several years' absence from the saddle, I took a hard horseback ride, and the next day my muscles were all tied up in hard knots. I applied Sloan's Liniment. Right away the tenseness in the muscles began to relax and in an hour or so, they felt as limber as ever."

The makers of this wonderful liniment have received many thousands of letters like this telling of the amazing relief that Sloan's gives to every kind of muscular pain.

Sloan's gives real and lasting help because it doesn't just deaden the pain. It gets at the cause. Right to the place that hurts it brings a healing stream of fresh, new blood. And stiff muscles quickly relax, and pain stops as the healing stream carries off the "fatigue poisons." Get a bottle today. All druggists—35 cents.

POWER PLANT WORKER KILLED

W. M. Whitford, 40, Crushed Under Beams at Toronto.

William M. Whitford, 40, of 122 1-2 South Seventh street, Steubenville, is dead as a result of injuries sustained when heavy steel beams he and several other workmen were unloading at the P. & O. power plant at Toronto fell upon him.

Whitford, a structural steel worker employed by the Stevens Wood Company doing construction work at the plant, was standing in a freight car while beams were being unloaded. The girders were being lifted out of the car on a crane and when a block slipped the beams fell and crushed him against the side of the car. He died instantly.

The body was removed to the Paisley Undertaking rooms at Toronto.

Places were arranged for Misses Sara Snyder, Helen Zahrendt, Ila Jarvis, Margaret Moore, Mabel Householder, Marie Hall, Elizabeth Pierson, Ruth Barnhardt, Mary Lowers, Mildred Miler, May Moore, Anna Smith, Clarice McCulloch and Messrs. For over 40 years Hall's Catarrh Medicine has been giving relief—even in cases of long standing. If you are a victim—by acting now, you may save yourself years of pain.

Get Hall's Catarrh Medicine today. Then rejoice in the relief and improvement. Ask your druggist. Price 85c. F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio.

Now I have placed this dressing at every woman's call. All toilet counters supply it as Edna Wallace Hopper's Wave and Sheen. The price is 75c. My guarantee comes with each bottle. If it doesn't delight you, doesn't double the beauty of your hair at once, ask for your money back.

Go try it now. It is one of the best helps I ever found for women, especially for those with bobbed hair.

Muskies Confident of Victory Over Downtrodden Denison

Tie for Conference Title Certainty If Magenta Stops Red

Langemen Will Meet Marietta Following Week But That One is Already Counted in; Stronger Competition Looms for Oberlin and Wooster in Miami and Akron Games.

By Stanley D. Koch.

CLEVELAND, Nov. 9.—If there is any logic in the fact that an eleven that has been held scoreless in the past four games, will repeat, you can count Muskingum in for a championship tie in the Ohio conference. Friday, the Magenta plays Denison at New Concord and the big Red has been whitewashed by Ohio, Case, Miami and Wooster on successive weekends. Therefore, all augeries point to a Muskingum victory. On the following Saturday, Marietta is played but that is the least of Coach Lange's worries.

While the five touchdowns scored by Kenyon against the Muskies would indicate that the Magenta line or secondary defense is weak, the final result also shows that Muskingum has the needed power to push over enough scores to win. And that is the secret of a winning team.

Meet Stronger Teams.

On the other hand, Wooster and Oberlin, other leaders, who meet in a battle royal on Nov. 20, play somewhat stronger competition this Saturday. The Oberlin crew plays Miami at Oberlin. Miami has been an in-and-outer but the 27-19 triumph against Mt. Union is a definite achievement. The Bicyclists have the strength of defense that counts and that plus the ability of a backfield composed of Poe, Hansburg, Fleming and Burr, should win.

Wooster, in playing Akron at Wooster, will find the Zippers improved in morale by virtue of the Reserve victory and strengthened in personnel by the return of Captain Wargo, who was out of the last game. However, it will take an enormous change of style to have the Black and Gold lose, for its showing to date has been the neatest of any eleven in the race. A strong forward wall, two exceptional ends and a crashing, driving backfield tell the Wooster story.

Dayton Flies Claim.

Dayton enters its championship claim with three probable victories, two in effect now and the third coming when the Flyers meet Ohio Northern at Dayton, Saturday. The Norsemen might win, but Jack isn't climbing bean stalks any more nor do nice fairies give deserving mortals wishing rings.

In addition to the Muskingum-Denison clash, two other conference games are scheduled for Friday. The revived Kenyon eleven plays Mt. Union at Gambier and has a chance to win. The Purple's loss to Miami has served to lower the Mount stock, although Mt. Union scored more points against Miami than any other opponent, including Wittenberg and Ohio Wesleyan.

Marietta, flushed with its initial season's win over Otterbein is due for another fall, when Ohio U. journeys down state to play at Marietta. The Green and White was not imposing in its win over Ohio Northern, but it's still much too strong for the conference babes.

In the homecoming game, Western Reserve entertains Ohio Wesleyan at Cleveland. The Pioneers have fizzled sadly after being the best ballyhooed team in the race, but a win over the Red and Black will save the season for Coach Locke. However, to date, Reserve have proved unsmart and gridiron stupidity plus the lack of a forward pass attack has been the undoing of the Red and White.

The other Fifth City team treks to Berea where Baldwin-Wallace plays Case and should prove little resistance for the growing Scientist drive. Case, after trouble at the hands of Oberlin and Wooster, is setting its star for a win over Western Reserve in the annual classic, but realizes the necessity of defeating Baldwin-Wallace first. And so it will probably obtain.

Last year, Cincinnati defeated Wittenberg, 6-2. This year the accumulated spirit of revenge will, in all chances, heap itself upon the already bent shoulders of the Bearcats and the Lutherans will feel slightly better for the Wesleyan loss. The game is at Cincinnati.

Hiram and Otterbein meet at Hiram to decide a couple of years of battles, inasmuch as last year's fight was a 12-12 affair. It's been aeons and aeons since Hiram won a game and this may be the opportunity, since Otterbein is having a bad season.

PRINCETON, N. J., Nov. 9.—After a day of rest, the Princeton eleven began preparing today for the Yale game. Many of the regulars are in a crippled condition as a result of the Harvard contest.

SPORTS DONE BROWN

Demands have already been presented to the Control Board of Officials and members of the rules committee in the east that proper action be taken at the winter meeting of the football powers to curb the epidemic of unnecessary roughness which seems to have broken out in the college grid sport this season. At least three games—important ones — have been marred by impromptu no-decision bouts, "getting" parties and unethical tactics.

The proper officials may well consider means of checking these tactics. But in all fairness to the players the officials should also take steps to eliminate any abuses perpetrated by any of the officials assigned to games in their districts.

I am reliably informed that one of the officials working in one of three games mentioned was dismissed years ago from one of the institutions participating and that his work in the game gave every indication that his judgment was biased. If such be the case then the officiating end of the game is not above criticism.

There has been considerable ill feeling for years in the east over the manner of selecting officials from a "preferred" list. Those who attack the system point to the manner in which the matter is handled in the middle west where the referee and umpire are named solely upon their ability.

Seek Pass Defense.

WEST POINT, N. Y., Nov. 9.—A stiff workout was scheduled for the Army squad today as the coaches began preparations for the Notre Dame game. Perfecting a defense against the forward pass is the chief worry of the coaches.

Develop Defensive.

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—The Columbia coaches today concentrated on developing a more powerful offensive against Penn. Mike Sesit, star lineplunger and defensive back, has returned to the squad.

Yale Optimistic.

NEW HAVEN, Nov. 9. — The Yale eleven, demoralized by recent defeats, is looking forward to the Princeton game with optimism following the return of Scott and other regulars. Jack Failing is being tried at right halfback.

Penn Backs Injured.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 9.—Scull and Wascolonis, backs, are Penn's only injured regulars. Two hard scrimmages will be held this week.

ARMY-IRISH TILT SATURDAY

Over 100,000 Applications for Tickets Turned Down.

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—Great oaks from tiny acorns grow and probably those who enjoyed comparative isolation at the first Army-Notre Dame football game on the plains of West Point did not rush home to tell the wife and kiddies that the day would come when the event would make Grimm's fairy tales look plausible by contrast with the spectacle of irate citizens garroting one another for the privilege of paying $50 for a pair of tickets worth six dollars.

The day will come on Saturday. Endow the Yankee stadium with rubber walls for the occasion and it is the estimate of club officials that 200,000 addicts would see the ball game. They say they have turned down at least 100,000 applications to date, exclusive of a lot of people who were too smart to ask.

However, some of the ticket speculators are very dumb and that is the reason a three-dollar ticket today is worth $12.50 to the stupid bloke who holds it. The ticket is expected to double in value by Saturday for the whole town is spending its waking moments on the telephone trying to convince possible ticket sources that they are holding something beside their own.

In brief, the Army-Notre Dame football game, started thirteen years ago for no particular reason, has become the great "public" sport event of the day. St. Louis might have entertained 100,000 at Sportsman's park at any single game of the late world series and the Yankee stadium ran to its baseball capacity of 63,800, except when ideal weather turned up missing at the final game. You couldn't keep the boys away on Saturday with a machine gun.

The Kentucky derby annually plays to 70,000 but there is always room for more in the infield. The Dempsey-Tunney fight drew 127,000 but there were seats quite innocent of occupation. The Big Three series, of course, would sell out, no matter what the capacity might be. But this is not a public institution. It is a closed corporation and so is the California-Stanford game.

The fact that neither Notre Dame nor the Army has been beaten partly accounts for great clamor but, four weeks ago, nobody knew this would be so. Four weeks ago, local officials placed 14,081 seats on public sale and the boys just naturally rioted. The tickets were gone in twenty-four hours and so were the boys but not before the reserves had been called out. No doubt about it, the addicts were very earnest about the thing on that occasion.

They still are. It will be Notre Dame's only appearance in the East this season and that seems to be enough to make anyone lay back his ears and start something. That, in fact, is the tip off on the situation. Both Army and Navy teams are deservedly popular in this section but the Irish, with their showmanship and yearly stars, are nothing short of a stampede. They've made us what we are today, we hope they're satisfied. We are.

'BEAT ARMY' IS IRISH SLOGAN

NOTRE DAME, Ind., Nov. 9.—"The Army team that I saw play last Saturday is so good that if we don't play 50 per cent better football next Saturday than we have at any time so far this year, we're going to be disgraced."

So said Coach Knute Rockne on his return to duties at Notre Dame today.

The campus at once became alive with signs bearing the legend, "Beat the Army." Even the main steps of the administration building, where tradition has it that no under classman shall tread, had one of these signs tacked gayly on it and the trees on the campus that have remained immune from posters since the mind of man runneth, were duly decked out.

CITIES COMPETE FOR ICE EVENTS

DETROIT, Nov. 9. — Boston, Chicago, Pittsburgh, New York and Detroit were competing for national or international skating championships at the closing sessions of the annual meeting of the International Skating union here today.

W. Carroll Hill, of Boston, was elected president of the union; Frank Kalteaux, of Chicago, first vice president, and Ben Giffen, of Pittsburgh, secretary-treasurer.

The Michigan association's request that Charles Gorman and Roy Moore, skating stars, be suspended indefinitely for not competing in the national outdoor speed skating championships here last February was not allowed.

ALL-AMERICAN GRID CANDIDATES

By Norman E. Brown.

Brown University stands out as the most unusual, if not the strongest team of the year, partly through its feat in going through the victorious battles with Yale and Dartmouth with the eleven men who started the first fray. And one of the outstanding figures of that Brown lineup is Captain Harold Broda, left end.

Broda is probably one of the greatest defensive ends in the game today. He demonstrated his ability clearly in the two games mentioned.

JEFF CRAWATH

His feat in blocking Harris' punt late in the Dartmouth fray gave Brown its chance to score its only touchdown, Towle, Broda's teammate, fell on the ball on Dartmouth's 13-yard line and a forward pass netted the score.

H. BRODA

Newell Cravath, center of the powerful University of Southern California team, has demanded All-American consideration ever since he started playing varsity football. This despite the fact that he has always been outweighed many pounds by the opposing center.

He is an accurate passer and good line smasher on offense and a fast man on defense, frequently intercepting passes tossed over the line.

His work has been a big feature in making Howard Jones' team one of the most powerful on the western side of the Rockies.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LEAGUE FORMED

Eight Clubs Line Up for Floor Battles at "Y"

Organization of the Y. M. C. A.—Sunday school basketball league for the 1926-27 season was perfected at a meeting of team representatives last night at the "Y."

Eight clubs have lined up for the winter's battles, including the Baptists, Presbyterians, St. Stephens, Lutherans, United Presbyterians, Park Boulevards, Methodist Episcopal and Christians.

The league elected the following officers: President, Albert Pittinger; vice president, George Brown; secretary, Harvey Price; treasurer, Frank Lunsford.

The league expects to swing into action immediately after Thanksgiving.

Work on the loop schedule will start at the next meeting on Monday night.

No formal schedule will be prepared for the Junior teams this year, although the youngsters may play preliminary games to the scheduled contests.

GENEVA MAY MAKE TRIP TO FLORIDA

BEAVER FALLS, Nov. 9.—Prospects of Geneva college football team, coached by "Bo" McMillin, making a trip to Jacksonville, Fla., for a New Year's day game were made brighter by the cancellation of the proposed game with the winner of the Rocky Mountain conference in Denver on December 4, college officials said today.

Colorado's failure to win the title caused Denver promoters to cancel the proposed game, the local college was advised. Having tentatively accepted the Denver date, Geneva officials were doubtful whether a second long jaunt to Florida would be permitted.

Whether Geneva goes to Jacksonville depends now upon whether the local team wins the remainder of its scheduled games, it was stated. Simultaneously, a report that Coach McMillin would coach the University of Kentucky team next season was denied by the former Centre college star who said he was well satisfied with his position at Geneva.

RICKARD PLANS NEW FIGHT ARENA

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—With plans in operation for the erection of a fight club in Chicago and the leasing of another in Detroit, Tex Rickard was said today to be contemplating the construction of a modern arena on the site of what is now Boyle's Thirty Acres, Jersey City. It was reported that the wooden bowl which served its purpose for the Dempsey-Carpentier bout would be razed. The new arena, it was estimated, would cost about $1,500,000.

INSIDE GOLF

By CHESTER HORTON,
Maker of 51 Golf Champions.
"Golf's most successful teacher," says "Chick" Evans.

Regarding the arms in the back swing and what to do with them, one of the best rules I know of is this: Use your arms as if both arms were one. The hinge, then, between arms and the club are the wrists. This makes a Y out of arms and club. The day the player begins practicing this he will begin the practice of having his arms keep more in unison with the body and club action. They will hold together better. One of the commonest faults of the golf swing is the easily-acquired habit of having the arms "wander!" That is, they fly loose and get away out from the body. This happens because the club is light and offers too little weight to restrain this loose arm action by creating a resistance. The club's resistance should be felt in the fingers.

Scrimmage Sessions For Local Gridders

Hard Week's Work is Outlined by Blue and White Coaches in Preparation for Game With Chester Saturday.

No less than three scrimmage sessions this week, in addition to the customary signal and blackboard drill will give high school footballers plenty to do as they shape up their forces again following the 25-7 disaster at Salem Saturday.

The next contest on the card calls for the appearance of Chester on the local gridiron and the Chester team of 1926 comes to the Ceramic City as a distinct threat, playing a brand of football under the direction of Coach Ray Wilde that is far above and beyond their performance of other years.

Coaches Kidder and Cox put the local squad through a tough scrimmage session last night; another is scheduled for tonight, providing weather permits; and another is on the boards for Wednesday night. And hard drills, with the scrimmage part eliminated then, will continue right up until Friday night, in an effort to correct the mistakes observed by Kidder in the Salem engagement.

The team, as a whole, came out of the Salem encounter in fairly good physical trim, save the customary bumps and bruises.

The Chester game, in the last few weeks, has come to be looked upon as one of the outstanding attractions of the Blue and White schedule and as such is certain to bring out one of the biggest attendances of the season.

Wilde has perfected a smooth working combination at Chester and the boys are full of confidence as they drill at Rock Springs park.

YOST PREPARES 1927 SCHEDULE

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Nov. 9.—Three major games for the 1927 football season have been scheduled by the University of Michigan, it was learned here today.

Coach Fielding H. Yost will attend the conference meeting in Chicago on November 27 in an effort to schedule another conference team for a home game.

Muskies Confident of Victory Over Downtrodden Denison

Tie for Conference Title Certainty If Magenta Stops Red

Langemen Will Meet Marietta Following Week But That One is Already Counted in; Stronger Competition Looms for Oberlin and Wooster in Miami and Akron Games.

By Stanley D. Koch.

CLEVELAND, Nov. 9.—If there is any logic in the fact that an eleven that has been held scoreless in the past four games, will repeat, you can count Muskingum in for a championship tie in the Ohio conference. Friday, the Magenta plays Denison at New Concord and the big Red has been whitewashed by Ohio, Case, Miami and Wooster on successive weekends. Therefore, all augeries point to a Muskingum victory. On the following Saturday, Marietta is played but that is the least of Coach Lange's worries.

While the five touchdowns scored by Kenyon against the Muskies would indicate that the Magenta line or secondary defense is weak, the final result also shows that Muskingum has the needed power to push over enough scores to win. And that is the secret of a winning team.

Meet Stronger Teams.

On the other hand, Wooster and Oberlin, other leaders, who meet in a battle royal on Nov. 20, play somewhat stronger competition this Saturday. The Oberlin crew plays Miami at Oberlin. Miami has been an in-and-outer but the 27-19 triumph against Mt. Union is a definite achievement. The Bicyclists have the strength of defense that counts and that plus the ability of a backfield composed of Poe, Hansburg, Fleming and Burr, should win.

Wooster, in playing Akron at Wooster, will find the Zippers improved in morale by virtue of the Reserve victory and strengthened in personnel by the return of Captain Wargo, who was out of the last game. However, it will take an enormous change of style to have the Black and Gold lose, for its showing to date has been the neatest of any eleven in the race. A strong forward wall, two exceptional ends and a crashing, driving backfield tell the Wooster story.

Dayton Files Claim.

Dayton enters its championship claim with three probable victories, two in effect now and the third coming when the Flyers meet Ohio Northern at Dayton, Saturday. The Norsemen might win, but Jack isn't climbing bean stalks any more nor do nice fairies give deserving mortals wishing rings.

In addition to the Muskingum-Denison clash, two other conference games are scheduled for Friday. The revived Kenyon eleven plays Mt. Union at Gambier and has a chance to win. The Purple's loss to Miami has served to lower the Mount stock, although Mt. Union scored more points against Miami than any other opponent, including Wittenberg and Ohio Wesleyan.

Marietta, flushed with its initial season's win over Otterbein is due for another fall, when Ohio U. journeys down state to play at Marietta. The Green and White was not imposing in its win over Ohio Northern, but it's still much too strong for the conference babes.

In the homecoming game, Western Reserve entertains Ohio Wesleyan at Cleveland. The Pioneers have fizzled sadly after being the best ballyhooed team in the race, but a win over the Red and Black will save the season for Coach Locke. However, to date, Reserve have proved unsmart and gridiron stupidity plus the lack of a forward pass attack has been the undoing of the Red and White.

The other Fifth City team treks to Berea where Baldwin-Wallace plays Case and should prove little resistance for the growing Scientist drive. Case, after trouble at the hands of Oberlin and Wooster, is setting its star for a win over Western Reserve in the annual classic, but realizes the necessity of defeating Baldwin-Wallace first. And so it will probably obtain.

Last year, Cincinnati defeated Wittenberg, 6-2. This year the accumulated spirit of revenge will, in all chances, heap itself upon the already bent shoulders of the Bearcats and the Lutherans will feel slightly better for the Wesleyan loss. The game is at Cincinnati.

Hiram and Otterbein meet at Hiram to decide a couple of years of battles, inasmuch as last year's fight was a 12-12 affair. It's been aeons and aeons since Hiram won a game and this may be the opportunity, since Otterbein is having a bad season.

The day the player begins practicing this he will begin the practice of having his arms keep more in unison with the body and club action. They will hold together better. One of the commonest faults of the golf swing is the easily-acquired habit of having the arms "wander." That is, they fly loose and get away out from the body. This happens because the club is light and offers too little weight to restrain this loose arm action by creating a resistance. The club's resistance should be felt in the fingers.

Scrimmage Sessions For Local Gridders

Hard Week's Work is Outlined by Blue and White Coaches in Preparation for Game With Chester Saturday.

No less than three scrimmage sessions this week, in addition to the customary signal and blackboard drill will give high school footballers plenty to do as they shape up their forces again following the 25-7 disaster at Salem Saturday.

The next contest on the card calls for the appearance of Chester on the local gridiron and the Chester team of 1926 comes to the Ceramic City as a distinct threat, playing a brand of football under the direction of Coach Ray Wilde that is far above and beyond their performance of other years.

Coaches Kidder and Cox put the local squad through a tough scrimmage session last night; another is scheduled for tonight, providing weather permits; and another is on the boards for Wednesday night. And hard drills, with the scrimmage part eliminated then, will continue right up until Friday night, in an effort to correct the mistakes observed by Kidder in the Salem engagement.

The team, as a whole, came out of the Salem encounter in fairly good physical trim, save the customary bumps and bruises.

The Chester game, in the last few weeks, has come to be looked upon as one of the outstanding attractions of the Blue and White schedule and as such is certain to bring out one of the biggest attendances of the season.

Wilde has perfected a smooth working combination at Chester and the boys are full of confidence as they drill at Rock Springs park.

YOST PREPARES 1927 SCHEDULE

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Nov. 9.—Three major games for the 1927 football season have been scheduled by the University of Michigan, it was learned here today.

Ohio State will dedicate the mammoth new Wolverine stadium on October 22, Navy will journey here for a game on November 12, and Minnesota will close the Wolverine season next year with a game on November 21.

Coach Fielding H. Yost will attend the conference meeting in Chicago on November 27 in an effort to schedule another conference team for a home game.

Haskin's Letter

duction and distribution of food and drugs have been altered and improved as a result of this assistance form the Government, and in some instances, it is said, trade practices have been completely revolutionized, to the ultimate benefit and profit of both producer and consumer.

"I am aware," continued the Assistant Secretary, "that there has been some criticism at times of the actions taken by the Department in specific cases. It would be indeed strange if in the development of more than 140,000 cases some error of judgment, some mistake in the interpretation of evidence, had not sometimes occurred. The Department makes no claim of infallibility for its employees, but we are proud of the fact that no breath of scandal has ever shamed our enforcement activities. We accept as part of the reward for service the acknowledged faith of the American people in the integrity of our food supply."

While Government officials feel that the food and drug law is rapidly gaining friends and supporters among those who are subjected to its regulations it is regarded as highly important that the general public understand fully the value of the law. Mr. Dunlap says that the effects of the enforcement of the law have been so beneficient that the present generation does not fully appreciate what conditions might be without this regulatory influence, and it is always possible, although not probable, that a complacent public spirit and feeling of assurance might permit of some tinkering with this great piece of food legislation before a popular sentiment could be aroused that would prevent it.

Created a Furore When Passed

The food and drug law created a furore at the time of its passage in 1906 and it encountered the bitterest hostility among many manufacturers during the first few years of its enforcement. It went into effect January 1, 1907. Many people have long since forgotten its provisions, although they have a vague idea that Uncle Sam does something or other to insure their getting pure food and drugs.

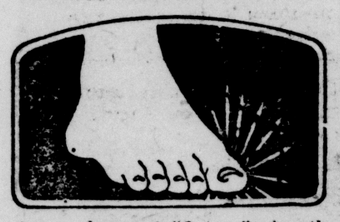
In a general way the law forbids the importation into the United States, the exportation from the United States, the introduction into interstate commerce and the manufacture and sale in the District of Columbia and the Territories, of misbranded and adulterated food and drugs. The term food is defined to include all articles used for food, drink, confectionery or condiment by man or animals. It is to be considered misbranded if any substance has been mixed or packed with it so as to reduce or lower, or injuriously affect its quality or strength; or if any substance has been substituted wholly or in part for the articles; or if any valuable constituent has been wholly or in part removed; or if it be mixed, colored, powdered, coated, or stained so as to conceal damage or inferiority; or if it contains any added poisonous or deleterious ingredient; or if it consist in whole or in part of any filthy, decomposed, or putrid animal of vegetable substance; or if it is the product of a diseased animal, or one that has died otherwise than by slaughter.

It is also to be deemed misbranded if it is an imitation of or offered for sale as another article; or if it be labelled so as to deceive or mislead the purchaser, or purport to be imported when it was not; or if the contents of the original package shall have been removed and other contents put therein; or if it fail to bear a label stating the amount of any certain drug, which are designated, contained therein, or if the label make any kind of false or misleading statement. Unlabelled foods in packages are held to be misbranded, if they are imitations, and untruthful geographical names are forbidden.

In fact, the law is so comprehensive in its provisions that it would be extremely difficult for any manufacturer to sell anything in the way of food or drugs that was not exactly what it should be.

INGROWN NAIL

Turns Right Out Itself



A few drops of "Outgro" in the crevice of the ingrowing nail reduces inflammation and pain and so toughens the tender, sensitive skin underneath the toe nail, that it can not penetrate the flesh, and the nail turns naturally outward almost over night. "Outgrow" is a harmless antiseptic manufactured for chiropodists. However, anyone can buy from the drug store a tiny bottle containing directions.

Haskin's Letter

duction and distribution of food and drugs have been altered and improved as a result of this assistance form the Government, and in some instances, it is said, trade practices have been completely revolutionized, to the ultimate benefit and profit of both producer and consumer.

"I am aware," continued the Assistant Secretary, "that there has been some criticism at times of the actions taken by the Department in specific cases. It would be indeed strange if in the development of more than 140,000 cases some error of judgment, some mistake in the interpretation of evidence, had not sometimes occurred. The Department makes no claim of infallibility for its employees, but we are proud of the fact that no breath of scandal has ever shamed our enforcement activities. We accept as part of the reward for service the acknowledged faith of the American people in the integrity of our food supply."

While Government officials feel that the food and drug law is rapidly gaining friends and supporters among those who are subjected to its regulations it is regarded as highly important that the general public understand fully the value of the law. Mr. Dunlap says that the effects of the enforcement of the law have been so beneficient that the present generation does not fully appreciate what conditions might be without this regulatory influence, and it is always possible, although not probable, that a complacent public spirit and feeling of assurance might permit of some tinkering with this great piece of food legislation before a popular sentiment could be aroused that would prevent it.

Created a Furore When Passed

The food and drug law created a furore at the time of its passage in 1906 and it encountered the bitterest hostility among many manufacturers during the first few years of its enforcement. It went into effect January 1, 1907. Many people have long since forgotten its provisions, although they have a vague idea that Uncle Sam does something or other to insure their getting pure food and drugs.

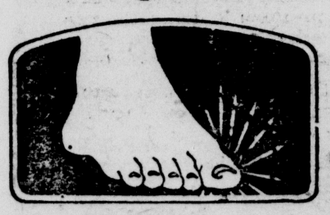
In a general way the law forbids the importation into the United States, the exportation from the United States, the introduction into interstate commerce and the manufacture and sale in the District of Columbia and the Territories, of misbranded and adulterated food and drugs. The term food is defined to include all articles used for food, drink, confectionery or condiment by man or animals. It is to be considered misbranded if any substance has been mixed or packed with it so as to reduce or lower, or injuriously affect its quality or strength; or if any substance has been substituted wholly or in part for the articles; or if any valuable constituent has been wholly or in part removed; or if it be mixed, colored, powdered, coated, or stained so as to conceal damage or inferiority; or if it contains any added poisonous or deleterious ingredient; or if it consist in whole or in part of any filthy, decomposed, or putrid animal of vegetable substance; or if it is the product of a diseased animal, or one that has died otherwise than by slaughter.

It is also to be deemed misbranded if it is an imitation of or offered for sale as another article; or if it be labelled so as to deceive or mislead the purchaser, or purport to be imported when it was not; or if the contents of the original package shall have been removed and other contents put therein; or if it fail to bear a label stating the amount of any certain drug, which are designated, contained therein, or if the label make any kind of false or misleading statement. Unlabelled foods in packages are held to be misbranded, if they are imitations, and untruthful geographical names are forbidden.

In fact, the law is so comprehensive in its provisions that it would be extremely difficult for any manufacturer to sell anything in the way of food or drugs that was not exactly what it should be.

INGROWN NAIL

Turns Right Out Itself



A few drops of "Outgro" in the crevice of the ingrowing nail reduces inflammation and pain and so toughens the tender, sensitive skin underneath the toe nail, that it can not penetrate the flesh, and the nail turns naturally outward almost over night. "Outgrow" is a harmless antiseptic manufactured for chiropodists. However, anyone can buy from the drug store a tiny bottle containing directions.

BOOK FIVE—VII.

After the cold ride in from the Tavern, Yvonne's partment was blissfully warm. Fragrant, too, with the indescribable dim perfume of its owner, and illumined by a single lamp with a fringed shade that etched pencil lines of shadow up the walls. Yvonne allowed her wrap to slip off, and dropped on to the divan, where she sat plying a cigarette in a jade holder. Jock stood over the radiator, thrawing his frost-bitten hands. "Glad you made me come up," he said. "This feels good."

"I wanted to talk to you," Yvonne told him.

Some such explanation was necessary, for usually after their evening's work he left her downstairs in the lobby and himself went immediately on home. "I want to answer that question you asked me," she supplemented.

"Well, I certainly wish you would! I've asked it twenty times tonight if I've asked it once. Why you should have lied like that to Cecily is more than I can figure out."

"It wasn't a lie," said Yvonne.

She saw him wheel like one struck from behind. She dropped her eyes, preferring not to see the set of his face. "My dear boy," she said further, lightly, ironically, "what I told Cecily was quite true. I'm not going to marry you. Not now, nor ever. You haven't enough money."

Still she did not look at him. But she knew he looked at her; and her flair for the theatrical was a help and a protection. She flicked the ashes from her cigarette, laid her head against the back of the divan, and put the holder between her lips again. The whole gesture was indolent; and her little smile gave no sign that behind it her teeth gripped vise-like on the bit of jade.

"In this newspaper job," she continued, "you'll probably begin on a salary of thirty or forty dollars a week—if you're lucky. I had an allowance of seven hundred a week when I lived with Demorest. Make your own deductions. I've made mine. I can't stand poverty, Jock Hamill. I thought I could, but I can't. I've tried it out for a year. . . . You see, you rather fascinated me. Your age fascinated me. I'm thirty-two. That surprises you, doesn't? But it's a fact. And it pleased and flattered me that I should be able to make you—just a boy—love me. Nutriment to some women's vanity is requisite, you know. Especially at thirty-two. They'll go to any lengths to attain it. They'll even give up luxury, for a while, the way I have. But of course that can't last. The time comes when apartments on Park avenue and motor cars and pearls look pretty good again, and collegiate devotion grows stale—"

"In other words, Jock Hamill," she concluded, glancing toward him for the first time, "the game has ceased to be worth the candle."

His face lashed her, so stark-white and stricken it was. Even his lips were white.

He spoke slowly. "Then all this—has been nothing to you—"

"But an interlude." Yvonne stood up, actuated by an odd notion that in repose her body could no longer bear its agony. One thought was uppermost: Jock must go, and quickly, before she faltered in this hideous role and lost herself . . .

"You might go now, Jock Hamill. I don't think there's anything more for either of us to say."

He did not move.

"Oh, go." she cried wildly. "Can't you understand? I don't want you—"

In a stride he was standing close to her, holding her arms with fingers that bit the flesh, forcing her eyes to lift to his. "Yvonne—do you know what you're doing to me?"

"Perfectly. But you'll get over it."

His laugh was dreadful to hear. "Just like that! Throw everything in the dirt and stamp on it—tear every single goddam thing in the world to pieces in a minute—and then say, 'You'll get over it.' Ha! That's very nearly funny—" His voice broke, and there was suddenly less harshness than tenderness in the clutch of his hands. He had a single instant of clear vision. "Yvonne, you don't mean these things. You can't mean them! You've just got that mad idea you used to have—that you ought not to marry me—"

Yvonne pulled herself away from him and stood, cool and contemptuous, at a little distance. "'Ought not!'" she mocked. "Stupid words! I use them now and then, but never in my life have they prevented me from taking anything I really wanted." She concluded, thoughtfully, "For instance: I suppose there are people who would say that I 'ought not' to go back to Parke Demorest. Nevertheless I'm going back to him—tomorrow."

There was an age-long interval while their glances clashed, fire against frigidity. Then Jock turned . . . swooped up his coat . . . and went.

Yvonne sank to her knees and huddled there on the carpet, a little shuddering heap of silk and feathers.

VIII.

For months he honestly believed that he would never be happy again.

So perverse is human nature that when something we have long possessed is taken from us, we do not try to determine whether or not, in our hearts, we still valued it. Theft is theft, even though it removes the thing with which we would have parted voluntarily in a little while. Jock regarded himself as a man who had suffered irredeemable loss; and not until much later did he come to the realization that he had ceased to require what he lost before he lost it.

In the meantime, he was very melancholy, and very sure that without Yvonne nothing under heavens could ever be the same. The first sharp throes of anguish subsided in due time, with the aid of a good deal of bad liquor. Afterward, bitterness and a sense of the futility of all dreams and all desires dwelt in him. This was his reaction. And w[illegible] it ran its course he looked upon life with the eyes of a cynic, and his whole mental state was a sneer. Women? Treacherous. Love? A story-book fallacy. Ideals? As sand huts on a tidal beach, built for destruction.

But there was work. ("Thank God!" said Jock somewhat melodramatically, as young men in like plight have said since time immemorial.) Congenial work. Absorbing work. In a great dirty room full of shirt-sleeved figures, prodigious tables row on row, smooth sheets of copy paper, crumpled wads of copy paper, typewriters that chattered like a million teeth in a chill. air that was dead with smoke and must and dust and printers' ink, and alive—frantic — with breathlessness. . . . From the day of his introduction to the city room of the Log he had only to enter it to feel his spirits lighten. It was a refuge and a resort, a place where the little aches of individuals were forgotten in the mighty birth-pangs of a Thing.

The Wages of Folly

WHEN Helen announced her engagement to Joe Ducy, every one agreed it was a "perfect match." With their wonderful plans for the future, they were as happy as could be.

Then Philip Merton, an old school-mate of Joe's, arrived. Helen was instantly conscious of the good looks and fascinating manner of the stranger—and she often wondered what there was about him that attracted her so. And as the days passed, she found a strange transformation taking place within herself—a strange willingness to slip away for long drives with Philip—secret adventures which she thought of as innocent fun.

Then suddenly she found herself whirled into a drama of smashing events the like of which she had never dreamed.

Helen's story, "The Wages of Folly," appears in December True Story Magazine. It not only shows the difference between real love and the cheap imitation, but it will grip your interest and pull at your heartstrings as only a story of real life can do. Don't miss it!

Minister Recommends True Story Magazine

Dear Sirs:

I cannot overestimate the value of True Story Magazine. I would recommend it without reservation to all. I am accustomed to use "Dramatic Story" sermons, taking the theme from some great book or inspiring magazine story. Already I have used three stories from the True Story Magazine before my great audiences of over 1400 people with great success. I watch for the arrival of your magazine with great interest, anticipating the finding of some great story to use as the basis of a dramatic address.

The True Story Magazine is something that the American people need.

Respectfully yours,
Rev. Laurence Breed Walker
Saco, Maine.

alone, unguided by the loving counsel of those older and wiser than herself, it is not strange, perhaps, that Betty made mistakes. But even then she might have escaped the crushing misfortune that came to her, if she had followed her own instincts, when she found herself in love with her employer. A heart-touching story every girl should read.

"Baby Fingers"—Abandoned at the height of a storm on an open prairie by her worthless husband—left alone with her helpless baby—Nellie began a battle with the world that few young mothers would care to face. How she afterwards fought to protect herself and child against the wicked plotting of ruthless enemies is an epic of courage and mother-love that will thrill and inspire you, and fill your heart with tender sympathy.

Every month you will find eighteen or twenty such stories in True Story Magazine—stories that dig below the crust of life and reveal the loves, sacrifices, struggles, triumphs and defeats of real people—the kind you see around you every day. The Wages of Folly

WHEN Helen announced her engagement to Joe Ducy, every one agreed it was a "perfect match." With their wonderful plans for the future, they were as happy as could be.

Then Philip Merton, an old school-mate of Joe's, arrived. Helen was instantly conscious of the good looks and fascinating manner of the stranger—and she often wondered what there was about him that attracted her so. And as the days passed, she found a strange transformation taking place within herself—a strange willingness to slip away for long drives with Philip—secret adventures which she thought of as innocent fun.

Then suddenly she found herself whirled into a drama of smashing events the like of which she had never dreamed.

Helen's story, "The Wages of Folly," appears in December True Story Magazine. It not only shows the difference between real love and the cheap imitation, but it will grip your interest and pull at your heartstrings as only a story of real life can do. Don't miss it!

Minister Recommends True Story Magazine

Dear Sirs:

I cannot overestimate the value of True Story Magazine. I would recommend it without reservation to all. I am accustomed to use "Dramatic Story" sermons, taking the theme from some great book or inspiring magazine story. Already I have used three stories from the True Story Magazine before my great audiences of over 1400 people with great success. I watch for the arrival of your magazine with great interest, anticipating the finding of some great story to use as the basis of a dramatic address.

The True Story Magazine is something that the American people need.

Respectfully yours,
Rev. Laurence Breed Walker
Saco, Maine.

"Baby Fingers"—Abandoned at the height of a storm on an open prairie by her worthless husband—left alone with her helpless baby—Nellie began a battle with the world that few young mothers would care to face. How she afterwards fought to protect herself and child against the wicked plotting of ruthless enemies is an epic of courage and mother-love that will thrill and inspire you, and fill your heart with tender sympathy.

MINER IS BURNED TO DEATH

Today

Upside Down.
Forever Important.
Britain Acts Quickly.
Tar Pit Traps, Long Ago.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

(The opinions expressed in this column are strictly those of Mr. Brisbane and not necessarily in consonance with the policies of The Review-Tribune.)

Copyright, 1926, by the Star Co.

EVERYBODY, except those with something important to do, attended the opening night of New York's million dollar night club, with the looking glass floor. The million dollar part was old, the looking glass dancing floor was new and was about the only new thing that could be done. Women have done everything, except exhibit their charming personalities upside down. The looking glass floor will do that.

ONE million years hence everything thus far written, said, or done by human beings will be cast aside, forgotten, unimportant. Newton's genius for mathematics will rank with a bushman's ability to count five. Shakespeare and Beethoven will rank with the Chinese tom-tom. Children probably will be born knowing more than any living man knows now. What we call history will seem as dull as the records of wolves fighting, or pigs scrambling for swill.

BUT this will not be forgotten. It will be important, while earth lasts. Italian scientists have discovered another of the missing elements, number 61, in the scale of 92 substances that make up all visible creation.

Our ignorance is shown thus: of 1,600,000,000 human beings living, more than 1,500,000,000 don't know that there are such chemical units as elements. Not one human being in a million could name the elements thus far discovered and few know, looking up at the dirigible Los Angeles, that an element recently discovered, helium, keeps the ship floating.

THE prediction that children of the year 1,001,926 will know more at birth than scientists know now, is not rash. Knowledge sticks to us, and is inherited slowly, over thousands of centuries. Lower animals prove it. The mud wasp never taught, never knowing father or mother, knows at birth how to perform a delicate surgical operation on a caterpillar, keeping it alive, but motionless for months, for the next wasp generation to feed upon it. The insects were inheriting knowledge during a million years and more, before men came. Why should not children be born, understanding differential calculus and able to discuss the fourth dimension, intelligently. Already, some children at two years of age excel in certain mental powers of the average men of 50.

GREAT BRITAIN always acting quickly, where trade is concerned makes all arrangements for recognition of Canton as a separate state, independent of Pekin. They have been shooting each other and everybody else including foreigners with British among them. That makes no difference to Britain, where business is concerned.

HUNT FOR MISSING CONVICT RENEWED

PRISON BREAK PROBED AS GUARDS WATCH 12 RECAPTURED 'BAD MEN'

Violation of Gate Rule by Guard is Blamed by Warden

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 9.—Guard George Bennett was responsible for yesterday's break at the Ohio state penitentiary. He was not intentionally responsible but violated a rule of long standing in the institution by having both of the iron gates between the guard room and prison yard open at the same time while admitting visitors, giving the inmates who got away, the opportunity they were evidently waiting for.

Such was the gist of a formal statement made at noon today by Warden P. E. Thomas at the prison.

WARDEN THOMAS DIRECTING QUIZ

Guards Who Were Stabbed or Beaten, Report for Duty Today, Prepared for Investigation to be Made.

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 9.—Governor Vic Donahey may make a personal investigation of yesterday's penitentiary break in which 13 prisoners shot and clubbed their way to liberty, he announced today.

The governor declared he has not yet received any request for an investigation.

Warden Promises Inquiry.

Warden P. E. Thomas, will make a formal report to the governor probably sometime today.

With 12 of the 13 prisoners safely back behind the walls of the institution, a state-wide hunt is on for the missing convict.

Crowded conditions of the prison, together with a violation of the rules, which forbid the opening of both inside gates simultaneously, was blamed today by Warden Thomas for the successful rush of the group of "hard-boiled" prisoners, who wounded two guards and a prison office employe in their break for freedom.

"There will be a thorough investigation by us. There will be other investigations. We will find where the responsibility, if any, is to be placed," said Thomas.

Oliver Glaspy Missing.

Oliver Glaspy, from Athens county, serving a three to 25-year term for criminal assault, was the only missing prisoner today, and authorities throughout the state were searching for him.

Nursing clubbed heads and many suffering with buckshot wounds inflicted when they made their wild dash for liberty, the dozen men, recaptured after two hours of harrassed freedom, were in their cells. Not one was in the hospital. Prison officials declared they were not taking the slightest chance of a recurrence of Monday's riot.

All of the guards who were stabbed or clubbed in the melee in the prison, reported for duty early this

JURY WILL SEE WAX EFFIGY OF SLAIN SINGER

Hall-Mills Case Prosecutor Plans Surprise Move.

STRANGE EXHIBIT

Defendants Will Face Severe Test at Somerville, N. J.

COURT HOUSE, SOMERVILLE, N. J., Nov. 9.—A wax effigy of the late Mrs. Eleanor Mills will be dragged into the court room in the Hall-Mills murder trial this afternoon or tomorrow—before the eyes of the complacent defendants, Mrs. Frances Stevens Hall, and her two brothers, Henry and Willie Stevens, it was learned today as the defense lawyers were centering a savage cross-examination on two fingerprint experts.

The announcement that the wax effigy of Mrs. Mills would be introduced as a court room exhibit was made by Chief of Detectives Patrick Hayes, of Jersey City, one of Simpson's chief investigators.

It is to be the ever-spectacular Prosecutor Alexander Simpson's newest "surprise move."

The effigy purports to show how the choir singer's throat was cut.

In a glass case, the throat of the dead woman will be exhibited to the jury in a wax form.

Fingerprint Experts on Stand.

It will be one of the strangest exhibits ever shown at a murder trial.

It is expected to afford a severe test to the nerves of the defendants, particularly Mrs. Hall, whose view was blocked by her lawyers the other day when they brought in the effects of her slain husband and his paramour.

The defense centered all its guns this morning on two fingerprint experts.

ERNEST STUCIN USES RAZOR IN SUICIDE PLAN AT HIS HOME

Demented, it is believed, Ernest Stucia, 35, West Point coal miner, slashed his throat with a razor early today and then walked a quarter of a mile in the heavy rain to the home of William Fife, a neighbor, where he fell exhausted on the door step. He is in a serious condition in the city hospital.

Stucin, his wife and three children went to the home of friends in West Point yesterday to spend the night. Early this morning the husband and father left the house, without attracting attention, walked to his home, about a mile distant, and attempted to end his life.

Wrapping a handkerchief about the wound, about six inches in length, Stucin stumbled to the Fife home, where, weakened from the loss of blood, he fainted after knocking upon the door. He was taken into the house and later rushed to West Point where Dr. William Searles, of Lisbon, attended him. Later in the morning he was brought to the hospital in the Eells ambulance, called from Lisbon.

Forded Beaver Creek.

Friends of the Stucin family said that the man, because of his mental condition, had not been working at the Seager Coal company's mines, his place of employment, for about four days.

Alarmed by his queer actions, Mrs. Stucin persuaded her husband to visit with friends in West Point, where it was thought he could be watched.

Finding the doors of his own home locked when he returned this morning, Stucin entered the place by raising a window. Blood stains on the floor showed that he had cut his throat before leaving the house, then walked across the fields to the Fife house. He had forded Beaver Creek on his way to the Fife home.

At the City hospital he was attended by Dr. Albert Michaels.

Snow Blankets Mid-West As Howling Storm Sweeps In

Chicago and Other Illinois Cities Shiver as Drifting Snow Strikes Kansas, Iowa and Michigan.

CHICAGO, Nov. 9.—Parts of the middle west were blanketed in snow today as a howling storm, the first of the season, swept in from the Canadian prairies.

A general drop in temperature, predicted for today by the weather bureau, found Chicago and other middle western cities shivering while awaiting the expected fall of snow.

Kansas, Iowa and Michigan already have been struck by rapidly drifting snow. Railroad cuts have been reported filled in western Kansas with railroads rushing snow plows to the affected area.

The storm followed balmy Indian summer weather, in which the thermometer hovered well over the 50-degree mark.

A minimum temperature of 25 degrees above zero was predicted for tomorrow in Illinois and adjacent states.

By Wednesday, however, the storm is expected to moderate with unsettled weather predicted.

LOUIS MILLER IS TRAPPED AS FLAMES SWEEP HILLSIDE HOME

Charred Body Found in Ruins by Firemen.

DOG ALSO DIES

Cause of Pleasant Heights Blaze is Undetermined.

Louis Elmer Miller, aged about 56, coal miner, was burned to death when a three room house, owned by James Carns, Pleasant Heights, was destroyed by fire of undetermined origin at 10:30 o'clock last night.

His charred body, with his arms burned away to the elbows and his legs burned to the knees, was found in the ruins by firemen.

Story of Canned Heat.

Miller has been employed by J. L. Smith, Broadway, who leased the mine on the James Carns property, Pleasant Heights hill, just above California Hollow, about two months ago. Previously, he had worked for Carns.

According to Carns, Miller has not been working for a week. He visited the Carns home, nearby, last evening, Carns said, and, about 9 o'clock, started back for his own house. He was accompanied by the two Carns boys, Carl 14 and Alvin 12.

The Carns lads told their father that Miller ignited two cans of canned heat when he reached the house. The flames from the cans, they said, mounted high and, fearing that the house would catch fire they extinguished the blaze with water. They then threw out the cans, and after warning Miller, returned to their homes.

The building was in a mass of flames when Okey Miller, who resides on the hillside, discovered the fire. He awakened the elder Carns, but they were forced back from the blazing structure by the intense heat.

Firemen Recover Body.

Firemen from Central station received the call at 10:45 o'clock, being informed that the blaze was at the corner of Gardendale and Woodbine avenues. Upon their arrival in Gardendale, it was discovered that the

SIX TELLING BLOWS ARE DELIVERED BY STATE IN BAFFLING HALL-MILLS MURDER TRIAL IN NEW JERSEY

BY JAMES L. KILGALLEN.

SOMERVILLE, N. J., Nov. 9.—Six telling blows have been delivered by the state to date in the baffling Hall-Mills murder trial.

It will be a week or ten days before the state will have finished presentation of its case against the wealthy Mrs. Frances Stevens Hall and her two brothers, Willie and Henry Stevens, and not until that time will it be safe to predict whether or not the state's case is strong enough to warrant a conviction.

The six strongest cards played by the state to date are:

1.—The story of William ("Greasy Vest") Garvin, former manager of the Burns detective agency in New York. Garvin swore that Ralph Gorsline, vestryman in the slain Rev. Edward Wheeler Hall's church, came to him "conscience stricken" three weeks after the slaying of the minister and his pretty young singer, Mrs. Eleanor Mills, and told what he observed in De Russey's lane on the night of September 14, 1922. Grosline saw Henry Stevens, he said, in the lane and Stevens plugged a couple of shots at his feet, saying: "Get to hell out of there—this is none of your affair."

Gorsline, a married man, happened to be in the lane that night with a girl. Later he was taken to a lodge room, he said, and warned to "keep his mouth shut."

2.—Robert Erling, a millright, who on the fatal night four years ago was in the "lover's lane" with a girl corroborated the story that has been told by Mrs. Jane Gibson, the state's star witness, to the effect that she was riding in the vicinity that night on her mule "Jenny." Erliag saw her as she passed his parked car. Mrs. Gibson is to be on the stand soon to reiterate her story that she saw Mrs. Hall and Willie Stevens at the scene of the crime.

3.—The story of Mr. and Mrs. John S. Dickson, who broke down Willie Stevens' alibi. The Dicksons said that Willie, greatly agitated, called at their house at 8:30 on the evening of the murder, asking his way to the Parker house. Their home in North Plainfield is some ten miles from Willie's home in New Brunswick. Willie claims he was in bed early on the night of the crime.

4.—Fingerprint experts identified the fingerprint on a card found lying near Dr. Hall's body as the fingerprint of Willie Stevens' left index finger.

5.—Mrs. Mary Demarast testified she had seen Henry Stevens in New Brunswick on the morning after the murder. Stevens, who lived in Lavelette, N. J., denied he was in New Brunswick.

6.—The state scored again when Mrs. Damarest told of having seen Gorsline and Mrs. Minna Clark, both members of the church, spying on Dr. Hall and his paramour in the lane on at least two occasions. This point was brought out to implicate Mrs. Hall—to show that the pair were informing Mrs. Hall of her husband's trysts with the young choir singer.

Is evidence of this character going to be strong enough to convict? That is the big question being asked on all sides.

Thirty-odd witnesses for the state have been heard. About 100 had been subpoenaed. The defense plans to put 50 witnesses, including the three defendants, on the stand. It is conservatively estimated that the trial will last at least two weeks more.

FOR Sour Stomach PHILLIPS' Milk of Magnesia

Hereafter instead of soda take a little "Phillips Milk of Magnesia" in water any time for indigestion or sour, acid, gassy stomach, and relief will come instantly.

Better Than Soda

For fifty years genuine "Phillips Milk of Magnesia" has been prescribed by physicians because it overcomes three times as much acid in the stomach as a saturated solution of bicarbonate of soda, leaving the stomach sweet and free from all gasses. Besides, it neutralizes acid fermentations in the bowels and gently urges this souring waste from the system without purging. It is far more pleasant to take than soda.

Try a 25c Bottle

Insist upon "Phillips." Twenty-five cent and fifty cent bottles, any drug-store. "Milk of Magnesia" has been the U. S. Registered Trade Mark of The Charles H. Phillips Chemical Company and its predecessor Charles H. Phillips since 1875.

"And I never touched a radio set before!"

"I thought you told me only last week you weren't interested in Radio."

The hostess smiled.

"Yes, but that same evening Joe came home with a bundle under his arm. 'Surprise for you,' he said. 'Radio.'

"Well, you can see for yourself how small and good-looking it is. And it's the simplest thing you ever saw. Here, you try it. Just turn that ONE Dial slowly."

The guest did so. A troop of stations came marching in, each one clear and true. A celebrated singer—a dance orchestra—a talk on chintzes—the coming styles described on the air—what's in the markets—how to budget your home—a national hero modestly telling his story.

"How thrilling! And anyone can do it. Why, it's as easy as switching on an electric light. And I never touched a radio set before. And what beautiful tone!"

A Tax Dividend

The White House spokesman says that President Coolidge expects to ask congress for an immediate tax reduction of 10 to 12 per cent in current federal income taxes.

This is not a reduction in tax rate, applying to next year or any other year. It is a sort of special dividend, a rebate, a bonus—call it what you will. It means that those who paid income and corporation taxes this year will get some of their money back, if the president asks it and congress permits.

This is the same procedure often applied by banks or business organizations when they have an especially good year. They do not raise the dividend or wage rate, lest that be taken as a precedent, and bind them in less favorable years. They let the rate stand, but issue a special dividend to stockholders, pay a bonus to workers, or both.

In whatever form it comes, tax reduction is welcome.

Doctors of Many Kinds

"Treat your banker as if he were the doctor of your business affairs," say the business engineers. "He knows incomes and bank accounts as doctors know bodies. Let him advise you to keep your business well."

Let the insurance man be your doctor," say the insurance people. "He understands the social and economic ills of the people, and should have the same measure of trust as the family physician."

All this is interesting and appealing. But—do people treat their family doctors the way the banker and insurance man want to be treated? Do they call him in once or twice a year to look them and their families over, and ask his advice about keeping well, and then do they follow that advice?

Hardly one in a thousand does that. They wait, and wait, and stave off the evil hour until they are acutely ill, and then it's too late for the doctor to do his best work. He may get the patient on his feet again, but seldom is that patient as well off as if he had been able to avoid the illness in the first place.

If it is a good plan to get into the habit of using the banker and insurance man—and plumber, perhaps—"af if they were doctors," for obtaining and acting upon salutary information and advice, first of all it would be a good plan to treat the doctor that way.

Presidential Firing Power

There is no question that the recent decision of the United State supreme court, upholding the president's power of discharging federal employes, put great power in his hands, which might be abused. The peril, however, has probably been exaggerated.

The power of removal at will is confined to any president's own appointees. That greatly restricts its application and prevents any wholesale turning of public servants out of office for personal or party reasons. A predecessor's appointees cannot be swept out ruthlessly, as they once were. The rank and file of federal employes are protected, as they have been, by civil service rules. Such rules may be extended and tightened at the will of congress.

The decision does give a president power over federal commissions and boards created by congress and, in theory at least, working independently. The interstate commerce commission is a good example. There are numerous bodies of this type whose usefulness is greatly lessened if their members hold their jobs only by grace of the president who appointed them. They will tend to lose their individuality and independence and merely reflect the views of the executive.

Congress, however, presumably has power to remedy this situation if it wants to, and congress will probably want to whenever the need becomes plain.

Our government is one of checks and balances. It is an eternal struggle for power between the executive and legislative branches. Whenever one of them gains undue power, the other always finds, sooner or later, some way to check it and restore a proper balance.

No Youthful Menace

Hubert Work, Secretary of the Interior, addressing a group of students in the University of Kansas, had more words of commendation and praise for the youth of today than of blame and fault-finding.

"I do not believe," he asserted, "that the young people of today are light-headed and a growing menace to our institutions. The many idle young seen in public places are not indicative that there are not greater numbers home-trained and thoroughly employed. The alert intelligence of American mothers has never been so high as now and their influence may be depended upon to sustain in the last analysis. There is less obedience exacted of children through fear of parents, and more from motives born of their companionship."

This is not universally true in America, but it is true to a larger extent than many pessimists imagine. Greater social freedom does not mean greater license where there has been sound home training and where there are wisely dircted school interests.

It seems always to be up to the adults of the community to keep the young people in the right paths. Those who do their part in this matter are not out wailing about menacing youth.

My Favorite Stories

THE VOICE OF A HUSBAND

An eastern college professor, on his first visit to Yellowstone Park, attempted to study at close range the grizzly bears that came down the garbage heaps of the Fountain Hotel for their provender. An irritable she-bear, with a cub in tow, resented his scientific curiosity. She hauled off and slapped him about fifteen feet and was preparing to claw him when Mrs. Professor came running up, armed with an umbrella, and by opening and closing it repeatedly, so frightened the lady-bear that she departed without doing any serious injury to the startled investigator.

On the following day two of the cowboys who, in the season, served as park guides, were discussing the affair. Said the first one:

"I claim that was a powerful braye woman, takin' her own life in her hands to save that fool husband of her."

"I don't see nothing' so brave about it," said his friend. "Anybody would do that."

"Like hell they would! Spose'n some bear had your wife down and was fixin' to claw her to death—what would you do?

"Me? I'd give three loud ringin' cheers."

NEW YORK DAYBYDAY
By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—The Lucy Stone league has failed to wither under ridicule. Its members are women who retain their maiden name after marriage. Some are extremely important in arts and letters but there are many others who make the league an excuse to exploit independence.

In several instances Lucy Stoners have faced embarrassing moments by registering at hotels with their husbands under maiden names and in one instance an over zealous house detective requested an eminently respectible pair to depart.

Of course, this can be avoided by using the tactics of Rita Weiman, the writer, and her husband. When they arrive at a hotel the registry shows: "Rita Weiman and Marcus Marks. (Mr. and Mrs.)" There is doubtless some excuse for the Lucy Stoners in a professional way.

Women who have built up a reputation and a following under their maiden name might suffer by suddenly switching to married names. Few for instance would know Fannie Hurst, the novelist, as Mrs. Jaques S. Danielson, and incidentally "the dew is still on the rose" for they continue to maintain separate establishments and martial happiness.

It is pointed out, however, that talented women may change to their husband's names without professional suicide. Minnie Maddern won even greater fame as Mr. Fiske and Kathleen Norris rose to great heights under the patronymic of her talented husband Chas G. Norris.

It is observed that those who cleve so closely to the letter of the Lucy Stone idea are those least known—press agents or occasional contributors to trade magazines. Many actresses are billed under their professional name but prefer to be known privately by the marriage name.

The Lucy Stone league may be a proper procedure for wives to maintain their professional identity but it seems there should be some league to protect husbands of famous women. Even so famous a husband as Alexander Moore was frequently addressed as "Mr. Russell."

A Woolworth Tower elevator operator tells me an average of 20 visitors a day attempt to see the city from that lofty point without paying the 50 cents fee. They ask to be let out a few floors below the top and seek to walk up. It can't be done!

And one is surprised by the number of well dressed men who journey to the theater hatless, quietly edge up to the door and while the ticket taker is engaged give the impression of having just popped out for a breath of fresh air or cigarette before the curtain rises.

Like innumerable New Yorkers—perhaps its senility—I discover I mumble to myself at times. The other day I was indulging this weakness along a hotel hallway when I saw a man in an open doorway. I fooled him by hunting for an imaginary dog to which I had been apparently speaking. Trigger stuff!

It is related that Richard Mansfield used to talk to himself. One day he was mumbling along Herald Square and a pedestrian inquired:

"To whom are you speaking?"

"To a damn smart man," retorted Mansfield.

A new form of night club gyppery is reported in the mad moist canyons. A certain club is no longer depending on the whim of the patron for the size of the hat tip. A fixed charge of 25 cents is made for taking care of the hats and wraps.

HASKIN'S LETTER
By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

The Pure Food Law.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 9.—In the twenty years that the Food and Drugs Act, commonly known as the Federal pure food law, has been enforced, the Department of Agriculture inspectors have investigated 143,578 cases of suspected adulteration or misbranding of food and drug products. The investigations have resulted in court actions in 22,653 cases, and in 14,300 of these proceedings the final decrees have been handed down and notices of judgment issued.

Department officials say, however, that while these figures show decided activity on the part of those charged with the duty of enforcing the law they tell but a part of the story of what has been accomplished in the effort to remedy conditions which the law was enacted to correct.

Perhaps the real achievement has been the gradual conversion of manufacturers to the point of view that the law is not to be regarded as an offensive regulatory measure that hampers and restricts them in their business, but is a benefit and advantage to them. Hence when the usual bill to repeal or amend the law is introduced at the coming session of Congress it will not receive much support unless it is intended to strengthen the law. No movement to break down the law can ever again attain serious proportions, it is declared.

Assistant Secretary of Agriculture Dunlap says he can see the time, and it is not far distant, when the food-and-drug inspector will no longer be primarily a policeman, but will be rather an instructor and specialist in the manufacture of pure and unadulterated foods and drugs. In that capacity the inspector will cooperate with manufacturers who desire to conform with the requirements of the law, and will place at their disposal the accumulated information based upon years of experience which the Bureau of Chemistry in its enforcement work has been able to acquire.

Not an Idle Dream.

"This is no idle dream," Mr. Dunlap told the American Grocery Manufacturer's Association, "for already in many of our industries the inspector is looked upon as a friend and assistant rather than as an enemy or a spy. I am convinced that, by and large, American food and drug manufacturers are honorable individuals, whose purpose it is to give to the consumer his money's worth of pure and wholesome products conforming in every respect to their expressed standards of purity or strength.

"Because of the existence of a specific law covering their products, and also because of the vital character of the products in which they are dealing, from the standpoint of the public welfare, those who purvey foods and drugs are under a peculiarly heavy obligation to exert unusual precautions to produce wholesome, pure, and properly branded articles.

Mr. Dunlap pointed out that in addition to the large number of cases that have been examined by his department, thousands of samples obtained for investigational and research work have been examined in the Departmental laboratories, and the suggestions and advice which the analysts and experts have given to manufacturers have been of questionable benefit to industry. NEW YORK HIT HERE NOV. 16

Ceramic Books Lew Fields' Musical Comedy Success.

The New York musical comedy success, "The Girl Friend," sponsored by the distinguished comedian and producer of musical plays, Lew Fields, will be the offering at the Ceramic theatre Tuesday evening, Nov. 16.

"The Girl Friend" is said to be a rollicking show with breezy dialogue, lilting melodies, of which "The Girl Friend" and "The Blue Room" are well known to music lovers; terpsichorean art of a high order and a performance given lively action by the dash and vigor of a well trained chorus composed of pretty, youthful girls with attractive figures and boys who sing and dance with spirit and charm. It ranks among the cleverest musical plays presented in New York during the past season, which was proved by the success of the piece from its first performance in the metropolis early in the year. It played to capacity business throughout the summer and is still drawing throngs to the Vanderbilt theatre. Its comedy is delightful, while its lover episodes, its novel dances, and its catchy and tuneful musical score win immediate approval of its auditors. It is spontaneous and filled with the freshness of youth; and a company of youthful comedians and singers selected and rehearsed by Mr. Fields enter into the spirit with an enthusiasm that is infectious. The book is by Herbert Fields, the lyrics from the pen of Lorenz Hart, and the music composed by Richard Rodgers.

The story is of a cycle race in which a farm boy seeks a place to ride his way to fame. He knows if he can win, the girl, who stuck through thick and thin, will smile and take his name. A trick is played to keep him out, but she learns what it is all about and thwarts the plotters scheme. He wins and realizes love's dream.

Other musical gems contained in the score are "Why Do I?" "The Girl Who Done All the Dirt," "Town Hall Tonight," "Good Fellow Mine," "He's a Winner," "I'd Like to Take You Home" and "What Is It?"

The principal members of the company are Allan Gold, Frances Dewey, George B. Phelps, Gladys James, George Bogues, Anita Wright, Teddy Deurr, Elizabeth Raymond, Frances King, John McNamara, Helen Reilly, Charles Cooley, Jimmy Cort and Barry Bernard.

"MISMATES" IS SCREEN HIT

Doris Kenyon and Warner Baxter at American.

A film drama that will tug at the heartstrings and leave an indelible impression on the minds of those who see it is "Mismates," the First National photoplay which opened yesterday at the American theatre.

Co-featured with Doris Kenyon in "Mismates" is Warner Baxter, who as a young and struggling lawyer comes to her aid in her time of trouble.

Philo McCollough, whom we have often seen in "heavy" parts, has never before had such a great part as in this picture. He is the "heavy" and plays the husband of Miss Kenyon. He makes you positively hate the ground he walks on as he goes through the picture, and as that is his job he is to be highly commended. McCollough lends much to the success of this picture. Mae Allison with all her loveliness is another contributing factor to the enjoyment of the picture, as is Charlie Murray, that funny man of First National.

Standing out among the grown-ups is a little girl who plays a boy's part. She is little Nancy Kelly, and right here we want to say that it is worth one's while to see "Mismates" if only to see the acting of the child wonder. She is marvelous. John Kolb, Cyril Ring, Maude Turner Gordon and several others deserve praise for excellent characterizations.

Briefly, the story of "Mismates" is that of a manicurist who marries the son of a wealthy family. The husband's mother will not recognize the manicurist. On their fourth wedding anniversary the husband deserts his wife and child. The wife is thrown into prison shortly after, although innocent, and her husband is instrumental in keeping her there. She receives word that her little son is dying, escapes from jail—and to learn the rest now would spoil the story.

SAYS FAITH IN TEPEE ADS BROUGHT NEW JOY TO MEALS

Indiana Woman Tells How Famous Indian Herb Tonic Helped Her Boys.

"I have three boys, seven, five and three years of age, and it would do almost everybody good to see how these youngsters enjoy their meals," says Mrs. Arthur Collins, 1613 North Fifteenth street, Lafayette, Indiana.

"I had all kinds of trouble with them before I began to give them Tepee Herb Tonic. "Every night one or the other of them would keep me awake several hours. They would simply cry out in their sleep, "Oh, mother, I'm so sick!' Often they had nightmare.

"it was hard for my youngest lad to keep anything on his stomach. He would be seized with violent spells of vomiting. He was very pale and had dark circles under his eyes. And he was fretful all of the time.

"I gave all my boys Tepee Herb Tonic and three heartier children you never saw.

"They eat heartily, sleep soundly and never complain any more."

Redwood's Tepee Herb Tonic is made exclusively from roots, barks and herbs. There is nothing harmful or habit forming and it is as good for children as it is for "grown-ups."

"It aids digestion, promotes refreshing sleep and soothes the nerves. Thousands of parents in all parts of the country recommend it. If you have a delicate child, try Tepee Herb Tonic.

It has helped others and you may confidently expect it to do the same for your children. There is nothing better for constipation and children do not object to it because it is not unpleasant to take.

Tepee Herb Tonic may be had in E. Liverpool at Carnahan's Drug Stores.

DEMS LINE UP FOR FIGHT TO SEAT WILSON IN U. S. SENATE

Expect Support From Insurgents Against W. S. Vare.

MILITANT DRIVE

Two Forces Can Control Seventieth Congress.

BY GEORGE R. HOLMES.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—A militant campaign to seat William B. Wilson, Democrat, as "the legally elected" senator from Pennsylvania in the seventieth congress has been agreed upon by a group of national Democratic leaders, it was learned here today.

The Democrats expect, and will get the support of a majority of the Republican-insurgents in all probability. The Democrats and insurgents can control the seventieth congress whenever they get together.

A week ago the Democrats were talking only of denying a seat to William S. Vare, or of expelling him after being seated, because of his expenditures in the Republican primary. If successful this would create a vacancy which would ostensibly be filled by the appointment of another Republican. But now, after reviewing the election, they plan to go after bigger game—the seating of Wilson.

Illegality in Election Charged.

The change in Democratic tactics is due in large measure to the controversy provoked over the constitutional aspects of the question. The constitution provides a senator may be denied his seat by a majority vote, but to expel him requires a two-thirds vote. Authorities on the constitution differ widely as to the proper procedure to be invoked against Vare.

The Democrats, aided by the counsel of some of the Republican insurgents, have decided to walk right around this controversy and make a fight on the legality of Vare's election on November 2, which would bring the question before the senate as an ordinary contest and thus within the scope of the majority vote.

The city of Philadelphia, which Vare controls politically, will be the focal point of the opposition attack. In the congested wards of the city it will be alleged there were thousands of votes illegally cast for Vare and similarly, thousands of votes uncounted on Wilson.

Wilson carried the state of Pennsylvania, outside of Philadelphia. He came to the Philadelphia county line with a majority of approximately 50,000 votes over his Republican opponent, only to meet there a tidal wave majority for Vare of approximately 250,000.

Senator Norris of Nebraska, who campaigned the state for Wilson, said definitely today a legal contest will be filed.

One Democratic Defection.

"There must have been some fraud in Philadelphia," said Norris. "There were 44 districts, for example, in which Wilson did not get a single vote—yet the election law provides there shall be two or three Democrats on each election board in every precinct. Either the law was not complied with, or Wilson's votes were not counted."

Because of the tremendous majority of Vare, the Democrats themselves do not believe they can prove that 200,000 votes were illegally cast. But their strategy is to get the question before the senate on such a basis. They believe they have the votes to deny Vare his seat on such grounds, and they believe also they can hold those same votes for the seating of Wilson. Without Vare's vote in the seventieth senate, there will be 47 Republicans, 47 Democrats and 1 Farmer-Laborite.

It was indicated today, however, there will be at least one defection in the Democratic ranks. Senator Cole Blease, of South Carolina, said he intended to vote for the seating of Vare because of his adherence to the general principle of "states' rights," particularly the right of a state to say who shall represent it in the senate.

This country has not yet recognized Russia, and heaven knows when we shall recognize China's new arrangements. Some of our boy financiers who know only by hearsay that the world is round and that nations go to war, made a big and foolish Chinese loan, which promptly died, as regards principal and interest. Our government will weep about that for years. Wise Britain says "Never mind yesterday's lost dollar. Where is tomorrow's new dollar to be had."

This earth has always had its excitements, disasters and woes. Thousands of centuries before men came here to make trouble, animals of all kinds met death in a strange jumble. Tar pits on the Rancho La Brea, now part of Los Angeles, have caught and preserved for all time such different animals as the imperial elephant, sabre tooth tiger, giant ground sloths, long extinct camels and endless others. No other spot on earth has yielded so many different animals to the scientists' research. And that's appropriate. No spot on earth equals Los Angeles in its varieties of people.

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—Industrial stocks displayed a confident tone at the beginning of trading today. There was not sufficient buying power in any section of the market, to carry forward Monday's closing rally more than a point or less and a new wave of profit taking swept over the market before the end of the first hour, with the usual result.

Further indications of the probability of a retroactive income tax cut on 1925 incomes; the reconsruction of the stock exchange's brokers' loan figures for October, showing an $81,000,000 error in favor of the constructive ride; insistent rumors of a $200,000,000 bond issue by the Standard Oil company to provide funds for the retirement of that amount of 7 per cent preferred stock, and continuance of the high rate of railroad freight business and over-production of crude oil, were the principal factors affecting stock values.

"WORLD'S LAST PRAYER MEET" REVIVAL TOPIC

Baptist Church Crowded as Rev. Dr. Mel Morris Speaks.

DIVORCE IS HIT

Says War Will go on Until Prince of Peace Comes.

That there will ever be war and rumors of war on earth until the Prince of Peace comes was reiterated by Rev. Mel Morris in his sermon on "The World's Last Prayer Meeting," a sequel to his Friday night discourse on "The Second Coming of Christ" at the First Baptist church revival last evening. His viewpoint, bulwarked by numerous Scriptural references, were heard by a large crowd of people that filled the auditorium and a part of the Sunday school room adjoining.

Preceding his discussion he repeated the details of Christ's second appearance, between which in the heavens would be consummated the union with Him of the church. "And this will be a permanent marriage," he said, "along the Scriptural injunction 'whom God hath joined together let no man put asunder.' There will be no possibility of divorce to this alliance. It will be for all time as matrimony ever was intended."

Deep conviction settled upon the hearers following the sermon's conclusion. Many church devotees went forward for reconsecration and several, allied with none, took the initial steps toward conversion in which they were assisted by the board of deacons, Sunday school teachers, heads of young people's societies and deeply spiritual persons of the congregation whom the pastor, Rev. A. H. O'Brien, had called to the platform.

Directed by Marion Ball, visiting musical director, another inspiring song service preceded the preaching period. Accompanied by Miss Ruby Aley, Mr. Ball sang another recent composition of his, "Wounded for Me."

The invocation was made and the benediction given by the Rev. George M. Landis, pastor of the First Baptist church, of New Castle, Pa., where Rev. Mr. Morris will begin an evangelistic campaign on the first Sunday of January. "With the Pennsylvania city but a few miles away from here," he said, "I am sure you will visit the church there with a large delegation on one of the nights of the campaign."

Rev. Mr. Morris expressed gratification at the growing and sustained interest in the second coming of Christ by East Liverpool church folks of all congregations. "This is a healful sign," he declared, "and proves that there are those who want to know all possible concerning the event so as to adjust their services for the Master."

"Two Highways," it was announced would be the subject of Rev. Mr. Morris' tonight. "One will be the King's Highway," he said, "and the other the Devil's."

Accept Christ, His Plea.

The terrible condition obtaining on the earth populated only by the wicked living following the resurrection of the just and the carrying upward for transformation in the air of the living righteous was vividly described by the evangelist when Satan, the beast and the anti-Christ, will have complete supremacy. "This interim of horror may be yours in the next few years should Christ come soon as all signs indicate," he averred, "and you continue to reject Christ."

Quoting the prophecies of the prophets Joel, John the Baptist and Jesus Christ anent the coming of the Holy Ghost which have been fulfilled, he argued that it was equally conceivable that the Son of Man's prophecy concerning His return would also come to pass.

"I have no time to talk of the horrors of hell at this time," he said in attending to the lost dead. "But before the campaign closes I shall take occasion, prefacing my remarks on Luke 16, to say something of that place which a great gulf separates from the place of the redeemed and which can never be crossed by one placed therein."

The last prayer meeting of the world he pointed out was predicted by John in his Revelations which would be attended by the worldy, sinful, lost souls, who in their terror during the final moments before their transfer into perdition would cry out to the mountains and rocks to fall on them that they might be hidden in safety.

"Having devoted all their lives to worldly things it will be but natural for them, knowing not God, to seek aid from mountains and rocks," he asserted. "What a horrible place the earth will then be with no God to worship, no Holy Spirit to woo and advise those living thereon and Satan more powerful than ever before following his being 'loosened for a season.'

Rev. Mr. Morris deprecated the tendency of many to think of God only as possessed of the ability to love. "He is also a God of wrath," he said. For it is written: Who shall stand against His wrath?"

Miner Burned to Death

blaze was on the Pleasant Heights hill.

The firemen hurried up the Pleasant Heights hill, but the house was in ruins when they arrived.

According to neighbors, Miller was lying on his back on the kitchen floor with his arms in the air. Near him was the torso of a shepherd dog, belonging to James Carns.

Firemen and others formed a bucket brigade from a nearby well and quenched the blaze in order to recover the body. The body was removed to the Sturgis funeral home, West Fifth street.

Fire Chief Inspects Ruins.

Fire Chief Bryan inspecter the ruins this morning but was unable to determine the cause of the fire. After hearing the story of the Carns boys, he expressed the opinion that the building was accidentally fired by Miller.

Miller has been separated from his wife, Mrs. Melinda Miller, for several years. He has several grown up children, one of whom, a daughter who resides in Akron, visited him last Sunday.

Coroner J. M. Van Fossan, East Palestine this morning advised Undertaker E. G. Sturgis that he would conduct no inquest over the body as Prosecutor Robert Brookes had consented to sign a certificate attributing death to burns.

Funeral services will be conducted in the Sturgis funeral home at 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon in charge of Field Major Joseph Hughes of the Salvation Army. Burial will be made in Spring Grove cemetery.

Hunt Escaped Convict

morning, prepared for the investigation to be made.

The men who succeeded in breaking out of the prison yesterday, were all members of what is known as the "First K" group, unruly prisoners who bore bad reputations, some of whom had made attempts to escape before.

No Blame on Guards.

Warden Thomas did not make an official statement early this morning, but declared he could not attach any blame on the guards on duty at the time or any other attaches of the prison.

"We believe the men had two or three guns besides the knives and clubs flourished by some of them," he said.

"It is a bare possibility some one in the crowd of visitors smuggled in guns and in the rush passed the weapons to the prisoners. That all must be investigated."

The break came shortly after the 2 o'clock tour had been formed. Thirty-five visitors had paid their admission and were grouped in the big vestibule. As the first of the outsiders walked through the gate, the 13 prisoners sprang to the gate.

Visitors were hurled aside. Guard Captain Bennett fell, clubbed. Guard Callahan was attacked and fell before the onslaught. The rushing prisoners reached the street miraculously, according to the prison officials, escaping in a veritable rain of bullets.

Lifer Shot Through Head.

Harold Nieringartner, of Lima, a lifer, was shot through the head at the door.

Thomas Gerak, serving life for murder, was recaptured just outside the prison.

Dashing across the street, nine of the men surrounded an automobile driven by Miss Eva Burnside, threw her bodily from the car, climbed aboard and sped away.

In this group were Charles Mithoefer, Columbus, serving life for murder, James Johnson, Cuyahoga county, ten years for burglary; John Neiman, Hamilton county, 15 years for shooting; Arthur Clayton, Cuyahoga county, 15 years, shooting to wound; Robert Hunt, Cuyahoga county, life for murder; Frank Proctor, Hamilton county, ten years, burglary; Burton Carter; Darke county, 25 years for robbery; Frank Mills, Lucas county, ten years for robbery; George "Jiggs" Losteiner, Cuyahoga county, life for murder.

Johnson was captured near London. He had been slightly wounded by buckshot.

Plan No Pardon Moves.

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 9.—No attempt will be made at this time to get a pardon or parole for C. W. "Tacks" Lattimer, one-time big league baseball star; William Chatfield, Cincinnati, former state senator, and one-time candidate for lieutenant-governor, or any of the other prisoners in the Ohio state penitentiary who aided prison officials in trying to prevent the break of 13 inmates Monday, Governor Donahey and Warden Thomas said this afternoon.

"Lattimer worked heroically. He stood by my daughter, firing round after round from a gun at the fleeing men. He probably saved the life of Guard Cochrane and Trusty Landacre, who was working at the telephone switchboard. He deserves commendation, but we are not yet ready to consider anything like that. Lattimer has been seeking a pardon or parole for some time," the warden said.

Lattimer was convicted of murder at Xenia. He was sentenced to life imprisonment.

Jail Delivery Frustrated.

NEW LEXINGTON, O., Nov. 9.—Another wholesale jail delivery said by Sheriff Harley McNabb to have been again headed by Earl Brooks, held on charges of attacking two Columbus school girls, was frustrated Monday when the bars of a half dozen cells were discovered to have been sawed almost in two and five saws were found in Brooks' cell, McNabb announced today. Brooks led an attempt three months ago which resulted in three prisoners escaping. Five others refused to leave because of a storm raging outside.

At that time he was said to have been aided by a 14 year-old sweetheart.

McNabb withheld information of the delivery while waiting for the attempt to be made.

Cookies Basis of Mack's Musical Comedy Hit.

There is a brand of cookies in "The Gingham Girl" which, when baked by the heroine in the country is a fizzle, but when put on the market in New York, makes a hit with everyone. And that's what "The Gingham Girl," which the Red Mack Players are offering the first three days this week at the Strand theatre, is all about.

The story had more charm than any other show in New York last season. It is an entertainment of good taste, sprightliness and merit. With a touch of pathos, "The Gingham Girl" is a delightful musical comedy. In the score which Albert Von Tilzer has composed for it, there is haunting beauty to carry home with you. The song, "Just As Long As I Have You" is a gem that will keep you whistling and humming.

The plot has to do with Johnny Cousins of Crossville Corners, New Hampshire, who comes to New York in "trick clothes" to take the city unaware and rattle it till its eye teeth stick out. He is in love with Mary Thompson, the cute little gingham girl of Crossville Corners, who bakes the toothsome cookies. Later they become "Blue Bird Cookies"—a famous brand that Mary succeeds in putting on the market through the aid of the son of the president of the biscuit trust.

Theatrical Performance, Auto Ride and Dinner Will be Features of Program on Armistice Day.

Approximately 75 children from the McCollough-Jefferson County Children's Home at Yellow Creek will be guests of members of East Liverpool Lodge No. 258, B. P. O. Elks, on Armistice Day in keeping with a custom which has been followed for seven years.

The children, accompanied by Superintendent Edward Rutherford, the matron, Mrs. Rutherford, and Mrs. Lucy Cline, Miss Evaline Finney, Mrs. Carrie Mowary and Miss Ida Ekey, governesses, will come to East Liverpool in a special car, provided by The Steubenville, East Liverpool & Beaver Valley Traction company. They will leave the home at 1 o'clock Thursday afternoon.

Immediately upon their arrival in the Diamond the youngsters will be taken to the Ceramic theatre where they will see Don Lanning and his musical comedy stars in "Top Hole" at a matinee performance. After the show they will go to the Elks' temple West Fifth street, loaded into automobiles of lodge members and taken for a ride around the city. Returning to the lodge home at six o'clock they will be guests at dinner in the grill room. The dinner will be prepared under the direction of Caterer John Canne and served by Ladies of the Elks.

After the dinner the children will be taken to the ball room where they will present a playlet and a program. Sayre's orchestra will play. The tots will be taken back to the home in the special car at 9:30 o'clock. A dance for members of the lodge and their friends will be held at the temple during the evening.

Committee in charge of the affair is made up of Mayor Ralph Benedum, chairman; Harry Altman, John Jones, James McDermott and Edward Clinton.

DON LANNING PLEASES CROWD

"Very Good Eddie" Opens Week's Stay at Ceramic.

Don Lanning, one-time potter, for the Knowles, Taylor and Knowles company, has proven himself a remarkable comedian last night, when his musical company opened a week's engagement at the Ceramic theatre.

Lanning's presentation of the Broadway success, "Very Good Eddie," was well accepted by a packed house. Among the able supporting cast are Emily Ross, Edna Jacques, Mildred Robinson, Nell Walker, Rafe Boulliott, Lew Hampton, Milton Beick, Jack Barbee, Bartley Cahill, and a chorus of the south's prettiest girls, who sing and dance in great style.

Lanning showed some new tricks in the comedy line in essaying the role of Eddie Kettle, the weakling husband.

Tomorrow brings an entirely different bill with Lanning in the riotous dual role of Bob Corcoran and Pattie O'Rourke in the Clare Stratton and Ernest Grendenning success, "Top Hole." It will be presented twice each evening, tomorrow and Thursday, with a matinee on Thursday at 2:30 o'clock and the evening shows at 7 and 9 o'clock.

URGE TRAFFIC LAW ARRESTS

West Side Civic League Hits Action of Motorists.

Complaint that the city ordinance prohibiting automobiles from passing street cars while loading or discarging passengers is not being enforced at the Dresden avenue terminal of the Pleasant Heights traction line, was voiced by members of the West Side Civic association at a meeting in the Anderson Methodist Episcopal church last night.

Since the traction company instituted one-man street car service on the Pleasant Heights line, cars are unloaded on the west side of the street instead of the east side, it is claimed. Motorists, it is charged, find it too narrow to pass the street car on the east side of the street and travel on the west side while passengers are leaving the car. The secretary of the association was instructed to ask Service-Safety Director J. W. Moore to enforce the ordinance prohibiting this practice.

Residents of May street complained about the condition of the thoroughfare which has been washed out by surface water. The street, it is claimed, is lower than the gutters and surface water instead of running along the sides next to the curb follows the center of the street. It was urged that the city repave or repair Chestnut street which, it was charged, had been badly damaged when a water main broke.

A special meeting of the association will be held December 13, when the Jesse Lones orchestra and the Toonerville quartet will be featured.

Frank Harding presided at last night's session.

WELLSVILLE'S SERVICE-SAFETY DIRECTOR IS ON JOB

PEACE FOLLOWS ASHLEY-FOGO PARLEY HERE

Mayor and Cabinet Member Drop Their Grievances.

ONE-WEEK BREAK

Preparations Under Way for 10-Year Light Pact.

George P. Ashley, Wellsville's service-safety director, is back on the job.

Peace has been restored in the mayor's cabinet and preparations are under way for the completion of the city's 10-year contract with the Ohio Power company, an important piece of legislation that faced a possible tie-up as a result of Ashley's recent dismissal by Mayor W. L. Fogo.

Prior to Ashley's departure yesterday for Columbus, where he will attend the annual meeting of the state board of health, it became known that Mayor Fogo and Ashley, at a conference between themselves, had dropped their grievances and patched up the break, the adjustment permitting Ashley to exercise his authority in the matter of the light contract legislation.

The break lasted just a week, Ashley having been dismissed by Fogo as the former was directing operations of the sewer repair crew in the West End.

Ashley authorized the payment of approximately $121 to former Patrolman Harry F. Hurd, upon the advice of City Solicitor S. C. Lucecock, his action bringing about his dismissal.

The city previously had been advised to pay Hurd his back salary in a ruling by the state civil service commission.

Ashley, who is president of the local health board, expects to be in Columbus at the state health conference all this week.

The private parley between the mayor and the director followed a meeting of a special council committee, along with city officials, arranged for the purpose of trying to bring about a reconciliation. Nothing was accomplished at this particular meeting.

MRS. KELLY, 89, DIES AFTER TEN WEEKS' ILLNESS

Succumbs Monday Evening at Home in Buckeye Avenue.

HERE 64 YEARS

Funeral Services to be Held Thursday Afternoon.

Following an illness of approximately 10 weeks, Mrs. Martha J. Kelly, one of the oldest and best known residents of the city, died last evening at 5:25 o'clock in her home, 1902 Buckeye avenue.

Had she lived until November 25, Thanksgiving day, Mrs. Kelly would have been 89 years of age.

She was born on that date in 1837 at Sugar Grove Ridge, in Jefferson county, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. George Householder. She was the last of a family of eleven children.

Mrs. Kelly lived here for 64 years, having come to Wellsville when she married Robert Kelly, of this city, who died 29 years ago. During her long residence here she has formed a wide acquaintanceship.

For 75 years she has been a member of the Methodist Episcopal church.

Three children survive: Mrs. V. R. Donaldson, of this city; and Edward and Blanche, at home.

Funeral services will be held Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock in the home, in charge of Rev. W. S. Rowe, pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal church.

Burial will be made in Spring Hill cemetery.

Pennsylvania Lets Contract for Electrification of Branch Line

Three Firms Get Orders for New Equipment for Use on Eastern Division.

The Pennsylvania railroad today announced that electrical equipment for a total of 128 passenger cars has been ordered in preparation for electric operation of the Southern division main line between Philadelphia and Wilmington, Del., and the Octoraro branch between Philadelphia and West Chester, Pa. Extensive progress is being made on the work of electrifying these lines and the new equipment for them is expected to be delivered by November, 1927.

The orders for this equipment have been placed as follows: Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing company, apparatus for 92 cars; General Electric company, apparatus for 30 cars; Brown-Boveri Electric Corporation apparatus for five cars.

The Pennsylvania railroad has also contracted for the electric equipment to be used in the construction of eight new locomotives to be operated in the New York tunnel service between Pennsylvania station, New York city, and Manhattan Transfer. Four units of this equipment have been ordered from the Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing company and four from the General Electric company. Delivery is expected to be completed by September, 1927.

The cars for the Philadelphia-Wilmington and Philadelphia-West Chester service will all be of the "multiple unit" type, each car carrying its own motors. In that way the power available will be automatically increased or decreased in proportion to the number of cars in the train.

The electrification work between Philadelphia and West Chester constitutes one of the most important projects of its kind undertaken in recent years. It involves approximately 52 miles of line and one hundred and fifty miles of track. Its consummation will give the Pennsylvania railroad a total of 90 miles of line and 264 miles of track electrified for suburban service, directly in and out of Philadelphia. In addition, the Camden-Atlantic City electric line provides Philadelphia with an extensive suburban service via the Delaware river ferries.

The electrification projects to Wilmington and West Chester are an integral part of the Pennsylvania railroad's plan for its new main Philadelphia passenger station on the west bank of the Schuylkill river, and the extension of electric suburban service into a centrally located underground terminal near the site of the present Broad street station.

"How to Plan Your Meals"

Don't you sometimes wonder what you have to show for the time and thought that you spend on the family meals. Three meals a day, seven days a week—on and on, year after year! No business man cares to plod away unless his work gains significance, and why should you, you may have thought, resentfully Yet yours more than any other occupation has compensation to offer.

Look at your children's rosy cheeks and happy dispositions; your husband's good health, the general feeling of content and happiness that pervades your home. All these are the result of your thought and planning and surely they are worth all the energy they cost.

The body needs food for three purposes :(1) To build new bone and tissue, (2) to supply energy, (3) to regulate the process of digestion, elimination, respiration, etc. The foods that are best equipped to do this work are shown in the following table.

Recipes the Ladies Asked to Have Published in The Review-Tribune.

Frozen Fruit Salad

1½ tablespoon flour
¼ teaspoon dry mustard
1 teaspoon salt

Add ½ cup condensed milk, ½ cup water and 3 tablespoons powdered sugar and 1 egg yolk slightly beaten. Cook over hot water 15 minutes, stirring until thickened, strain and add 2 tablespoons butter and ¼ teaspoon celery seed. Cool, then fold in the stiffly beaten egg white, ½ cup cream beaten stiff and 1½ cups fruit cut in small pieces using bananas, oranges, white grapes and Marachino cherries.

Put in freezing pan of Electric Refrigerator or in baking powder cans—cover top with wax paper then put on cover and pack in ice and salt for 2 hours.

Serve cut in squares or slices on lettuce leaves.

Vegetable Ring

2 tablespoons gelatine
1 cup cold water.
2½ cups hot water
¼ cup vinegar
¼ cup lemon juice
½ cup sugar
1 teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon grated onion
1½ cups grated carrot
1½ cups finely shredded cabbage
2 solid ripe tomatoes
1 green pepper

Soften gelatine in cold water, dissolve by adding hot water. Add vinegar, lemon juice, sugar, salt and onion. Wet a quart ring mold with cold water and put into it about 1 cup of the gelatine mixture and allow it to harden, then cut strips of the green pepper about ¼ inch wide and put into the mold so as to section the spaces in about 7 equal spaces. In between these sections place a thick half slice of tomato. Pour over this 1 more cup of the gelatine mixture. Mix half of the remaining gelatine mixture with the cabbage and put that in the mold. Mix the rest of the gelatine with the carrot and add that. Let stand a couple of hours. Unmold on a chop plate with a border of lettuce and serve with mayonnaise served from a glass bowl placed in the center of the ring.

Apricot Mousse

1 tablespoon gelatine
¼ cup cold water
1 cup of apricot syrup
1 pint of whipping cream
1 can of apricots run through strainer.

Hydrate gelatine in cold water, heat syrup and pour over gelatine. When mixture commences to jell add to cream which has been whipped until stiff, then add apricot pulp. Place in freezing pan of electrical refrigerator and let freeze for 2 hours. Serve in sherbet glasses.

Cheese Loaf

Remove crust from a loaf of sandwich bread. Slice bread lengthwise. Butter slices on both sides except top and bottom slices. Make fillings as follows:

Red Filling—Four slices ham finely chopped. Three slices crisp bacon fine. One chopped pimento.

Yellow Filling—Yolks three hard cooked eggs seasoned with salt, pepper and ½ teaspoon vinegar.

White Filling — One-half package cream cheese softened with one-half grated cucumber.

Green Fillings — Four small sweet pickles and six sprigs of water cress or parsley chopped fine.

Spread slices of buttered bread with fillings in the order given. Soften three packages of cream cheese with sweet cream and spread on the outside of loaf, as you would in a cake, garnish wih pecans, marachino cherries or colored gum drops cut in small bits. Wrap in damp cloth and keep in cold place several hours before slicing.

SPEEDING WORK ON ROAD JOBS

Contracting Firms Busy in Several Parts of County.

Nothwithstanding the inclement weather, the Holmes Construction company is going forward with the surfacing of the East Rochester-North Georgetown road in West township. Surfacing of this road was started at the Knox-West township line and is being built northward to North Georgetown, where a connection will be made with the Damascus-Valley road. Less than 3,500 feet of concrete remain to be poured, and unless there is weather interference this stretch of road should be completed within seven or eight days of actual work.

The southern end of this road is curing in excellent shape. Earth has been thrown over the top of the road, so that the concrete will not cure too rapidly.

On the East Liverpool-Youngstown road, or intercounty highway No. 502, located north of the Cox highway in Fairfield township, traffic was permitte l over this gap for the first time Thursday of last week, it is announced by County Surveyor Lloyd C. Kirk.

The day the road was opened to traffic, the state highway department sent a crew over the road with the profilometer, which is a depression recording instrument, for the purpose of ascertaining the smoothness of the surface. Under the specifications road contracts are now awarded in Ohio, where depressions of over one-quarter of an inch are recorded, $1 per square yard is deducted from the contract price.

It is announced that a number of contractors who have built roads in this county this year have suffered such reductions, and that similar reductions will be made whenever records disclose that new roads are not smooth.

The Lewis & Copeland Contracting company have ceased operations on the Columbiana-New Waterford road, and no more work will be done on this job until next spring. The company, however, has removed its equipment from this contract to the East Liverpool-Youngstown job, or that part of this new highway extending from Middleton north to the Cox highway. It is proposed to complete this grading job this year, so that the surfacing work can be started early next spring.

The Williamson, Howard & Smith Co., of Youngstown, which has the contract for the grading on the East Liverpool-Youngstown road from Rogers in Middleton township to Williamsport, southward are making favorable progress, but there has been some delay on this job with reference to the construction of the drainage structures. This is on account of the condition of the road over which materials have to be hauled to these bridges and culverts. This situation has caused the delay in getting materials to these particular jobs.

Lewis & Copeland are making slow progress on the grading contract recently awarded them on a section of the East Liverpool-Youngstown road from Williamsport south to the St. Clair township line school. In all probability this concern will cease operations on the two large bridges they are to build over the middle and north forks of Beaver Creek on this part of the road, because of the fact that they are unable at this season to get materi..l, such as concrete, sand and gravel to these jobs.

Herman C. Armstrong of Lisbon is making progress on the new concrete bridge that is being built at Cannons Mill. The same contractor is also working on a new bridge on the East Rochester-North Georgetown road in West township. This bridge is to replace the old one-way structure that has been in use for so many years.

Orders have been issued by County Surveyor Kirk to James W. Groom to complete the grading of the Summitville-Salineville road this season, and before winter sets in. It is proposed to surface this road next season.

COMMISSIONERS OPEN COAL BIDS

Bids for furnishing of coal for the court house and the county garage have been opened by the county commissioners, and a wide range of quotations resulted. The lowest proposal was $4 per ton. A bid of $4.10 per ton delivered for No. 6 screen coal was recorded, and a tentative bid of $4.50 submitted by Joseph Fawcett included any advances the market might record. The bidder also declared that should a decline be noted, that this would be in favor of the purchaser. The highest proposal was that submitted by John Chestnut at $4.75 per ton for run of mine stock.

Marriage Licenses.

A marriage license has been issued by Probate Judge Lodge Riddle to Eugene D. Leipper, a welder, residing at Salem and Elizabeth Cooper Reed, residing at Wellsville and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John T. Cooper. The couple are to be married by the Rev. Collier.

Bruno Sarvara, of Carnegie, Pa., and Bessie Delessandro of New Waterford have obtained a marriage license.

Court Ruling Issued.

A decree for the plaintiff has been handed down in common pleas court, in the case of the People's Savings & Loan company, of Lisbon against John W. Garhart, an action in foreclosure.

GLADYS M. MYLER SEEKS DIVORCE

Through her counsel Attorney P. V. Mackall of East Liverpool, Gladys M. Myler has filed a petition in common pleas court seeking a divorce and alimony from her husband Samuel C. Myler, of 222 California avenue, Lorain, and who is employed in the ship building yards there.

Neglect of duty and infidelity are charged in the petition.

Myler who is 40 years of age was married to the plaintiff Oct. 31st, 1921 at Chester, W. Va. The couple adopted a child at Knoxville, Tenn., which is now in the custody of Mrs. Myler, and the court is asked to award the future custody of this child to her.

Appropriation Approved.

The county commissioners have approved the payment of an appropriation of $1,500 in favor of the Columbiana County Farm bureau. Under a recent law, the Ohio counties are to pay a portion of the upkeep of the county farm bureau.

Farm Land Leased.

H. L. Pegg has taken a lease on farms in Fairfield township for oil and gas drilling purposes, totaling 174 acres. The lease on the farm of J. H. McMillan was for 64 acres, and that on the farm of Laura Hinsdale was for 110 acres.

YOUR SICK CHILD IS CONSTIPATED! LOOK AT TONGUE

Hurry, Mother! Remove poisons from little stomach, liver, bowels

Give "California Fig Syrup" if cross, bilious or feverish

No matter what ails your child, a gentle, thorough laxative should always be the first treatment given.

If your little one is out-of-sorts, half-sick, isn't resting, eating and acting naturally—look, Mother! see if tongue is coated. This is a sure sign that the little stomach, liver and bowels are clogged with waste. When cross, irritable, feverish, stomach sour, breath bad or has stomach-ache, diarrhoea, sore throat, full of cold, give a teaspoonful of "California Fig Syrup," and in a few hours all the constipated poison, undigested food and sour bile gently moves out of the little bowels without griping and you have a well, playful child again.

Mothers can rest easy after giving this harmless, "fruity laxative" because it never fails to cleanse the little one's liver and bowels and sweeten the stomach, and they dearly love its pleasant taste. Full directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups printed on each bottle.

Beware of counterfeit fig syrups. Ask your druggist for a bottle of "California Fig Syrup;" then see that it is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company."

Muskies Confident of Victory Over Downtrodden Denison

Tie for Conference Title Certainty If Magenta Stops Red

Langemen Will Meet Marietta Following Week But That One is Already Counted in; Stronger Competition Looms for Oberlin and Wooster in Miami and Akron Games.

By Stanley D. Koch.

CLEVELAND, Nov. 9.—If there is any logic in the fact that an eleven that has been held scoreless in the past four games, will repeat, you can count Muskingum in for a championship tie in the Ohio conference. Friday, the Magenta plays Denison at New Concord and the big Red has been whitewashed by Ohio, Case, Miami and Wooster on successive weekends. Therefore, all augeries point to a Muskingum victory. On the following Saturday, Marietta is played but that is the least of Coach Lange's worries.

While the five touchdowns scored by Kenyon against the Muskies would indicate that the Magenta line or secondary defense is weak, the final result also shows that Muskingum has the needed power to push over enough scores to win. And that is the secret of a winning team.

Meet Stronger Teams.

On the other hand, Wooster and Oberlin, other leaders, who meet in a battle royal on Nov. 20, play somewhat stronger competition this Saturday. The Oberlin crew plays Miami at Oberlin. Miami has been an in-and-outer but the 27-19 triumph against Mt. Union is a definite achievement. The Bicyclists have the strength of defense that counts and that plus the ability of a backfield composed of Poe, Hansburg, Fleming and Burr, should win.

Wooster, in playing Akron at Wooster, will find the Zippers improved in morale by virtue of the Reserve victory and strengthened in personnel by the return of Captain Wargo, who was out of the last game. However, it will take an enormous change of style to have the Black and Gold lose, for its showing to date has been the neatest of any eleven in the race. A strong forward wall, two exceptional ends and a crashing, driving backfield tell the Wooster story.

Dayton Files Claim.

Dayton enters its championship claim with three probable victories, two in effect now and the third coming when the Flyers meet Ohio Northern at Dayton, Saturday. The Norsemen might win, but Jack isn't climbing bean stalks any more nor do nice fairies give deserving mortals wishing rings.

In addition to the Muskingum-Denison clash, two other conference games are scheduled for Friday. The revived Kenyon eleven plays Mt. Union at Gambier and has a chance to win. The Purple's loss to Miami has served to lower the Mount stock, although Mt. Union scored more points against Miami than any other opponent, including Wittenberg and Ohio Wesleyan.

Marietta, flushed with its initial season's win over Otterbein is due for another fall, when Ohio U. journeys down state to play at Marietta. The Green and White was not imposing in its win over Ohio Northern, but it's still much too strong for the conference babes.

In the homecoming game, Western Reserve entertains Ohio Wesleyan at Cleveland. The Pioneers have fizzled sadly after being the best ballyhooed team in the race, but a win over the Red and Black will save the season for Coach Locke. However, to date, Reserve have proved unsmart and gridiron stupidity plus the lack of a forward pass attack has been the undoing of the Red and White.

The other Fifth City team treks to Berea where Baldwin-Wallace plays Case and should prove little resistance for the growing Scientist drive. Case, after trouble at the hands of Oberlin and Wooster, is setting its star for a win over Western Reserve in the annual classic, but realizes the necessity of defeating Baldwin-Wallace first. And so it will probably obtain.

Last year, Cincinnati defeated Wittenberg, 6-2. This year the accumulated spirit of revenge will, in all chances, heap itself upon the already bent shoulders of the Bearcats and the Lutherans will feel slightly better for the Wesleyan loss. The game is at Cincinnati.

Hiram and Otterbein meet at Hiram to decide a couple of years of battles, inasmuch as last year's fight was a 12-12 affair. It's been aeons and aeons since Hiram won a game and this may be the opportunity, since Otterbein is having a bad season.

Tiger Sharpens Claws.

PRINCETON, N. J., Nov. 9.—After a day of rest, the Princeton eleven began preparing today for the Yale game. Many of the regulars are in a crippled condition as a result of the Harvard contest.

SPORTS DONE BROWN

Demands have already been presented to the Centrol Board of Officials and members of the rules committee in the east that proper action be taken at the winter meeting of the football powers to curb the epidemic of unnecessary roughness which seems to have broken out in the college grid sport this season. At least three games—important ones — have been marred by impromptu no-decision bouts, "getting" parties and unethical tactics.

The proper officials may well consider means of checking these tactics. But in all fairness to the players the officials should also take steps to eliminate any abuses perpetrated by any of the officials assigned to games in their districts.

I am reliably informed that one of the officials working in one of three games mentioned was dismissed years ago from one of the institutions participating and that his work in the game gave every indication that his judgment was biased. If such be the case then the officiating end of the game is not above criticism.

There has been considerable ill feeling for years in the east over the manner of selecting officials from a "preferred" list. Those who attack the system point to the manner in which the matter is handled in the middle west where the referee and umpire are named solely upon their ability.

Seek Pass Defense.

WEST POINT, N. Y., Nov. 9.—A stiff workout was scheduled for the Army squad today as the coaches began preparations for the Notre Dame game. Perfecting a defense against the forward pass is the chief worry of the coaches.

Develop Defensive.

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—The Columbia coaches today concentrated on developing a more powerful offensive against Penn. Mike Sesit, star line-plunger and defensive back, has returned to the squad.

Yale Optimistic.

NEW HAVEN, Nov. 9. — The Yale eleven, demoralized by recent defeats, is looking forward to the Princeton game with optimism following the return of Scott and other regulars. Jack Failing is being tried at right halfback.

Penn Backs Injured.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 9.—Scull and Wascolonis, backs, are Penn's only injured regulars. Two hard scrimmages will be held this week.

ARMY-IRISH TILT SATURDAY

Over 100,000 Applications for Tickets Turned Down.

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—Great oaks from tiny acorns grow and probably those who enjoyed comparative isolation at the first Army-Notre Dame football game on the plains of West Point did not rush home to tell the wife and kiddies that the day would come when the event would make Grimm's fairy tales look plausible by contrast with the spectacle of irate citizens garroting one another for the privilege of paying $50 for a pair of tickets worth six dollars.

The day will come on Saturday. Endow the Yankee stadium with rubber walls for the occasion and it is the estimate of club officials that 200,000 addicts would see the ball game. They say they have turned down at least 100,000 applications to date, exclusive of a lot of people who were too smart to ask.

However, some of the ticket speculators are very dumb and that is the reason a three-dollar ticket today is worth $12.50 to the stupid bloke who holds it. The ticket is expected to double in value by Saturday for the whole town is spending its waking moments on the telephone trying to convince possible ticket sources that they are holding something beside their own.

In brief, the Army-Notre Dame football game, started thirteen years ago for no particular reason, has become the great "public" sport event of the day. St. Louis might have entertained 100,000 at Sportsman's park at any single game of the late world series and the Yankee stadium ran to its baseball capacity of 63,800, except when ideal weather turned up missing at the final game. You couldn't keep the boys away on Saturday with a machine gun.

The Kentucky derby annually plays to 70,000 but there is always room for more in the infield. The Dempsey-Tunney fight drew 127,000 but there were seats quite innocent of occupation. The Big Three series, of course, would sell out, no matter what the capacity might be. But this is not a public institution. It is a closed corporation and so is the California-Stanford game.

The fact that neither Notre Dame nor the Army has been beaten partly accounts for great clamor but, four weeks ago, nobody knew this would be so. Four weeks ago, local officials placed 14,081 seats on public sale and the boys just naturally rioted. The tickets were gone in twenty-four hours and so were the boys but not before the reserves had been called out. No doubt about it, the addicts were very earnest about the thing on that occasion.

They still are. It will be Notre Dame's only appearance in the East this season and that seems to be enough to make anyone lay back his ears and start something. That, in fact, is the tip off on the situation. Both Army and Navy teams are deservedly popular in this section but the Irish, with their showmanship and yearly stars, are nothing short of a stampede. They've made us what we are today, we hope they're satisfied. We are.

'BEAT ARMY' IS IRISH SLOGAN

NOTRE DAME, Ind., Nov. 9.—"The Army team that I saw play last Saturday is so good that if we don't play 50 per cent better football next Saturday than we have at any time so far this year, we're going to be disgraced."

So said Coach Knute Rockne on his return to duties at Notre Dame today.

The campus at once became alive with signs bearing the legend, "Beat the Army." Even the main steps of the administration building, where tradition has it that no under classman shall tread, had one of these sogns tacked gayly on it and the trees on the campus that have remained immune from posters since the mind of man runneth, were duly decked out.

CITIES COMPETE FOR ICE EVENTS

DETROIT, Nov. 9. — Boston, Chicago, Pittsburgh, New York and Detroit were competing for national or international skating championships at the closing sessions of the annual meeting of the International Skating union here today.

W. Carroll Hill, of Boston, was elected president of the union; Frank Kalteaux, of Chicago, first vice president, and Ben Giffen, of Pittsburgh, secretary-treasurer.

The Michigan association's request that Charles Gorman and Roy Moore, skating stars, be suspended indefinitely for not competing in the national outdoor speed skating championships here last February was not allowed.

ALL-AMERICAN GRID CANDIDATES

By Norman E. Brown.

Brown University stands out as the most unusual, if not the strongest team of the year, partly through its feat in going through the victorious battles with Yale and Dartmouth with the eleven men who started the first fray. And one of the outstanding figures of that Brown lineup is Captain Harold Broda, left end.

Broda is probably one of the greatest defensive ends in the game today. He demonstrated his ability clearly in the two games mentioned.

JEFF CRAVATH

His feat in blocking Harris' punt late in the Dartmouth fray gave Brown its chance to score its only touchdown, Towle, Broda's teammate, fell on the ball on Dartmouth's 13-yard line and a forward pass netted the score.

H. BRODA

Newell Cravath, center of the powerful University of Southern California team, has demanded All-American consideration ever since he started playing varsity football. This despite the fact that he has always been outweighed many pounds by the opposing center.

He is an accurate passer and good line smasher on offense and a fast man on defense, frequently intercepting passes tossed over the line.

His work has been a big feature in making Howard Jones' team one of the most powerful on the western side of the Rockies.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LEAGUE FORMED

Eight Clubs Line Up for Floor Battles at "Y"

Organization of the Y. M. C. A.—Sunday school basketball league for the 1926-27 season was perfected at a meeting of team representatives last night at the "Y."

Eight clubs have lined up for the winter's battles, including the Baptists, Presbyterians, St. Stephens, Lutherans, United Presbyterians, Park Boulevards, Methodist Episcopal and Christians.

The league elected the following officers: President, Albert Pittinger; vice president, George Brown; secretary, Harvey Price; treasurer, Frank Lunsford.

The league expects to swing into action immediately after Thanksgiving.

Work on the loop schedule will start at the next meeting on Monday night.

No formal schedule will be prepared for the Junior teams this year, although the youngsters may play preliminary games to the scheduled contests.

GENEVA MAY MAKE TRIP TO FLORIDA

BEAVER FALLS, Nov. 9.—Prospects of Geneva college football team, coached by "Bo" McMillin, making a trip to Jacksonville, Fla., for a New Year's day game were made brighter by the cancellation of the proposed game with the winner of the Rocky Mountain conference in Denver on December 4, college officials said today.

Colorado's failure to win the title caused Denver promoters to cancel the proposed game, the local college was advised. Having tentatively accepted the Denver date, Geneva officials were doubtful whether a second long jaunt to Florida would be permitted.

Whether Geneva goes to Jacksonville depends now upon whether the local team wins the remainder of its scheduled games, it was stated. Simultaneously, a report that Coach McMillin would coach the University of Kentucky team next season was denied by the former Centre college star who said he was well satisfied with his position at Geneva.

RICKARD PLANS NEW FIGHT ARENA

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—With plans in operation for the erection of a fight club in Chicago and the leasing of another in Detroit, Tex Rickard was said today to be contemplating the construction of a modern arena on the site of what is now Boyle's Thirty Acres, Jersey City. It was reported that the wooden bowl which served its purpose for the Dempsey-Carpentier bout would be razed. The new arena, it was estimated, would cost about $1,500,000.

INSIDE GOLF

By CHESTER HORTON,

Maker of 51 Golf Champions. "Golf's most successful teacher," says "Chick" Evans.

Regarding the arms in the back swing and what to do with them, one of the best rules I know of is this:

USE BOTH ARMS TOGETHER

Use your arms as if both arms were one. The hinge, then, between arms and the club are the wrists. This makes a Y out of arms and club. The day the player begins practicing this he will begin the practice of having his arms keep more in unison with the body and club action. They will hold together better. One of the commonest faults of the golf swing is the easily-acquired habit of having the arms "wander!" That is, they fly loose and get away out from the body. This happens because the club is light and offers too little weight to restrain this loose arm action by creating a resistance. The club's resistance should be felt in the fingers.

Scrimmage Sessions For Local Gridders

Hard Week's Work is Outlined by Blue and White Coaches in Preparation for Game With Chester Saturday.

No less than three scrimmage sessions this week, in addition to the customary signal and blackboard drill will give high school footballers plenty to do as they shape up their forces again following the 25.7 disaster at Salem Saturday.

The next contest on the card calls for the appearance of Chester on the local gridiron and the Chester team of 1926 comes to the Ceramic City as a distinct threat, playing a brand of football under the direction of Coach Ray Wilde that is far above and beyond their performance of other years.

Coaches Kidder and Cox put the local squad through a tough scrimmage session last night; another is scheduled for tonight, providing weather permits; and another is on the boards for Wednesday night. And hard drills, with the scrimmage part eliminated then, will continue right up until Friday night, in an effort to correct the mistakes observed by Kidder in the Salem engagement.

The team, as a whole, came out of the Salem encounter in fairly good physical trim, save the customary bumps and bruises.

The Chester game, in the last few weeks, has come to be looked upon as one of the outstanding attractions of the Blue and White schedule and as such is certain to bring out one of the biggest attendances of the season.

Wilde has perfected a smooth working combination at Chester and the boys are full of confidence as they drill at Rock Springs park.

YOST PREPARES 1927 SCHEDULE

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Nov. 9.—Three major games for the 1927 football season have been scheduled by the University of Michigan, it was learned here today.

Ohio State will dedicate the mammoth new Wolverine stadium on October 22, Navy will journey here for a game on November 12, and Minnesota will close the Wolverine season next year with a game on November 21.

Coach Fielding H. Yost will attend the conference meeting in Chicago on November 27 in an effort to schedule another conference team for a home game.

Haskin's Letter

duction and distribution of food and drugs have been altered and improved as a result of this assistance form the Government, and in some instances, it is said, trade practices have been completely revolutionized, to the ultimate benefit and profit of both producer and consumer.

"I am aware," continued the Assistant Secretary, "that there has been some criticism at times of the actions taken by the Department in specific cases. It would be indeed strange if in the development of more than 140,000 cases some error of judgment, some mistake in the interpretation of evidence, had not sometimes occurred. The Department makes no claim of infallibility for its employees, but we are proud of the fact that no breath of scandal has ever shamed our enforcement activities. We accept as part of the reward for service the acknowledged faith of the American people in the integrity of our food supply."

While Government officials feel that the food and drug law is rapidly gaining friends and supporters among those who are subjected to its regulations it is regarded as highly important that the general public understand fully the value of the law. Mr. Dunlap says that the effects of the enforcement of the law have been so beneficient that the present generation does not fully appreciate what conditions might be without this regulatory influence, and it is always possible, although not probable, that a complacent public spirit and feeling of assurance might permit of some tinkering with this great piece of food legislation before a popular sentiment could be aroused that would prevent it.

Created a Furore When Passed

The food and drug law created a furore at the time of its passage in 1906 and it encountered the bitterest hostility among many manufacturers during the first few years of its enforcement. It went into effect January 1, 1907. Many people have long since forgotten its provisions, although they have a vague idea that Uncle Sam does something or other to insure their getting pure food and drugs.

In a general way the law forbids the importation into the United States, the exportation from the United States, the introduction into interstate commerce and the manufacture and sale in the District of Columbia and the Territories, of misbranded and adulterated food and drugs. The term food is defined to include all articles used for food, drink, confectionery or condiment by man or animals. It is to be considered misbranded if any substance has been mixed or packed with it so as to reduce or lower, or injuriously affect its quality or strength; or if any substance has been substituted wholly or in part for the articles; or if any valuable constituent has been wholly or in part removed; or if it be mixed, colored, powdered, coated, or stained so as to conceal damage or inferiority; or if it contains any added poisonous or deleterious ingredient; or if it consist in whole or in part of any filthy, decomposed, or putrid animal of vegetable substance; or if it is the product of a diseased animal, or one that has died otherwise than by slaughter.

It is also to be deemed misbranded if it is an imitation of or offered for sale as another article; or if it be labelled so as to deceive or mislead the purchaser, or purport to be imported when it was not; or if the contents of the original package shall have been removed and other contents put therein; or if it fail to bear a label stating the amount of any certain drug, which are designated, contained therein, or if the label make any kind of false or misleading statement. Unlabelled foods in packages are held to be misbranded, if they are imitations, and untruthful geographical names are forbidden.

In fact, the law is so comprehensive in its provisions that it would be extremely difficult for any manufacturer to sell anything in the way of food or drugs that was not exactly what it should be.

INGROWN NAIL

Turns Right Out Itself

A few drops of "Outgro" in the crevice of the ingrowing nail reduces inflammation and pain and so toughens the tender, sensitive skin underneath the toe nail, that it can not penetrate the flesh, and the nail turns naturally outward almost over night. "Outgrow" is a harmless antiseptic manufactured for chiropodists. However, anyone can buy from the drug store a tiny bottle containing directions.

GLITTER

By Katharine Brush

BOOK FIVE—VII.

After the cold ride in from the Tavern, Yvonne's partment was blissfully warm. Fragrant, too, with the indescribable dim perfume of its owner, and illumined by a single lamp with a fringed shade that etched pencil lines of shadow up the walls. Yvonne allowed her wrap to slip off, and dropped on to the divan, where she sat plying a cigarette in a jade holder. Jock stood over the radiator, thrawing his frost-bitten hands. "Glad you made me come up," he said. "This feels good."

"I wanted to talk to you," Yvonne told him.

Some such explanation was necessary, for usually after their evening's work he left her downstairs in the lobby and himself went immediately on home. "I want to answer that question you asked me," she supplemented.

"Well, I certainly wish you would! I've asked it twenty times tonight if I've asked it once. Why you should have lied like that to Cecily is more than I can figure out."

"It wasn't a lie," said Yvonne.

She saw him wheel like one struck from behind. She dropped her eyes, preferring not to see the set of his face. "My dear boy," she said further, lightly, ironically, "what I told Cecily was quite true. I'm not going to marry you. Not now, nor ever. You haven't enough money."

Still she did not look at him. But she knew he looked at her, and her flair for the theatrical was a help and a protection. She flicked the ashes from her cigarette, laid her head against the back of the divan, and put the holder between her lips again. The whole gesture was indolent; and her little smile gave no sign that behind it her teeth gripped vise-like on the bit of jade.

"In this newspaper job," she continued, "you'll probably begin on a salary of thirty or forty dollars a week—if you're lucky. I had an allowance of seven hundred a week when I lived with Demorest. Make your own deductions. I've made mine. I can't stand poverty, Jock Hamill. I thought I could, but I can't. I've tried it out for a year. . . . You see, you rather fascinated me. Your age fascinated me. I'm thirty-two. That surprises you, doesn't? But it's a fact. And it pleased and flattered me that I should be able to make you—just a boy—love me. Nutriment to some women's vanity is requisite, you know. Especially at thirty-two. They'll go to any lengths to attain it. They'll even give up luxury, for a while, the way I have. But of course that can't last. The time comes when apartments on Park avenue and motor cars and pearls look pretty good again, and collegiate devotion grows stale—"

"In other words, Jock Hamill," she concluded, glancing toward him for the first time, "the game has ceased to be worth the candle."

His face lashed her, so stark-white and stricken it was. Even his lips were white.

He spoke slowly. "Then all this—has been nothing to you—"

"But an interlude." Yvonne stood up, actuated by an odd notion that in repose her body could no longer bear its agony. One thought was uppermost: Jock must go, and quickly, before she faltered in this hideous role and lost herself . . .

"You might go now, Jock Hamill. I don't think there's anything more for either of us to say."

He did not move.

"Oh, go." she cried wildly. "Can't you understand? I don't want you—"

In a stride he was standing close to her, holding her arms with fingers that bit the flesh, forcing her eyes to lift to his. "Yvonne—do you know what you're doing to me?"

"Perfectly. But you'll get over it."

His laugh was dreadful to hear. "Just like that! Throw everything in the dirt and stamp on it—tear every single goddam thing in the world to pieces in a minute—and then say, 'You'll get over it.' Ha! That's very nearly funny—" His voice broke, and there was suddenly less harshness than tenderness in the clutch of his hands. He had a single instant of clear vision. "Yvonne, you don't mean these things. You can't mean them! You've just got that mad idea you used to have—that you ought not to marry me—"

Yvonne pulled herself away from him and stood, cool and contemptuous, at a little distance. "'Ought not!'" she mocked. "Stupid words! I use them now and then, but never in my life have they prevented me from taking anything I really wanted." She concluded, thoughtfully, "For instance: I suppose there are people who would say that I 'ought not' to go back to Parke Demorest. Nevertheless I'm going back to him—tomorrow."

There was an age-long interval while their glances clashed, fire against frigidity. Then Jock turned . . . swooped up his coat . . . and went.

Yvonne sank to her knees and huddled there on the carpet, a little shuddering heap of silk and feathers.

VIII.

For months he honestly believed that he would never be happy again.

So perverse is human nature that when something we have long possessed is taken from us, we do not try to determine whether or not, in our hearts, we still valued it. Theft is theft, even though it removes the thing with which we would have parted voluntarily in a little while. Jock regarded himself as a man who had suffered irredeemable loss; and not until much later did he come to the realization that he had ceased to require what he lost before he lost it.

In the meantime, he was very melancholy, and very sure that without Yvonne nothing under heavens could ever be the same. The first sharp throes of anguish subsided in due time, with the aid of a good deal of bad liquor. Afterward, bitterness and a sense of the futility of all dreams and all desires dwelt in him. This was his reaction. And w[illegible] it ran its course he looked upon life with the eyes of a cynic, and his whole mental state was a sneer. Women? Treacherous. Love? A story-book fallacy. Ideals? As sand huts on a tidal beach, built for destruction.

But there was work. ("Thank God!" said Jock somewhat melodramatically, as young men in like plight have said since time immemorial.) Congenial work. Absorbing work. In a great dirty room full of shirt-sleeved figures, prodigious tables row on row, smooth sheets of copy paper, crumpled wads of copy paper, typewriters that chattered like a million teeth in a chill. air that was dead with smoke and must and dust and printers' ink, and alive—frantic — with breathlessness. . . . From the day of his introduction to the city room of the Log he had only to enter it to feel his spirits lighten. It was a refuge and a resort, a place where the little aches of individuals were forgotten in the mighty birth-pangs of a Thing.

OSTEOPATHY

THE GERM THEORY

IN his four years course of study, the osteopathic physician makes a close study of bacteriology. In the splendid laboratories of the osteopathic college, he learns the types, habits and life of all important micro-organisms.

He knows that "germs" are important factors in SOME diseases. He also knows that in the osteopathic "lesion" he has a new cause for disease not known by any other school of therapy. He can explain why one man exposed to a disease will "take" it it and another man will not.

By keeping the body structure in perfect functioning order, the "germs" have little chance of producing disease.

Mrs. Burton Advises Women on Motherhood and Companionship

"For several years I was denied the blessing of motherhood," writes Mrs. Margaret Burton of Kansas City. "I was terribly nervous and subject to periods of terrible suffering and melancholia. Now I am the proud mother of a beautiful little daughter and a true companion and inspiration to my husband. I believe hundreds of other women would like to know the secret of my happiness, and I will gladly reveal it to any married woman who will write me." The Wages of Folly

WHEN Helen announced her engagement to Joe Ducy, every one agreed it was a "perfect match." With their wonderful plans for the future, they were as happy as could be.

Then Philip Merton, an old school-mate of Joe's, arrived. Helen was instantly conscious of the good looks and fascinating manner of the stranger—and she often wondered what there was about him that attracted her so. And as the days passed, she found a strange transformation taking place within herself—a strange willingness to slip away for long drives with Philip—secret adventures which she thought of as innocent fun.

Then suddenly she found herself whirled into a drama of smashing events the like of which she had never dreamed.

Helen's story, "The Wages of Folly," appears in December True Story Magazine. It not only shows the difference between real love and the cheap imitation, but it will grip your interest and pull at your heartstrings as only a story of real life can do. Don't miss it!

Other Thrilling Features in December True Story are:

"The Uncertain Road"—Left an orphan, while still a young girl, to grope her way through life alone, unguided by the loving counsel of those older and wiser than herself, it is not strange, perhaps, that Betty made mistakes. But even then she might have escaped the crushing misfortune that came to her, if she had followed her own instincts, when she found herself in love with her employer. A heart-touching story every girl should read.

"Baby Fingers"—Abandoned at the height of a storm on an open prairie by her worthless husband—left alone with her helpless baby—Nellie began a battle with the world that few young mothers would care to face. How she afterwards fought to protect herself and child against the wicked plotting of ruthless enemies is an epic of courage and mother-love that will thrill and inspire you, and fill your heart with tender sympathy.

Minister Recommends True Story Magazine

Dear Sirs:

I cannot overestimate the value of True Story Magazine. I would recommend it without reservation to all. I am accustomed to use "Dramatic Story" sermons, taking the theme from some great book or inspiring magazine story. Already I have used three stories from the True Story Magazine before my great audiences of over 1400 people with great success. I watch for the arrival of your magazine with great interest, anticipating the finding of some great story to use as the basis of a dramatic address.

The True Story Magazine is something that the American people need.

Respectfully yours,
Rev. Laurence Breed Walker
